

Town Lecture Course Would Offer University Subjects

If enough district people are interested, it is possible that a lecture course may be located in Georgetown for men and women doing extramural work for university degrees.

Several teachers are taking their courses this way at present, and travelling to Toronto, Hamilton or other centres for weekly lectures.

William Kinrade, principal of Wroughtworth School, who is investigating the idea of local lectures, thinks there is a good possibility that enough might enrol here to obviate such travelling and bring lecturers here for the courses.

A meeting has been called for Thursday, June 2nd, and interested people are asked to meet at the school at 8:00 p.m. W. H. McCallion, director of the extension department, McMaster University, will attend the meeting and explain details. A minimum number of students must be guaranteed if such courses were held, so it is important that all who might wish the lecture centre to be present, or to send word of their interest.

Details are contained in an advertisement elsewhere in this issue of the Herald.

JUNE THE TIME TO CHECK CRABGRASS

June is the time when lawn owners should be on the look-out for Crabgrass, advises the Field Crops Branch of the Ontario Department of Agriculture. Although at this time of year Crabgrass may look much like ordinary grass to those unfamiliar with it, it is actually the most troublesome weed the home-owner has to deal with in his lawn.

In its early stages, Crabgrass is lighter in color than lawn grass, has branching, smooth stems which may be either erect or prostrate and form roots from the joints in contact with the earth. The leaves are short and broad, have rough margins and are hairy. By August, long finger-like seed stems appear, many of which grow so close to the ground that they are missed by the lawn mower. These stems then turn purplish brown in color, and being an annual, Crabgrass eventually dies leaving bare spots — but not before millions of seeds have been shed to insure another crop the following year.

The best time to attack is in June, just as soon as new growth is detected. One of the most common chemicals used to kill Crabgrass is potassium cyanate at the rate of one ounce in 3 gallons of water per 400 square feet. It is advisable to apply a second spray in two weeks. Potassium cyanate or phenyl mercuric compounds are available in various forms and should be used according to the manufacturer's directions.

Other methods of control include sound lawn management, plenty of fertilizer and lawn grass seed well watered in to encourage growth of suitable grasses which will tend to choke out Crabgrass. Water thoroughly only when the lawn really needs it. Do not mow the lawn too closely. When Crabgrass seed stems appear, pull them upright with a rake and clip them off with the mower, then collect the clippings and destroy them.

It takes persistent effort to keep Crabgrass under control, but the appearance of a well kept, velvet-smooth lawn is worth the labor involved.

LEGION NOTES

by Lee Clark

Once again the fireworks at the Park were highly successful with a huge crowd there to see a lot of credit.

However, one thing that is becoming a menace is the increasing number of youths between 12 and 16 who consider it their sole duty to throw fireworks at or in the crowd. Monday night was disgraced in this respect, with many landing near or on small children. One instant in particular, where a teen age hoodlum threw one at a group, with it landing in the face of a four-year old was just about as stupid a trick as could be seen anywhere. Possibly a remedy would be to have men patrolling the grounds as auxiliary police, and anyone that is caught throwing crackers be given a guided tour of our local "house-gods". Certainly, it is unfair to allow a group of irresponsible youths to spoil a great show.

The regular meeting will be held this Thursday night, May 26th. Try and be there.

J. S. Adams was the big winner last week.

The Provincial bridge tournament was held in Owen Sound last Saturday with Branch 120 team coming in second. Members were: Comrades Wilson, Larusso, Ferguson and Hooper.

The first of some 1,100 delegates to the Canadian Legion's 18th biennial convention got down to work on Wednesday, May 25th. These are the 30 members of the Dominion Executive Council who will meet as a group and in committee until the convention officially opens on Sunday.

His Excellency, Governor General Vanier is flying to Windsor to officially open the convention on Sunday afternoon. The Grand Patron of the Canadian Legion, the Governor General will also have a wreath at the war memorial en route from the airport. He will depart by air immediately following the opening.

On Monday, the Minister of Veterans Affairs, the Honorable A. J. Brodeur, will speak to the delegates. It is customary for the Minister to review changes in Veterans' legislation which have occurred during the past two years.

Major General A. E. Wright C.B.E., C.D. director of General Army Survival Operations, will address the convention on Wednesday.

A resolution committee recently met in Ottawa to sort out the almost 500 resolutions which will form the meat of convention business. While details of the resolutions have not yet been made public, they are expected to range from a physical fitness program for youth to increased war disability pensions.
