White Grub Crop Damage Could Be Heavy in 1960

White grubs can cause damage to lawns, parks and grass pastures in Halton this year. Last year there were large flights of June beetles, in May and June. There was considerable damage in this area in 1957, and so damage can be expected from White Grubs, in July, August, and September of this year.

White grubs, the larvae of June beetles, very often cause a great deal of damage to plants by eating the roots and other underground parts. The beetles, in huge numbers, take to the air at dusk, feeding and mating on the foliage of trees and shrubs.

At the first sign of daylight, they seek out grassy areas, weedy places and uncultivated land, and burrow into the soil, where the females lay their eggs. The eggs hatch in a few weeks, and the young grub feed on decaying vegetable matter and the roots of living plants. In the fall they go deep into the soil, and remain there during the winter.

This spring when the soil warms up, they will come to within a few inches of the surface, and feed ravenously during the whole growing season on the roots of plants. This is when they do the greatest amount of damage in the life cycle.

In the fall they go down again in the soil, and pass the winter, coming up again in the spring of 1961. At that time the grubs will feed only for a few weeks, before pupating and changing to beetles. These beetles however, will remain in soil until the spring of 1962. The cycle will then be completed. Heavy flights will again take place, and a new generation will be started.

While it is possible to find all stages in any one year, the majority of insects in most sections of Halton will follow this pattern.

In controlling the White Grub, land which was under cultivation during the heavy beetle flight in 1959, does not offer suitable egg laying places, however, where cultivation was not carried out, such as in lawns, parks and pastures, and where insecticides were not applied directly to the soil, it is possible that heavy infestations

SCOUT CORNER

Second Georgetown Scouts

Tuesday night, May 3rd was a nice night for outdoor activity. The boys had a good chance to hone up for their signalling and tracking tests.

On Tuesday night, May 10th, Captain Breen of the local Fire Dept. paid us a visit and gave some worthwhile instruction on artificial respiration, also we concentrated on the Hologer-Neil method and the Schaefer Method. The captain gave us a good outline of other methods, some of them very ancient but also very effective. As every Scout should be prepared for any emergency, especially with the swimming season going into effect, we feel this is a very important phase of our training at this time.

In addition, Captain Breen demonstrated some very good means of rescue and also how to conduct ourselves in other emergencies.

We are looking forward to another informative night with the Fire Dept. We would at this time thank Capt. Breen and the Department for their help. Training from now on will concentrate on preparing for the annual Campfire, and of course our Summer Camp.

Scouts
Much to the boys' delight our May 2nd meeting was held out doors. After flag break and inspection the boys played a wild game called prisoners. Some of the boys passed their tests — Jacky Crawford, Bill Rutledge, Bob Prader, George Sherring, Ernie Webb. Inspection on first aid followed.

Our May 9th meeting was held indoors. This of course did not make the boys too happy. After flag break we had a tag game followed by instruction on the compass. Ernie Webb passed a test in Archery. The group then talked about their recent trip to City Service in Oakville. If any of the troops are interested in the City Service, they should contact Art Stewart at the refuges four to six weeks in advance.
