Delrex Housing Request Still Committee Matter

Fate of a request for release of more Delrex land for housing still rests in council's lap, according to a statement by Cr. Ian Cass at Monday's council meeting.

Following discussion of the subdivision report in council a week ago with the author, auditor H. A. Laver, council's industrial and town planning committee, which is chaired by Cr. Cass met Wednesday night with representatives of Delrex Developments. It was virtually a "committee of the whole" meeting as all councillors had been invited to sit in.

"It was decided that there should be further study in committee before any council motion" was the comment of Mr. Cass on the meeting.

Georgetown Cemetery Board will ask only part of their grant this year.

A letter from the board said $3,000 would be required, and mentioned also that fees had increased this year.

Cr. Harrison wondered if some thought should not be given to establishing a second cemetery in town.

"I think the board is aware of this and it would be in order to bring in a recommendation," said Mayor Hyde.

A letter from ten residents in eastern Georgetown complained about poor storm-drainage, said they had complained to road chairman Gray with almost nil results, had had five floods in nine months, and want salt sprinkled on the grades in winter and the catch basins kept clean in summer.

"Not true," was Deputy Reeve Gray's comment. "I've had a phone call or two and a letter, and each time the engineer and town men went up."

He explained the difficulty of keeping catch basins free, as they plug up as fast as they are cleared.

The clerk was instructed to write an explanatory letter to the complainants.

Retired Farmer Was Native of Hungary

A resident of Sarah Street since retiring from farming six years ago, John Schertzl, 57, was buried in Greenwood Cemetery following funeral service in Holy Cross R.C. Church last Wednesday morning. He died in Guelph General Hospital on February 22nd, following several months of failing health.

Mr. Schertzl was born in Gyumellek, Hungary, and emigrated to Canada in 1925, settling first at Davidson, Saskatchewan. Two years later his wife, the former Anna Weiss, and son Joe joined him in his new homeland. They later lived at Hespeler, and in 1931 moved to this district. Mr. Schertzl worked on the Wilfred Leslie farm and in 1935 bought his own farm at the 8th Line and No. 16 Sideroad corner. His son now operates the farm.

An avid sportsman, he was a former member of the Curling Club and a keen hockey fan. His son Joe, who learned his hockey on district teams, went on to play professional hockey for several years as a defenceman with the Hershey Bears in the American Hockey League. He was a league All-Star.

He leaves his wife and son, and a brother Martin in London. Another brother, Joe, died six weeks ago in London.

Badge of Fortitude Award For Cheerful Girl Guide

A rare honour was bestowed on Diane McColgan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. McColgan, last Friday night in St. John's Church Hall, when Mrs. W. A. Filer, Hamilton Area Commissioner, awarded her the Badge of Fortitude, for her cheerfulness and determination through a prolonged illness.

Mrs. Filer led Diane through an arch of colours up to the stage, an impressive memory for the young girl.

Rev. K. Richardson, Diane's rector, praised her attitude, and Mrs. E. C. Reed, divisional commissioner, presented her with a horse-shoe shaped cake with "Good Guiding" written on top.

While the Badge of Fortitude, ritual climaxed the evening, the occasion was really the Divisional birthday party, celebrating the fiftieth anniversary of Guiding in Canada.

A repeat performance of a successful musicale by Mrs. R. Wyatt's company captivated the audience, due largely to the able direction of Mr. K. Harrison.

Continuing the birthday theme, Mrs. Reed, Divisional

Abundant Talent Shown By Night School Display Work

Night School Display Night confirmed it, and the more than 500 witnesses who milled through the high school auditorium Friday, Feb. 19th will swear to it, talent abounds in Georgetown and district.

The display night, an annual event, which terminates another successful night school term, was an exhibit of the work of the 600 students who took the twelve week course. It originated eight years ago as a three subject course and now offers instruction in almost every imaginable field.

Mayor E. T. "Ernie" Hyde, who opened the display night, was introduced by night school executive Mrs. John Glynn. The crowd was welcomed by high school principal J. L. Lambert.

An outstanding display of metalwork, in both bronze and copper, was the first to greet spectators as they entered the hall. Beautiful trays, flower holders and other decorative pieces showed every evidence of professional skill in the working of metal.

Behind this impressive array the products of the upholstering and woodworking classes vied for the attention of the onlookers. Several extremely attractive and colourful chairs in rich looking materials indicated a profitable use of time by the upholstering class.

Across the stage, bureaus, tool chests, nests of tables and samples of various types of woodwork were displayed. Below, the welding class exemplified steps in the completion of a simple welding job.

The dressmaking display on the south side of the auditorium ranged from women's clothing including attractive dresses, suits, and blouses, to children's clothing of tailored and knitted varieties. Next to that the leathercraft drew appreciative inspection with a series of carved and tooled purses, wallets and other accessories of high craftsmanship.

