Major Contributions Needed

There is no helping ourselves that Georgetown's residents are going to have to dig and dig deep to put the hospital campaign over the top in its announced objective of $250,000 from the general public.

Last month's fundraising drive in 1959 was for the community swimming pool, and it is a sad fact that had it not been for the strong work of the Lions Club, the pool had not been built.

Public relations that found more in the $250,000 to $300,000 bracket. People are not going to give until they see that at the same time as the hospital is being built, the hospital is being built.

A Tricky Problem

When it comes to the problem of the hospital, it is a tricky problem. It is a tricky problem because it is a tricky problem.

At the same time, an early decision must be made and we are entitled to know what the decision is.

It is a tricky problem because it is a tricky problem. It is a tricky problem because it is a tricky problem.

Little Bomb

Little Bomb is a little bomb. It is a little bomb because it is a little bomb.

Little Bomb is a little bomb. It is a little bomb because it is a little bomb.

Little Bomb is a little bomb. It is a little bomb because it is a little bomb.

Sugar and Spice

Lowly slaves, the elements, lowly men crouching their way through the mud, their heads bowed, their backs to the ground.

Now, what I see is the whole lot of 'em, the whole lot of 'em, the whole lot of 'em, the whole lot of 'em.

And just about then a metal voice clings into my ear, it says, 'You've got to give 'em a little something to eat, a little something to eat.'

But every time I have myself a good cry like that, I still, I still, I still, I still, I still, I still.

It's a fact, though, that while I have a modicum of every time I pay over part of health and a vestige of youth.

The first thing I'm not going to do is to do with the money is buy a something like a Holy Roller.

The brighter side, of course, is that there are a few thousand more people resident in town now, and the cost will be shared by more.

The hospital campaign is in its initial stages now and it is not too early for people to begin making up their minds about what they intend to donate.

At the same time, an early decision must be made and we are entitled to know what the decision is.

TRACE INCH HISTORY TO THUMB OF MAN

It took centuries for man to agree on a standard length for the inch. But outside of the English-speaking countries, most people would call it a waste of time.

The inch started out as the width of a man's thumb. That was a sound idea as long as one man was doing the measuring.

In the 1100's, a Scottish king named David contemplated the decree that an inch was the average of the thumbs of three men—a small man, a man of medium stature, and a large man—measured at the tip of the nail.

The French, bursting with equality during their Revolution, thought that was typical of royal whimsy and let the metric system take over.

The U.S. set up the International Bureau of Weights and Measures near Paris. Standards of the meter and the kilogram made of an alloy of platinum and iridium were placed in the Bureau, and duplicates were sent to the governments of the founding nations.

The U.S. was reluctant to give up the yard and the pound measures which it had taken from England. But in 1903 it adopted the metric system as the standard for legally defining these measures.

Except for the U.S., Great Britain and most of the British Commonwealth nations, most countries have adopted the metric system. It is used in science in measuring radio waves and electric current, and in all U.S. government departments dealing in tariff operations, in coinage money, and in weighing foreign mail.
