140 CNE Prize Ribbons For Sunset Farm Poultry

A silver spangled hamburger pullet shown by Corey E. Herrington, Ballinafad, was runner-up for champion standard pullet entered in the CNE poultry show.

Mr. Herrington, who operates his business under the Sunset Farm name, and who is also publisher of the monthly newspaper, Feather Fancier, came home with some 140 prize ribbons from his numerous entries at the show. It was the first year in a decade that he had not also been judging. He has been showing since 1911.

Sunset Farm had top displays of Silver Spangled Hamburgs, Anconas and silver unbarred polishes. Among the large variety of birds which shared in the prize money were buff orpington, buff rock, buff leghorn, single comb mottled anconas, black hamburger, silver grey dorking, houdans, black australorp, golden unbarred polishes, bearded buff laced polishes, black minora. Several varieties of bantams shown included buff cochin, black cochin, black minora, bearded silkie, unbarred silkie, white leghorn, modern black red, birchen and white game, OE spangled game and OE red pyles.

Lloyd Miller and Clarence Spence were two other local men showing at the fair. Mr. Spence showed a pair of polish bantams and Mr. Miller showed black australorp and houdans, winning a prize on the former.

the soil is dry press in with a lawn roller. A mulch of straw spread thinly over the seeds and watered is a good insurance for a successful growth.

Unless lawns receive very special attention, weed infestations are inevitable after a few years. Broad leaved weeds such as dandelions, plantains and creeping charlie may be controlled safely by spraying with 2-4-D, if instructions on the label are followed faithfully. The spray is most successful in the spring or in September when the weeds are growing well. Crab grass and chickweed are harder to eradicate but there are several chemicals on the market which are quite effective. When the lawn is not too heavily infested, hand pulling after a rain is an excellent way to get rid of the weeds in a hurry.

For a lawn that is not in good condition, it is often practical to improve the sod by renovation process. Secure enough good weed free top soil to spread about one inch over the entire area, then apply a balanced fertilizer at the rate of 25 lb. per 1,000 square feet, rake this so called top dressing evenly into the existing grass.

About a week later seed with around 2 to 3 pounds grass seed per 1,000 square feet; roll with lawn roller and cover with thin coating of straw.

Satisfactory results may be obtained from either of the above operations if seeding takes place in the early spring or the fall. Actually the middle of August until the middle of September is the best time, especially if mulching with straw is a problem. At this season of the year we usually get sufficient rainfall, the temperature is still high enough for seed germination, yet the sun is not quite so hot. In other words you should have a better chance of securing a good weed-free lawn.

Acton Publisher is Made Life Member of Canadian Weekly Assoc.

Six veterans of the weekly newspaper industry were named honorary life members at the 39th annual convention of the Canadian Weekly Newspapers Association at the King Edward Hotel. The award is the highest honour conferred by the CWNA.

The six publishers, with a total of more than 260 years of weekly newspaper experience, are Charles J. Allbon, of the Springhill (N.S.) Record; William H. Cranston of the Midland (Ont.) Free Press Herald; George A. Dills of the Acton (Ont.) Free Press and the Canadian Champion, Milton, Ontario; H. T. Halliwell of the Macleod (Alberta) Gazette; Roy P. MacLean of the Kelowna (B.C.) Courier; and Harry B. Munro of the Swan River (Manitoba) Star and Times.

A past president of the CWNA and Nova Scotia Weekly Newspapers Association, Mr. Allbon was born in Springhill in 1896 and during the First World War he was decorated with the military cross by King George V. During World War II he commanded the Second Reserve Battalion of the North Nova Scotia Highlanders.

He began newspapering at Perdue, Saskatchewan, in 1919, and after 6 months took charge of the Asquith (Saskatchewan) Record, which he operated until 1928 when he moved back to Springhill and purchased the Springhill Record.

The Record lost its plant in a disastrous fire in December, 1957, which also destroyed much of the business section of Springhill. A new plant is in operation.