Slyish ladies' hats of all shapes, colours, styles and sizes reflected the talent of budding milliners and proved that new and enhancing creations are by no means restricted to exclusive hat shops. Completing that wall of creative accomplishments was more evidence of skill in the making and styling of women's and young girls' clothing, again

Scouters Ask Grant of $750 For Scout Work

Appearing for the newly formed Scouters Association, Sam Meltzer asked council for a $750 grant for scout activities at a recent council meeting.

Mr. Meltzer said that in some towns, council grant $1.00 per scout for youth work, and that his group is asking similar consideration here.

The request was left with council's recreation committee.

Jim Gardner, representing Delrex Businessmen's Association, asked if any further word has been received on a request last year for traffic control at the corner of Mountainview and No. 7, where there have been a number of accidents.

It was explained that the Dept. of Transport is at present reviewing the highway picture, and that to date there has been no decision.

A number of requests for payment of car damages which residents claim were caused by poor condition of roads, have been turned over to the firm which handles the town's liability insurance.

Want More Industrial Land - Council Stalls Moore Park Subdivision

A discussion at Monday's council meeting on the proposed Moore Park subdivision resulted in no further progress towards a solution of council's request that more industrial land be allocated in the subdivision.

Representing the subdividers, Burlington lawyer Mr. Hennessey and local builder Harold Robert presented a plan for approval which had previously been turned down by council.

Mr. Hennessey stressed that the Dept. of Planning and Development is adamant in its refusal to allow industrial land other than in a triangle on the south side of the CNR line.

The department, he said, will not have residential land adjoining industrial, and the railway forms a natural barrier. He also pointed out a proposed school site which he said is being considered by the school board which is considering closing the present Chapel Street school some day. Besides this, the Dept. thinks there is enough industrial land already zoned in Georgetown, he said.

The local Planning Board concurs with the Dept. in its thinking, he continued, and even if the Dept. should change its opinion, the subdividers would have another hurdle Central Mortgage & Housing which also shies away from allowing industrial and residential properties to adjoin.

Mayor Hyde said that he is all for allowing the subdivision to proceed, but that council has turned down the present proposal and cannot discuss it further unless a new proposal is offered, or until council changes its opinion.

At the suggestion of Cr. Ian Cass, it was decided to interview the Dept. and also get legal opinion on where departmental power ends and what position a municipality is in if it differs with government planners.

Saying that he has an agreement to purchase 862 acres of industrial acreage, Mr. Galloway also addressed council, saying that his agreement is dependent on a planned service road into the area and installation of other services.

These leaders for the town's sewer water will be opened. Details of the tenders were left for checking with Mr. Proctor of the engineering firm which is in charge of the project, who will report to the water committee later this week.

Clarence Reid presented a petition from four property owners on Maple Ave. E., asking that joint action be taken by the town and themselves to correct a situation where the road is not on the legal road allowance, and owners have had trouble establishing title to their land.

Asking if any action had been taken on a request for establishing a recreation commission, and for assistance in meeting debts of Georgetown Community Centre association, Roy Warwick was told that the matter is still under consideration. He was asked to provide a financial statement of the association.

ADD ERIN REPRESENTATIVE TO DIRECTORATE OF CO-OP

The newest link in the Halton Co-Op Chain will have a representative on the board of directors this year.

At the Co-Op's annual dinner and election held Thursday in the Esqueving Township hall at Stewarttown, Harold Meek an Erin district resident was named to his first three year term with the board. A Co-Op store was opened in Erin in July.

Directors A. G. Hunter and F. Denney Charles, eligible for reelection, were returned. The third position was made available to Mr. Meek when long-standing member Clarence Ford refused a nomination for reelection. A director since 1946, Mr. Ford in declining expressed his desire to see the new branch represented.

After the regular assembly the directors met to appoint William Mahon of Campbellville president; Fred Nurse, of Ashgrove, vice president and V. J. Lawrence, secretary. The other directors are Jack McDonald, David Lawson, Spencer Wilson and William Home.

Some 200-plus sat down to the dinner catered by the ladies of the Ashgrove W.A. and later joined voices in a sing-song conducted by Dave Pelletier.

After introducing the head table guests, the retiring president Mr. McDonald, addressed the audience on the progress of Halton Co-Op during the past year, and later called on F. Denney Charles who thanked the catering group on behalf of those present. This is the 7th year that the Ashgrove ladies have handled the dinner.

Other reports included the financial statement by Mr. Partridge of the Ward-Partridge auditing company; the manager's report by Charlie Harris; and the secretary's report by V. J. Lawrence. Mr. Partridge's explanation and account of the year's finances was particularly enlightening and earned him company's reappointment.

The guest speaker, Syd Scott of United Co-ops of Ontario, was introduced by Mr. Ford and in an excellent address retraced the growth of Co-Op from 1915. He was thanked by Albert Hunter.

The door prize, a gallon of house paint, was won by George Pelletier.
