Demonstrate Arts, Crafts Caledon East Saturday

The Mother's Auxiliary of the Caledon East Guides and Scouts, Cubs and Brownies are sponsoring an arts and crafts demonstration and sale at Poplar Park, Caledon East on Saturday, November 7th in the afternoon and the evening. This has become an annual affair to raise funds for these two worthwhile organizations. This year there will be two special guests at the affair, Robert Muma, who is an expert leathercraftsman and bookbinder wellknown for his designs and for his texts on leatherwork. Margaret Graeb is the other, a sculptor who works in wood and stone. These two will be talking to the guests and giving demonstrations of their work. The other craftsmen who will demonstrate are: Miniatures, Marjorie Meredith; hairpin lace, Clare Vale; Spinning, Edna Blackburn; herbs and vinegars, Mr. and Mrs. Atkinson; Pottery, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Heyman; Wrought Iron, Robert Wilson; Silversmith, Charles Smith and leather costume jewellery, by Daphne. These craftsmen are all from the Caledon area.

The Caledon people feel that this show is a worthy effort not only in the work among the children through Scouts and Guides but also in giving the crafts people an outlet for their wares and creating interest in handicraft in the area.

The Gremlins Came to Our House Saturday

contributed by Mr. and Mrs. Shell Lawr

The gremlins came to 27 Ewing St. Saturday night.

They came in the back door and front. They were big, they were small — they were short and they were tall — and some were just plain scary.

This may not be a record, but it is for us. Before we put the lights out at a little after 8:00 p.m., the count was 41 at the back door and 121 at the front, for a grand total of 162 plus one goat.

This we thought was the best costume of the night. Two little boys, one leading a goat and the other carrying a small shovel. They were dressed as mountain hillbillies. We could only guess what the show was for. Needless to say we didn't let them in to find out.

Avian Gyro Nears Test Point Hope 2500 Yearly Production

Whether or not Avian Industries Limited will blossom into its potential as one of the town's major industries will hinge on a series of tests to be carried out on the company's gyroplane during the next two weeks.

The preliminary tests will be held at an out of town airrome and if successful a date will be named for the official flight test. The gyroplane is a vertical takeoff aircraft said to be cheaper to operate than an automobile and as easy to fly as a conventional light plane.

A combination of a helicopter and the relatively ancient autogyro, the plane, according to Peter Payne, the firm's president, will cost about seven cents a mile to operate.

Avian Industries hopes to sell 5,000 gyroplanes a year with all but 250 going to the United States. US and Canadian defense officials have been studying the gyroplane and negotiations with them are continuing.

The gyros will cost $10,000 each.