Mr. Cranston is the son of the late Dr. J. H. Cranston, editor for 21 years of the Toronto Star Weekly and later editor and publisher of the Midland Free Press. Born in Toronto in 1914, he started his newspaper work as a reporter on the Toronto Star in 1929, and today follows his father as editor and publisher of the Midland paper.

Apart from his newspaper work he is executive vice-president of the Shoe Corporation of Canada's five shoe and plastic plants.

Under his guidance the Midland Free Press has several times won the Williams Cup for the leading editorial page among non-daily papers as well as the Mason trophy for the best all-round large circulation weekly.

Mr. Cranston is president and co-founder of the Huronia Museum at Midland and honorary life president of the Huronia Historic Sites and Tourist Association as well as chairman of the Ontario

Archaeological and Historic Sites Board.

In 1956 he was deputy reeve of the town of Midland and has been active in many community activities. During the war he was special assistant to Donald Gordon of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board.

Mr. Dills was born in Port Dover, Ontario in 1893, and started newspaper work in 1909 on the Acton (Ont.) Free Press which he purchased in 1927 and in 1943 he bought the Canadian Champion at Milton, Ont.

Mr. Dills is a charter member of the Ontario Weekly Newspapers Association which has named him "Weekly Newspaperman of 1958." He is CWNA director and chairman of its Executive Committee.

Mr. Halliwell was born in London, England, in 1881 and in 1903 came to Canada and started the Oxbow (Sask.) Herald. After several years on weeklies in Saskatchewan he took over as publisher of the Macleod Gazette in 1940.

Mr. Halliwell is past president of the Alberta Division CWNA and a past president of the CWNA. He has also held office as secretary and vice president of the Saskatchewan Division CWNA.

Mr. MacLean was born in Picton, Ontario, where his family has controlled the Picton Times

THIS EXHIBITION VISITOR GAVE SOMETHING AWAY

One in a million persons to visit the CNE turned the tables on a long standing CNE give away tradition. He was a small boy who entered the exhibition grounds with 50¢ tucked away in his pocket. It was a very special fifty cents. He made his way with great determination to the Ontario Government Building and sought for a very special booth. When he found it, he went up to one of the women on duty and said: "My cousin died of cancer. Here is fifty cents for the Canadian Cancer Society." The yellow-smocked Canadian Cancer Society volunteer took the fifty cents, gave him a receipt and watched him walk away.

One of the 400-odd volunteers who are manning the exhibit in relays, Mrs. A. March said that the small boy's contribution was probably one of the most sincere offerings the Canadian Cancer Society had ever received as it was really something to have been the one to accept it.

since 1885. On leaving school he worked for the Canadian Churchman and other church papers and was in advertising for a number of years. In 1934 he became editor of the Picton Times and four years later went west as publisher of the Kelowna (BC) Courier, where he has seen circulation grow from 300 to over 4,600.

Mr. Munro was born in Edinburgh, Scotland, in 1883, and came to Canada in 1904 to work for the old Toronto Globe. A year later he moved to Port Arthur and started a weekly, the Port Arthur News, forerunner of today's News Chronicle daily. In 1910 he moved to The Pas, Manitoba, and was soon putting out The Pas Herald. In 1929 he moved to Swan River.

WEED CONTROL NEWS

Halton Weed Inspector
WEED FREE LAWNS

One of the best ways to insure a weed free lawn is to grow a stand of grass, so thick that the weeds never get a chance to establish themselves. This however, is easier said than done, many requirements are necessary to establish and maintain a perfect lawn and there are few homes in Halton county in which some weeds cannot be found. To be sure, nothing makes a fine home appear less attractive than a front yard full of weeds.

When making a new lawn it is well to remember some of the basic requirements. You must have good soil which will encourage good growth, fertile enough to grow healthy plants and preferably free from weed seeds. When the area is worked and settled to a fine seed bed a proper seed mixture for the soil type and location should be carefully selected. Sow the seeds on the surface and if
