Best Ontario Deer Hunting Close to Manitoba Border

The best deer hunting in the province is still to be found in the Western Region close to the Manitoba boundary, the Ontario Department of Lands and Forests reports in its review of the 1959 deer season.

In this area there has been a substantial increase in deer since 1955-56. The results of the checks on the hunt are not yet complete and the only figures so far available are for 347 hunters interviewed in the Kenora District. They had a success rate of 55%. These data are too restricted to give a good indication of the success of the hunt for the whole Western Region, the report points out.

Severe Winter
Surveying the provincial picture, the Department reports: "It will be remembered that almost the whole of the deer range lying east of Lake Superior experienced a severe winter in 1958-9. A poorer season was anticipated as a result of this. While most Districts showed an overall decline in hunters' success over 1958 it is clear that there were some areas which produced well while others were in fact poor."

"Most of the Districts recorded fewer yearlings in the kill than in 1958. A detailed analysis of the data collected has been completed. It is likely that it will be found that this decline is confined to certain local areas."

"Most Districts reported an average fawn crop. This may be accounted for by the fact that the late spring when it came was a good one with no late frosts and bad weather."

South District
"The Sault Ste. Marie District stood apart from the rest of the province in that it had one of the worst deer seasons in years. This was not entirely unexpected since last winter was one of the hardest recorded in over 70 years. The field staff put great effort into manning three checking stations at Sault Ste. Marie, Thessalon and Iron Bridge. The success rate of hunters was very low and it apparently took an average of 32 man-days to kill each deer. This is almost double the effort recorded in previous years. Some of the 4,454 hunters that were contacted probably passed through the checking stations more than once so that the 4% hunters' success recorded is probably too low. The age composition of the kill for this District suggests reasons for the very poor hunt. The 3 1/2 year old age class was the most abundant in the kill. The fawn crop was only 19% of the total kill while yearlings comprised only 19% of the adult deer taken instead of a healthy 40%. Only 2% of the kill were 6 1/2 years of age or older."

Pembroke District
"The Pembroke District suffered a decline in hunters' success in 1959. The success of 1,151 hunters was 30% as compared with 35% recorded in 1958. Pending final analysis of the data collected it appears that certain areas may have suffered as a result of the severe winter last year. This was offset by the abundance of deer in other areas."

Lindsay District
"The Lindsay District staff operated three checking stations during the deer season. Data on the success of 4,421 hunters are available. Their success rate was 23% compared with 25% in 1958. Considering the severe winter conditions that prevailed in 1958-59 the herd appears to have suffered less than expected, there was an average crop of fawns and yearlings showed up in the kill in average numbers."

Tweed District
"The usual checking stations at Kalar and Milbridge were operated by the Tweed District staff in 1959. Data collected from 3,321 hunters are available. In spite of the good hunting weather which prevailed over most of the District during the early part of the season hunter success declined. About 26% of the hunters got their deer compared with 30% who were successful in 1958. Only a slight decline over 1958 in the proportion of fawns and yearlings was noticed in the kill."

South Bay District
"In the South Bay District (mainland) the weather interfered with the hunt. Snow and freeze-up came early and discouraged some hunters who gave up without spending any time in the bush. Deer tended to concentrate early on their wintering range and camps located in such areas did well. 1,116 hunters were checked with a hunter success of 24% and it took on the average 14.4 man-days to bag a deer. For the total of adult deer aged so far only 19% were yearlings. Many laws collected on field checks trict produced a very poor hunt. In Brougham Township in Renfrew County and South Canoe Township in Frontenac County this was particularly marked. However this was offset for other areas by a very good kill. "It is evident that the elk herd in the Aspley area has been extending its range into Tweed District and there are reports of several animals being tagged by lucky deer hunters."

Kemptville District
"The Kemptville District lay outside the area affected by last winter's severe snow conditions and it is apparent that hunters' success was as good as it was in 1958 which was an excellent season. Actual figures will not be available until the reports from organized hunt camps are all received."

"Over 600 deer were aged by the field staff and an unusual number of old deer turned up in the kill."

Norfolk District
"In the Huron District a total of seven counties were open to deer hunting this fall. The six day season in Bruce and Grey Counties produced a success rate of 24% among the 1,070 hunters checked. This is a little over 1% better than in 1958. In the Counties of Huron, Waterloo, Wellington, Brant and Oxford 2,172 hunters were checked. They had killed 288 deer for a 13% success rate. Hunting pressure throughout those parts of this District open was relatively light and no reports of property damage were received."

Revolver Trophy is Reclaimed, Streetsville

Georgetown's crack revolver team brought the S G trophy back from Streetsville last Wednesday night after outshooting the Streetsville Club 50 to 36, a 14 point margin.

Streetsville who captured the trophy in competition here last month proved no match for local club who seem to do their best shooting away from home. Streetsville will be back at the Limehouse range next month attempting to reclaim the mug.

Georgetown's team comprised Norm Maher, Ron Warnock, Ab Whitney, Ron Challenger, Bob Furling, Earl Walters and Leyland McLachlan.

Hunters Association Entertains Scouts

Georgetown Anglers & Hunters association were host to boys of the 2nd Georgetown Scout troop last week when they entertained at the clubhouse at Hickory Falls.

The boys saw movies and were instructed by Don Powers in the care and handling of firearms. Hot dogs and hot chocolate were served afterwards.

May the old year leave you with many pleasant memories ... the New Year bring many happy days.

LEGION NOTES

by Les Clark

Thursday is the Legion New Year's Eve ball, and as per usual we expect there will be a big crowd on hand for it. Everything is laid on and it is expected that this will be the biggest crowd attending yet.

Well, good to see he's back again. It has been so long since we've seen or heard of him, that we thought he'd passed on to his great reward. It was a pretty shabby trick, tho', or he must have bribed somebody, to use the picture taken when he was playing hockey some fourteen years ago. To any of our new readers, we refer to that hockey story of two weeks ago, with a picture captioning the article of the Raiders coach, none other than Scotty "Jolly Jaw" Patterson. To be serious, it's good to see you back on the sports horizon, John. In fact, he's threatening to play a game or two this year.

For a number of years, as well as playing great hockey for the Raiders, Scotty coached the Legion juvenile entries and was sports officer for Branch 120.

We think that a word of commendation would not go amiss at this time to the Legion executive. This year, by careful handling they have made great strides in reducing our debt, and also in some other ways. It is only fair that they should know that the vast majority of the membership appreciate their efforts.

We have attended very few of the executive meetings this year, but those we were able to make, we were impressed by the number present. This makes for a good executive, when you find members willing to take the time to be there, and strangely enough, that has not always been the case in the past.

Thanks to Gob Collier, our hard working sports officer, we can give our readers the list of sports events in Zone B7 for 1960.

Also included is a list of the district sports events. In both cases the event will be listed, the place it is to be held in, the time and if possible the convenor.
