INVITE ROTARY LADIES TO INSTALLATION NIGHT

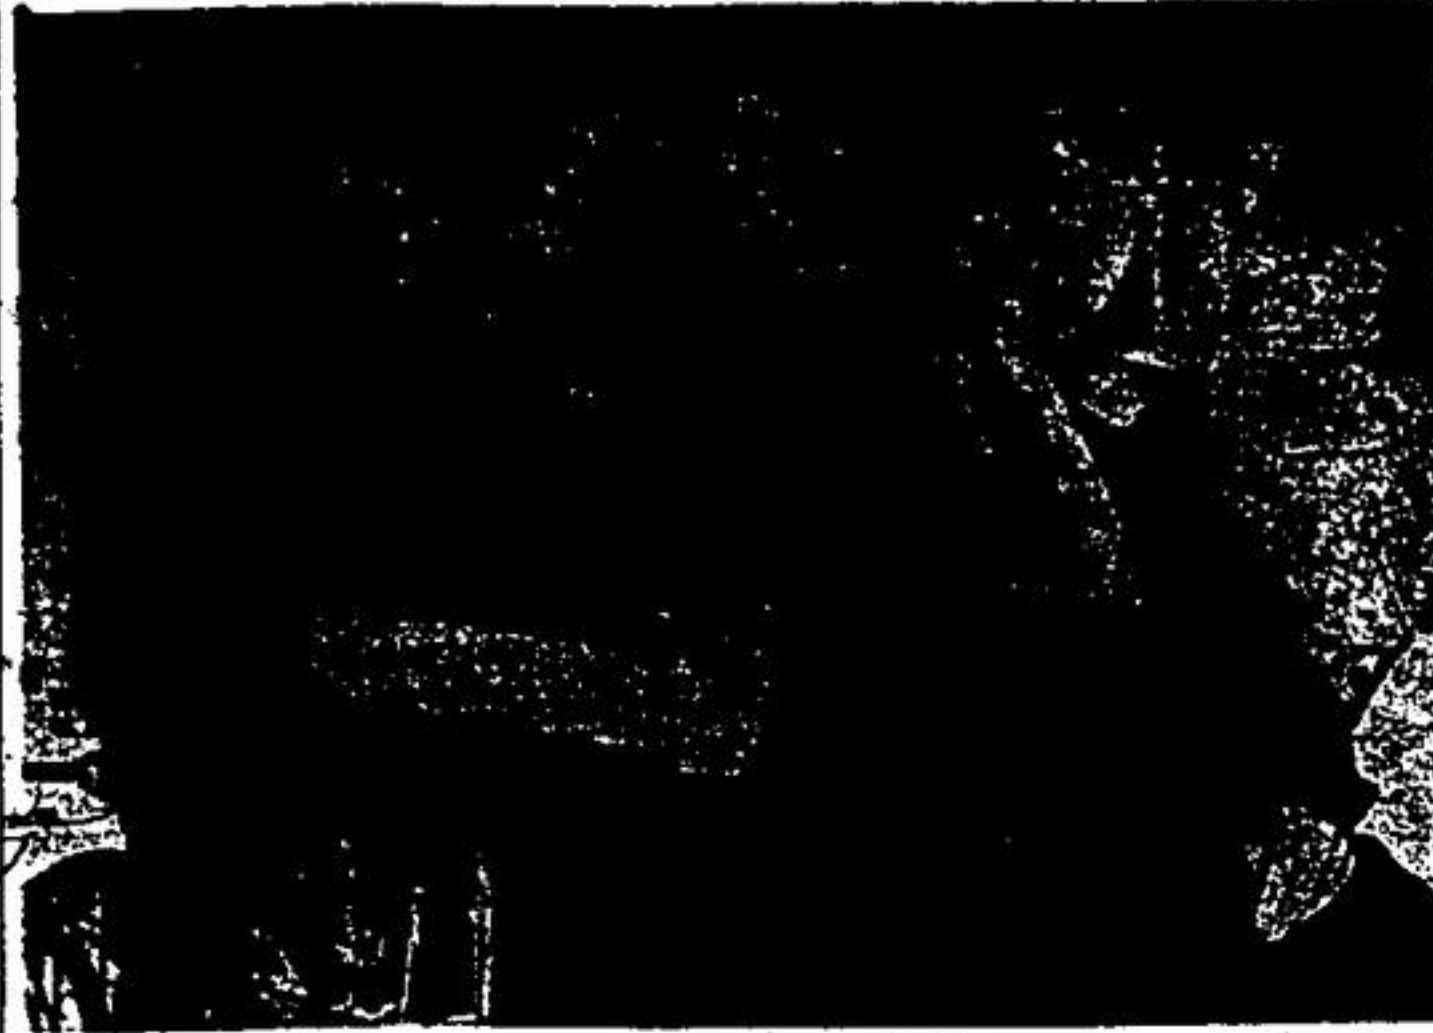

The Rotary Club met on Monday evening, July 13th, for their last meeting under the 1958-59 officers. The next meeting will be held at the usual place, North Halton Golf & Country Club, next Monday, with the installation of officers taking place. As a special feature the ladies are invited and will be present for the installation.

