

Red Cross Services Cover Many Humanitarian Works, Public Projects

The work of the Canadian Red Cross Society has been described as "people helping people without concern for race, creed or colour".

They know from experience the growing need for Red Cross services. This year hospitals will require the Red Cross to supply without charge 500,000 bottles of blood. 10,000 people will be victims of fire and not only disaster and will look to the Red Cross for emergency assistance. Red Cross nurses at Outpost Hospitals and Nursing Stations will attend the births of 3,000 babies in remote parts of the nation; thousands of articles will be prepared by the Women's Work committee; all most 7,000 Canadian women will learn simple nursing skills in Red Cross Home Nursing classes and more than 200,000 men, women and children will participate in Red Cross Water Safety projects.

Perhaps in some communities these Red Cross services are recognized but it is an astonishing fact that many, many people are quite oblivious to the obligations of this international society. The question "What are Red Cross services other than blood?" is a frequent one in Ontario. Division, Red Cross has the following services:

(a) Hospital Visiting. Volunteering regularly visit the hospitals distributing small comforts and bringing cheer and encouragement to the sick and disabled.

(b) Red Cross Lodges. Eight comfortably furnished Red Cross Lodges, built on Dept. of Veterans Affairs property at the end of World War II from war funds, provide a home for the surrounding community and the creation for thousands of patients in Dept. of Veterans Affairs hospitals and overnight accommodation for their next of kin when visiting patients. Several thousands of volunteers participate in staffing these lodges.

(c) Arts & Crafts Program. An arts and crafts program in Dept. of Veterans Affairs institutions supplies diversional therapy and instruction in native handicrafts to veterans thereby assisting in their rehabilitation as well as providing them with a hobby and a means of contributing towards their livelihood.

(d) Film Service. Current popular films, rented by Red Cross, are shown regularly in veterans' hospitals and sanatoria and do much to alleviate the tedium of prolonged hospitalization.

(e) Old Soldiers' Clubs. In two Old Soldiers' Clubs, veterans are provided with home at whatever small fee they are able to pay, in all cases only a fraction of the cost of food and shelter.

Emergency relief. Veterans and their dependents are given assistance in the form of food, clothing, shelter, bedding, fuel and medical aid on an emergency basis until official agencies are able to assume responsibility.

(f) Welfare Work Abroad. Welfare services abroad are provided where and as requested by the Dept. of National Defence from examples during and following the Korean campaign. A team of welfare workers stationed in Japan and Korea, operated both hospital and recreational welfare services for the Armed Forces.

(g) Blood and Blood Products. All military and Dept. of Veterans Affairs hospitals are provided with whole blood, blood products and sterile administration sets. Blood products, such as plasma albumin, are also supplied to the Dept. of National Defence for the use of the Armed Forces at home and abroad.

(h) Disaster. (a) Natural Disaster: All Divisions and Branches are ready to render disaster relief during the immediate emergency period, mainly in the form of food, shelter, clothing, medical assistance, registration of disaster victims and the answering of welfare enquiries relative to same.

(b) Civil Defence: The role of the Society is ready to play in Civil Defence has been accepted by the Federal Government as provision of the types of assistance normally rendered in a natural disaster, plus further development and operation of the nation-wide Blood Transfusion Service, and training in collaboration with St. John Ambulance, in first aid and home care of the sick and injured.

(c) Health Services. (a) The National Blood Transfusion Service — During World War II a Red Cross Blood Donor Service was inaugurated to provide blood serum for the Armed Forces. As a result of this wartime experience Central Council authorized that a National Blood Transfusion Service be instituted. The service is a four-way cooperative effort: The provincial government provides the physical premises for depot laboratories and approves the technical staff. The Society supplies the technical staff, equipment and transportation. Canadian citizens freely donate their blood; the hospitals, in return for adequate supplies of blood and blood products, agree to the patient. With the establishment of the fractionation plant at the Cummer Medical Research Laboratories, University of Toronto, blood fractions of inestimable value in surgery, medicine, obstetrics and public health, are made freely available through the Blood Transfusion Service for the first time in Canadian history.

(b) The First Aid Swimming and Water Safety Course, are provided in Swimming and Water Safety and a number of first aid courses with the St. John Ambulance Association in First Aid.

(c) Both points are emphasized on a questionnaire sent to all Divisions. It is a special course given to medical water therapists for the handicapped, particularly the crippled by polio.

(d) Mobile dental clinics are in operation in Ontario, Quebec and Newfoundland. They conduct active workshops in oral hygiene, occupational and recreational therapy for the handicapped, particularly the crippled, in several centres and baby clinics are operated.

(e) Nursing Services. (a) Home Nursing. Thousands of Home Nurses, trained and supervised by Red Cross, are providing care in many branches.

(b) Home Nursing. Thousands of women are trained and supervised by Red Cross, are providing care in many branches.

(c) Home Nursing. Thousands of women are trained and supervised by Red Cross, are providing care in many branches.

(d) Home Nursing. Thousands of women are trained and supervised by Red Cross, are providing care in many branches.

Women Seek Positions on Policy Making Commissions

A delegation from the Business and Professional Women's Clubs of Ontario was given an audience by Prime Minister Leslie M. Frost and members of his cabinet at which time Ontario President Narda L. Danagan asked on behalf of the clubs that more women be appointed to policy making positions set up by the Province of Ontario.

Joan Wilson, Guelph, a vice president of the organization, requested that the Ontario Government implement Schedule A of the Dominion Provincial Training Programme so that people able to meet employment requirements might be employed together.

Regarding the Municipal Act, Joan Gonsky, Chatham, Ontario, requested that it be amended to remove the limitations contained in the 1952 amendment, thus extending the municipal franchise to women voters on the same basis as to men.

Elde Gregory McGill, immediate past president, commended the Prime Minister for changes in the Succession Duty Act but asked that consideration be given to further easing the burden on the beneficiary who, in many cases, helped to amass the property that was being taxed.

The B.P. Clubs also asked that women probation officers be appointed in the Kenora and Sudbury "Matric" districts. At about 25 per cent of the women in these places are first offenders it was felt that more probation might be used to prevent the women from becoming repeat offenders.

Commendation was given the government of the opening of "Inglede" the new open Women's Guidance Centre, but a strong representation was made that a suitable woman with professional training be appointed director of the reform institutions for Women and Girls.
