ASHGROVE

EASTER SERVICE HELD IN ASHGROVE CHURCH

A beautiful Easter service was held in the church on Sunday morning. Yellow daffodils and white lilies brightened the front table. The choir sang the anthem "Crown Him Lord of All" and Barbara Cunningham's solo "Open the Gates of the Temple" were very appropriate. Mr. Brown's sermon was on the words of Mary Magdalene "I have seen the Lord." Easter is Resurrection and New Life, also the miracle that Jesus was buried in the tomb but rose again and when Mary went to the tomb she recognized her Lord. Christ is risen, let us worship Him, by his loving forgiveness, he sets the prisoner free. This is the resurrection. Let us say with Mary "I have seen the Lord." Visitors at the service were Mrs. S. Gowland and Mrs. R. H. Wright of Georgetown, Miss Olive Ruddell of Hamilton, Virginia and Robert Anderson of Montreal, and Mrs. George Kennedy of Milton. On Friday evening, March 28th Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Wickson entertained a number of their old neighbours and friends from Appleby where they formerly lived. Last week-end Mrs. R. J. Graham enjoyed a visit in Brampton with her friend, Mrs. Peter Dick. Master Kenney Alderson of Drumquinn spent Easter holidays with his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Bridgen. The weather on Easter Sunday wasn't very cooperative for the ladies new outfits, but we did need that rain, and there'll be lots more occasions for the wearing of new bonnets when gentle spring decides to stay with us.

Combines Edge Smith & Stone 5-4

A spectacular goal by Bud Haines with just 22 seconds to go in the game enabled the Combines to snatch victory from the hands of the favoured Smith and Stone team when it looked as though they were on their way to their second straight Georgetown industrial league championship last Sunday afternoon at Georgetown arena. Haines' winning goal was scored at the 19.38 mark just eight seconds after Hilts of Smith and Stone ran into a holding penalty. Haines also notched the one that tied the score at 4-all less than a minute earlier. The fifth and deciding game has been scheduled for Saturday night at the arena with game time 8:30. Ritchie and Haines clicked at 2.10 of the first to put the red shirts into an early lead which stood up until 16:04 when Mossop knotted things up with his goal from Webster. The Combines collected the lone marker in the middle session, Richardson to Burns to Mike George the combination at 17:35. Leigh Bradbury banged in the equalizer on an unassisted rush after five minutes had gone by in the third but Dave Boxford nullified that one with his tally from Wayne Pries at the 8:40 mark. Back to back-goals by Harold Hilts and Jim Beckett, the first from Don Jarvie at 13:58, the second from Bradbury 32 seconds later gave S & S the edge that almost carried the green and white to the title, but Haines and the Combines refused to play dead. There were ten penalties in the contest, Ritchie with two, Baxter Tucker and Hearn for the Combines, Kearney, Hall, Gibbs, Freestone and the costly one, Hilts for Smith and Stone.

