

Ontario's Transport Minister John Yaremko measures Donna McNeill's height with the aid of the Department's new safety ruler while Luciana DelMonte, Jack Bernstein and Geoffrey Ebszinski of Toronto's Clinton Street School wait their turn. The ruler combines height and weight charts with practical traffic reminders for children. For the twelfth consecutive year the Transport Department and the Department of Education will distribute one million of these summer safety reminders to Ontario's elementary school children. A portion of the three-foot ruler is shown at left.

Provincial Parks Create Playground For Ontarians

With more than 65 of Ontario's 82 provincial parks fully operating and a 40 to 50% about greatly increased use of increase in available facilities, tremendously expanded parks since last summer, new attend facilities," Lands and Forests once records were probably the Hon J. W. Spooner pointed out. "The parks with theirers all across the province during the July 1 holiday week campers, fireplaces, excellent camp facilities, provision for pines and many other attractions, almost inevitably one pictures a clear, blue sky, a summer breeze and temperature in the low 40's.

The Dominion Public Works Office in Toronto however, says that rain can be expected almost anywhere in Ontario on an average of at least once in any three-day period over the summer months.

Although Civic Holiday marks the peak of the exodus from urban areas to provincial parks July 1 runs close and last year, for example, 22,400 camping permits were issued during that week.

Indicative of the continued expansion of the provincial parks system, ten new parks were fully operating for the first time last week and a 14% increase in park visitors in that same period. Last year, vehicle entries were up 52% over 1958; visitors up 36% and campers up 7%. With new parks and a 40 to 50% increase in available facilities this year, coupled with fast growing popularity of holidaying in the open, likelihood of all-time records this year in provincial parks is clearly evident, officials believe.

Group camping and wilder camping has gained rapid in popularity in Ontario. Group camping was enjoyed by 124,222 persons in 433 groups last summer. Group packtrucks attracted 80,519 people in 1,227 groups.

Wilderness camping in Algoma and Quebec, the provinces' two largest parks (2,756 and 1,793 square miles respectively) brought 31,000 campers to Algoma and 19,403 to Quebec last year as compared with 10,633 at Algoma and 14,922 at Quebec in 1958, a combined total almost doubled in one year.

"Our parks are an important aspect of our overall resources development," the minister pointed out. "We are endeavouring to make the fullest use of our potential resources for recreation."

Games are Popular for Rainy Days at Cottage

What to do on a rainy day at the cottage? Few people make adequate provision for the rainy day. When consideration is given to summer activities, almost inevitably one pictures a clear, blue sky, a summer breeze and temperature in the low 40's.

The Dominion Public Works Office in Toronto however, says that rain can be expected almost anywhere in Ontario on an average of at least once in any three-day period over the summer months.

For adults this can mean an opportunity to catch up on reading that has long eluded them or a chance to make long put-off repairs around the cottage.

For youngsters however, a rainy day at the cottage often means disaster or at best a chance to stir up a little mischief.

This factor has been recognized by Elliott Thomas, games manager of Collett - Sproutle Boxes Ltd., who are gearing summer production to the rising need of keeping children busy and happy at summer camps and family cottages at the summer resort.

Collett - Sproutle handles such famous Parker Brothers' games as Monopoly, Carrom, Make-A-Million, 5-Wise Birds, French Rook, Wide World and Pollyanna.

The best game? says Mr.

Thomas, are those that interest players of every age.

Monopoly is a good example. This fascinating game has brought pleasure to young and old for a generation. After just a few people had played, the word went around that Monopoly was fun, not only for school children but their teachers, society women and business executives."

Monopoly has been the world's most popular table game for almost 25 years. The fun of trading real estate, becoming a railroad magnate or owning a profitable hotel is hard to equal. And there is so much variety to the game that it provides increased enjoyment every time it is played.

Perhaps second in popularity to Monopoly is the game Cribbage, which Mr. Thomas recommends for teenagers and adults. Each player must set his own goal of Fame, Fortune and Happiness and collects points as he goes through various careers such as Politician, Farming and a Trip to the Moon.

Cards is a newer game but has had sensational acceptance. Adults, too, find the game a real challenge. Teenagers see parallel between the development of play and their own futures. And everyone enjoys the opportunities and experiences acquired as he accumulates Fame, Fortune and Happiness.

There are many similar games that not only provide pleasure for the moment at hand, but leave an experience that may prove worthwhile in future situations.

Mr. Thomas said the games business in recent years has expanded from the once-a-year Christmas crush of activity to year-round sales because of the recognition of an added factor — What to do on a rainy day at the cottage?

Dance Party Held For New Golf Club Members

Funny man Bob Gilbert's humor was infectious Saturday night, July 16th and some ninety-four Georgetown Golf and Country Club members and their guests contracted the delightful disease at the club's second dance party, sponsored by the ladies section.

Gilbert, a Port Credit native, enlivened the affair and was a veritable fountain of wit with his comments to passing dancers and glib chatter between records.

The dance served as a social opportunity for the new members and their guests to become acquainted with one another and the cause was furthered by attractively made tags donned by each couple as they entered. Two couples took home prizes as winners of elimination and spot dances.

Members from Cooksville, Streetsville, Oakville, Toronto, Port Credit, Clarkson, Malton and Georgetown were in attendance.

Obedience Course Is Available To Canines

A qualifying 36 hole score of 70.80 for 158 wasn't good enough to carry Georgetown Golf and Country Club pro Jim Burton into contention for the Millar Trophy golf championship at Cedar Brae Golf Club last week.

Jim was one of ten who earned the two round 158 which figure around the middle in the list of the first day scores.

Spurting among the club are George Lucas, R.R. 1, Fred Heffley of Acton, Mrs. Lorna Trice, R.R. 1, and Mrs. Lucia Lucas. Mr. Lucas is president and head trainer and he has conducted similar successful schools in Peterborough, Ottawa, Hamilton, Guelph, Burlington, to mention only a few. Mr. Heffley will be chief assistant, and Mrs. Lucas and Miss Trice will assist with instruction.

The club stresses that training is available for all pets and it is not restricted to thoroughbreds. The training course will be held at Georgetown Arena Wednesday evenings at 7:00 pm. The ten weeks concludes with a graduation ceremony similar to the obedience trials common at dog shows.