There was a goodly number at this week's meeting with the business portion of the evening being held after dinner. President Bill Hamilton gave a number of reports and read some correspondence.

Some discussion took place regarding the possibility of there being needy children whose parents are unable to pay for their swimming. Bob Gougeon was left to investigate this and to help if possible.

John Wolfe gave a report on the recent auction sale, and it was announced that already a number of phone calls had been received asking that items be picked up for the next year's sale.

One visitor was present all the way from Revelstoke, B.C., while two were also present from the neighbouring Milton Rotary Club. Ken Nash was given the job of arranging the forthcoming Rotary golf tournament.

A HAPPY OCCASION shared by family and friends was the diamond wedding celebration of Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Brandford, 28 Queen St. Married in England, and residents of town and district for much of their married life, Mr. and Mrs. Brandford had numerous callers during an open house to mark the day. —Photo by Ed Peters

Third Issue of "Challenge" Compiled by GHS Students

The student body of Georgetown high school have again pooled their writing talents to produce the optimum of high school life in a sixty page booklet they call "The Challenge."

This year's edition is the third since the yearbook was revived by interested students in 1956 and the experience gained by the contributors through the two previous successes is reflected in the professional-like reports which have captured the excitement and the "esprit de corps" associated with the term highlights.

From cover to cover the book is a picture dotted chronology of GHS 1958-59 and a souvenir that will accumulate nostalgic value for the present alumni with the passing years.

Elizabeth Sloan and Carolyn Biehn headed the very capable yearbook staff comprising Judy Bonathan, Mike O'Brien, June Lyon, Sharin Harley, Margaret Eason, Dave Greenway, Sandra Sproule, Ken Beam, Tom Forgrave, and two members of the teaching staff, George Kaye and Allan Dobson assisted as advisors.

Literary contributions include the principal's message by J. I. Lambert, a message from the high school district board by local appointee Fred Masterman, editorials by Elizabeth Sloan and Carolyn Biehn, and the individual class reports.

Marilyn Barth penned grade 1's class sketch; Ian Murray and Gary Teeter, grade 11A; Carolyn Taylor 11B; Brian Lewis 11C; Joyce Trabley, 11D; Catherine Hunter, 10A; Brenda Dawson, 10B; Darwin Tost, 10C; Barbara Schrag, 10D; Sharon Swales, 9A; Carolynne Hallitt, 9B; Elaine Greenwood, 9D; Gail Parker and Pat Harris, 9E.

Virginia Walker looks into the workings of the school's bi-monthly publication in her report on "High Tales" and the extra curricular administration gets the same treatment in Lynn Scott's review of the Student Council. Peter Glynn mused onings on in the book worm set in his "Amiel Librorum" and Joyce McLean recalls high points of the choir year in her report on "Music."

The inter-school Christian Fellowship, an experimental organization was very successful in its first term, is scanned by its president, Carol Lane. Judy Bonathan probes the annual money maker the "Bazaar" and Sharin Harley and Ken Beam recapture the thrills of the sports world in a three page athletics coverage.

The Stardust Ball heads a parade of social events reported on by Sandra Sproule and Karen Norton and the annual commencement exercises are relived in "Commencement," a review by Judy Bonathan. Rosemary Young and Tom Barber add scientific and military slants in their reports on the "Science Club" and "Cadets" and the book is brought to an appropriate conclusion with a history of the school, Paulene Watson and Joan Cummins handling the research.

Mr. McLean was born in Erin Township and still has vivid recollections of farmers using oxen for ploughing. In fine health, he is quite active, and attributes his good health to putting his trust in God from day to day.

COUPLE TO LIVE IN GEORGETOWN

Knox Presbyterian manse, Acton, decorated with summer flowers, was the scene of a pretty wedding when Miss Ann Faber, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Rauke Faber, R R 2, Acton, became the bride of William Charles Ingles, son of Mrs. Ernest Ingles and the late Ernest Ingles, of 90 Main Street, Acton.

Rev. Andrew McKenzie officiated at the ceremony. The bride was given in marriage by her brother, Peter Faber, and attended by her sister, Miss Rennie Faber as maid of honor. Allan Ingles of Georgetown was best man.

Miss Faber chose a street length dress of pale green lace over taffeta, Pincess style, fashioned with brief sleeves, and a bateau neckline forming a V at the back. Two panels of taffeta fell from the fitted bodice. A matching cap of nylon held her shoulder-length veil of illusion tulle. She carried a cascade of red and white roses.

UNION REJECTS PAY CUT IN AVRO BID FOR ORDER

The International Association of Machinists has rejected a request by Avro Aircraft Ltd. that workers take a wage cut in order to place the company in a more favorable position to compete for a contract to build U.S.-patent planes for the RCAF.

The wage problem will be an issue next month when the existing contract, which expires in October, becomes open for renegotiation.

Avro's proposal for a wage cut was based on the fact that the wages of its two competitors for the Defense Department contract — Canadair Ltd. in Montreal and de Havilland in Toronto are lower than at Malton.

Wages at Avro range from $1.68 to $2.54 an hour. A five cent an hour increase was negotiated just before cancellation of the Arrow program, but the contract was not signed until after the drastic cut-back in staff.

Avro now has about 2,300 employees most of whom maintain RCAF planes in service.
