D. GAY
Chiropractic for Headaches

The most commonly encountered headaches are vascular headaches, including migraine, and tension headaches which arise from sustained contraction of the muscles of the head and neck. The headaches associated with fever and septicemia probably rank next in frequency and then some of those associated with hypertension, nasal, ear, tooth and eye disease. The headaches of brain tumour, abscess, and meningeal hemorrhage constitute a very small proportion of pains in the head. Dilation and distension of cranial arteries, the end result caused by foreign proteins, fever, 'hangover' headache, and certain emotional states, has been shown to be a probable mechanism causing headaches.

Many headaches can also be traced to constipation, liver and bilious upsets, gastric disturbances and disease, so that while the referred pain may be in the head region, it is an indication that tissues and organs somewhere else in the body are not functioning normally. To merely treat the head symptoms, or suppress the pain without determining the cause, can, in time, lead to a more serious disease. Chiropractic maintains that in order to function normally, tissues and organs must have a proper nerve supply and this is controlled by your brain, the Central Nervous System and the continuation of it, the spinal cord, which is enclosed in the vertebral column. Any spinal abnormalities or sustained muscular contraction will decrease the nerve and blood supply to organs involved, bring about tissue changes and set up a pain reaction.

SHOPPING CENTRE DEBATE INTERESTING CLUB FEATURE
The Business and Professional Women met for their regular dinner meeting at the Jack 'O Lantern on Monday the 24th. After dinner several pieces of business were discussed — and a study of a portion of the by-laws was made particularly regarding that section dealing with nominations.
Final plans were made for Games Night which is being held on Monday, April 14th in the Legion auditorium. Mrs. John Patterson is convener of the affair.
It is the usual practice at such a meeting to have a guest speaker but on this occasion the members, twenty of them, joined in a debate "Resolved that the proposed shopping centre will be beneficial to Georgetown." The debaters were not allowed to choose which side they would be on but each of the twenty drew a slip designating the side so that the opinions given were not personal ones. Mrs. Nellie Gardiner was chairman. Mrs. Win Wallace captain of the affirmative and Mrs. W. Gwizdala captain of the negative with Mrs. Art Scott, Miss Jennie McDougall and Miss Nora Kranitz as judges. Both sides brought forth some very good points and it certainly set everyone thinking seriously about the subject. After a very spirited debate and rebuttal on both sides the judges decision was that the affirmative had won by ten points. It was decided that in view of the fact that the members enjoyed the evening so much they would hold another debate at a later date. The meeting closed with the benediction and creed.