Jehovah Witness School at Guelph

Wilmer E. Drager, well-known in Ontario as a circuit supervisor of Jehovah's Witnesses, together with his wife, graduated Sunday, February 9th, from the Watchtower Bible School of Gilead, South Lansing, New York. Following graduation they have been assigned to the central Ontario area, where Mr. Drager will serve as supervisor for approximately 20 congregations of the Witnesses. Gilead School training followed a 30-year ministry for Drager. His work as a special organizer and lecturer has taken him to most parts of Canada, the United States and Europe. Speaking of the graduation, Mr. Drager said, "Spreading good news earth-wide might be the theme of our unusual missionary school." He explained: "Everywhere people are in fear, not knowing the Bible's simple solution to the problems the world faces. However, in this world of crime and delinquency there is sure confidence in a change—a change that is promised in God's Word, but that is coming in His way, not man's." "The scriptural studies here at Gilead School," Mr. Drager explained "have sharpened our appreciation of the fact that we are living in history's most momentous time, and now our work is to show people where these events are indicated in their own bibles and how we are at the time when this God-promised change will occur." He commented that Gilead's sole purpose is the training of Christian ministers to aid in the Witnesses' world-wide bible educational work. To aid in this, graduates have received training in bible doctrine and prophecy, missionary service, biblical law, public speaking, bible research and archaeology, geography, bible manuscripts and congregation organization. Gilead Bible School has played a great part in the expansion of the Witnesses' international activity, now carried on by nearly three-quarters of a million persons in 164 lands throughout the earth. "This activity is leading to such rapid growth," Mr. Drager stated, "that 60,000 new ministers are added to the Witnesses' ranks every year." During the past 15 years, Gilead School, sponsored by the Watchtower Society, the directing agency for Jehovah's Witnesses, has received over 3,000 students from 59 countries. It has given them an intensified course of Christian missionary training and has sent them out as ministers to more than 100 lands. Students of the present 30th class, with which Mr. and Mrs. Drager graduated, were assigned to 24 countries, including Paraguay, Peru, Argentina, Haiti, North Borneo, East Africa, Honduras, Morocco, Nyasaland, Bolivia, Venezuela, France, Northern Rhodesia, British Isles, Columbia, Norway, Korea, Israel, Elre, Singapore, Guatemala, Ecuador, United States and Canada. Two thousand relatives and friends of the graduates attended the week-end program in South Lansing, New York.

AMERICAN EDITORIAL OPINION ON CANADIAN FED. ELECTION

Editorial opinion in the St. Petersburg Times 'about the federal election will be interesting to Canadians, and we are indebted to a former Georgetown, Don McLaughlin, who now lives at Belleair Beach, Florida, for a clipping sent this week from the south. Headed "Canada Declares Her Independence" the editorial says: "The overwhelming victory of Canadian Prime Minister John Diefenbaker and his Conservative party for the second time within a year is not only a reflection of a hard-boiled attitude in Canada. It is in effect a declaration of economic independence from the United States. Liberal leader Lester B. Pearson, who went down to defeat in his challenge to the Conservatives, is one of the best friends the United States has ever had. But even he found it necessary during the campaign to join the Conservative chorus of criticisms of the United States.

Does this mean Canada is changing in its attitude toward the United States and the traditional friendship that has been an example to the world? Not at all. The Canadian - U.S. border is still the safest and least-guarded border in the world. And the United States and Canada, as members of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, are two of the most powerful joint supports of this free world alliance.

But there have been steady indications during the past few years of Canadian resentment of one-sided unimaginative U.S. policies and, in several instances, outright meddling in Canadian affairs.

Canada is one of the world's great producers of wheat, next to the United States. But when the United States decided to get rid of some of its surpluses, we did it without regard to upsetting Canadian markets in a revival of the dumping which the United States complained about when other countries did it 20 years ago.

Canada also developed its oil resources at its western border, principally to help supply the U.S. Northwest which is a long way from sources of supply in the United States. But President Eisenhower only recently cut the imports of "foreign" oil to protect our "infant" oil industries in Texas and California.

Prime Minister Diefenbaker already has begun retaliating against the United States with a program to switch some 15 per cent of Canadian trade with the United States to Britain. In a time of recession, since Canada is our biggest customer, this can be a powerful blow against the U.S. economy.

During the first Diefenbaker campaign nine months ago, Canadian resentment at the United States centered on the suicide of a Canadian diplomat in Cairo after U.S. sources had made public confidential reports on his character. This resentment was reawakened in the second Diefenbaker campaign when the U.S. Ford Motor Co. reportedly banned the export by its Canadian branch of 1,000 passenger cars to Red China.

Regardless of the merits of the case, Canada resented the arbitrary interference of U.S. interests in Canadian affairs, in behalf of a U.S. foreign policy with which Canadians do not necessarily agree. "We have the right to determine our own destiny at all times in our own way and without dictation in any way from any other country," Diefenbaker said in commenting on the situation.

There's no reason why Diefenbaker should not be as good a friend as previous Canadian leaders. But U.S. leaders must realize that they must be friends of Canada, and work out creative policies jointly as equals — not through dictation and imposition by the United States.
