Safety Council Good Idea for Georgetown

"A Safety Council for Georgetown may be in the offing if a suggestion made by Louis Hodgson of the Highway Safety Branch of the Ont. Dept. of Transport is heeded.

Mr. Hodgson in an address to the local group at a recent dinner meeting in the Legion Hall, said individuals from all walks of life should band together to form the council.

He said support for such a move would be eagerly available from the Dept of Transport, the Motor General office, the Ontario Safety League, the fire marshal's office and the Red Cross.

WHAT COUNCIL DID

DISCUSSIONS CONTINUE DOWNTOWN PARKING

Progress on a downtown parking area begun last some time ago by merchants, has been hampered by inability to secure land according to council's property chairman, Wm. Hunter.

The merchants have requested that the town acquire properties which would be paid for by charging downtown property owners on their taxes. Asking Monday what stage the request had reached led council, as spokesman for a group which attended the council meeting was told that four properties are involved in the plan. Two owners had not put a price on their land and two had over-priced, Mr Hunter said.

Mayor Hyde suggested that another meeting be held between merchant and council re percentages to further discuss the question, and this was done.

Asking if it would be possible to have customs charge apportioned in the new parking and organ bazaars, Paul Barber was told that the reason below was to be checked to see if it appears to work a business.

G Friday, 26 McGibbon Crescent asked if council would share cost of a fence to separate his property from a public footpath and his request was left with the road committee.

"I don't see how the town could go farther than putting in a crushed limestone walk, was Mayor Hyde's opinion. The mayor said it was not customary for the town to share the costs of fencing in such cases.

Permission was given the high school cadets to use the park on May 17th for their inspection, and to the boy scouts for a Cuburee on June 11th.

Victor for Susie of the town works staff was granted a two month's leave of absence this summer to visit his native Italy.

Notice of appointment of Francis Lee of Don Mills as arbitrator for the National Union of Public Service Employees in the Norton Burton grievance was received from union headquarters. The union was opposing a job switch between the two town employees.
