Milton Rotarians Present Equipment, Halton Manor

At supper time on Wednesday, February 28th, while the residents were still at their tables in the dining room, they had the pleasure of witnessing the presentation of a Walker to the Manor by the Rotary Club of Milton. Mr. Earl Monaghan, acting on behalf of the Rotary Club, presented the Walker to Mr. John Milne chairman of the Halton Manor Board, and family members of the group who accepted it on behalf of the Board and residents.

The same evening, three short films were shown for the residents, with Mr. K. Trousdale, principal of Bruce Street school in Milton, running the projector. The first film was a cartoon, The Mouse and the Lion. The second film a beautiful one in colour bore the title, The Heart of England and depicted the beauty and the importance of the Cotswold region in England. Very pretty scenes of the countryside and of the historic cities of Stratford-on-Avon, Bath, London and Tonbridge were shown. This film delighted the third film, The Story of Angrove, related the various stages in the childhood and young manhood of Angrove, a typical Eskima boy.

Friday evening, Feb. 28th proved to be a particularly delightful evening at the Manor and this was due to two events, a dozen games of bingo and a display of dancing by the Burlington Club of Modern Sequence Dancing. The numbers for the bingo games, which preceded the dancing, were called by Mrs. S. Allen. Two prizes were won by Miss M. Thompson and the prize by each of the following: Mrs. L. Smith, Mrs. M. Smith, Mrs. N. Barlow, Mrs. E. Bond, Mrs. W. Mathias, Mrs. H. Mares, R. Whitmore and C. Sutton and Messrs. N. Vickers, N. McCann and E. McKelvey. The display of dancing, which followed the bingo games, was one of the most beautiful displays ever to be seen at the Manor. Eight ladies, dressed in their pastel coloured formal gowns of net and tulle, twined with sequins and with gentlemen in tawn coloured jackets and dark trousers, made a fascinating sight as they performed many different kinds of dances to the music of a wonderful player. The dances were under the direction of their instructor

Mr. A. Reeve. Before the dancing began, Mr. Reeve explained that modern sequence dancing, as it is called, is real English style oldtime ballroom dancing. The program began with a medley or sequence of dances, the first number of which was a lovely waltz danced by Mr. and Mrs. A. Reeve to the music of the Charles waltz. The seven other couples in the group then joined Mr. and Mrs. Reeve to dance a waltz, Moonlight and Rose, two tangos, Kiss of Fire and I Got Ideas, a one step, Dear Old Blighty and a closing waltz I See You Again. The great pleasure felt by the residents in witnessing this sequence was compounded through five other graceful and enjoyable dances, The Lancet, The Chrysanthemum Waltz, the tango, Fascination, the Elizabeth quickstep and the Original Barn Dance. Mr. G. Williams expressed the thanks of the audience for this truly wonderful evening, and wishes those who were present that more visitors would come again soon. A social hour during which cold drinks and cookies were served concluded a most enjoyable evening. The Burlington Club of Modern Sequence Dancing would be delighted to visit other institutions as well as to present similar displays of dancing.

The church service on Friday afternoon, Feb. 7th was conducted by two gentlemen who are members of Emmanuel Baptist Church in Milton, Mr. Jack Bristol and Mr. Jack Mountain. Mr. Bristol conducted the service and read the scripture lesson, the first twelve verses of the sixth chapter of the Book of Judges. Mr. Mountain played the piano, offered prayer and delivered the sermon. An introduction to his sermon, Mr. Mountain reminded the members that the church service on the previous Sunday had been conducted by the Gideons. He also stated that the Gideons of the Oakville-Milton-Bronie Camp had attended the service at Emmanuel Baptist Church that very morning. He then proceeded to describe the perilous situation in which the Israelites found themselves at the time when God called upon Gideon to be their leader. The Israelites had wandered away from God but

Stresses Professionalism Of Life Underwriters

Over the past several years, much emphasis has been placed on the "professional concept" of life underwriting. G. B. Kelly, Toronto, said at a luncheon of the Brampton Life Underwriters Association, held in the Junction Diner, Brampton. Mr. Kelly is field supervisor of the Life Underwriters Association of Canada.

In an address entitled "What's Happening To Us?", Mr. Kelly pointed out that the life underwriter must be a salesman because people just do not buy life insurance of their own volition. However, he said, the life underwriter's work takes on a definite professional character because he must counsel and advise his clients how best to use life insurance to guarantee the fulfillment of financial plans projected far into the future.

Mr. Kelly said that to reach this professional level, the life underwriter must adopt a minimum standard of education and training, and adhere to a high standard of ethics. The tremendously increased interest of life underwriters in this philosophy has been developed as a result of the functions of the association, the speaker said.

Mr. Kelly cited particularly the comprehensive educational and training program of the association. It includes a two-year classroom training course of an elementary nature which complements individual company training. Following this is the three-year university extension course directed by the University of Toronto and administered by the Institute of Chartered Life Underwriters. This five-year training and educational program culminates with the award of the designation "Chartered Life Underwriter" (C.L.U.).

Mr. Kelly said that the "professional concept" is an integral characteristic of today's practicing life underwriter. The code of ethics of the organization, its educational program, and in fact, all the functions it performs, are directed directly at fostering this concept, he said.

was a demonstration on rug making by Mrs. Harry Scott, and a pleasant feature of the evening was the presentation to Mrs. Henderson Sr. of a flowering plant, it being the occasion of her 100th birthday. A birthday cake helped to make the meeting a special occasion.

Mr. George Savill was also present and gave the ladies an outline of the Hospital Fund plans.

Many of you who listen to "Neighbourly News" on CBL on Sunday morning will have heard the reference to the 1870 Guelph newspaper found by Mrs. Henderson backing a picture of their house, and also the issue of Mr. Gilbert Savill on the "cover" of the "Guelph" of birthday greetings.

Six of the Oakville provincial police and their ladies arrived at the George Hurt's on Saturday evening to have the fun of a sleigh ride, but the best they could get was a wagon filled with hay, pulled by a tractor. So much for progress! However, a good time was had.

Mr. and Mrs. George Savill will be moved from our neighborhood. They plan on a trip home to England this Spring, and a sale of their effects was held on Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Marchington spent several days at Walkerton with her sister, Mrs.

HOW'S YOUR I.Q.?

TODAY'S INSURANCE PROBLEMS ANSWERED

Question: I had an accident which "totaled" my car as far as the claim adjuster was concerned. The "blue book" price was $400. This is the price I got. But I put over $500 into the motor and $200 into the body, so actually I didn't get the fair price. Is there anything I can do?

Answer: The standard policy provides for arbitration of these matters.
