

Sugar and Spice

Dispensed by BILL SMILEY

Every time I think of it I experience a warm glow of satisfaction. As I sit here in the cozy, smoke-filled confines of my private Psychopatrick ward, I revel in the security, the snugness. I shake hands with myself. I grin with sheer delight. The reason for my elation is simple: I didn't have to go deer hunting this year.

They were out last week, every single madman of them. They ranged from the fellow who breaks out for an hour or two before and after work, through the type who has taken a week off and skipped a payment on the car so he can afford to get away with his going to the big shot who makes the trip in a station wagon with a cook, a case of whisky, and a crew of kindred spirits.

But they're all brothers under the skin, infected with a delirium that sweeps the Canadian male in November, and in many smaller towns on the edge of the hunting country, almost brings commerce and industry to a halt. Last week they walked 100 miles through wet bush. They turned blue at the end of runways. They wolfed leathery eggs, marmalade and bacon sandwiches, and similar delicacies. And they laid the found actions for the deer hunting stories they'll tell from bow until Easter.

This week most of the hunters are home, and the stories are flying about with the sweeping inaccuracy of bats on a summer evening. Fellowes who find at nothing livelier than a storm, during their entire week's hunting, will relate exploits straight out of Mad and Gun. Others, who spent most of their time lost, will swagger a bit as they recall how they liked hunting alone. With each repetition, the stories gain in stature. And so do the deer.

There are no tiny fawns or skinny little does in the woods. They were all brought home by the hunters. But there are thousands, tens of thousands, of huge bucks running loose. There must be, because every time a hunter misses a shot at

WHAT COUNCIL DID

Set 60-40 as Ratio in New Subdivision By-Law

This news, from the Nov. 7th council meeting, is updated by another news item of the Nov. 14th meeting, also in this issue, at which the proposed by-law was withdrawn for revision, after some of the clauses met objections from council members.

The 60-40 ratio, a prominent factor in the 1950 municipal election, came up for some discussion at the Nov. 7th council meeting when two readings were given to a new subdivision by-law which will set a new pattern for subdividers to follow.

The by-law, set for final reading that night, was delayed while council questioned the validity of a couple of clauses which had been held over in the top half of the by-law. "I agreed with Mr. Sargent that there should be some guard against a subdivision breaking a large property into 5 acre tracts which would be developed if the by-law allowed a three-stage development of new subdivisions."

One third of the land is first released for residential building. When this is used up, a subdivider must provide industrial and commercial assessment in a 60-40 ratio and when he does, another one-third is released for house building. The same stipulation must then again be met, plus creation of a trust account in which the builder deposits $100 per building lot. At the end of a 2½ year period, he will be rebated $150 per lot for each $1,000 of new commercial or industrial assessment. If any money remains in the trust fund, it will be used to defray school or other capital expenses. Should there be assessment in excess of 60-40, the subdivider will receive a credit which can be applied to a future subdivision.

There is one exception. If houses assessed at $8,000 or more are built, they are exempted from the agreement, on the theory that house of this value more than carry their weight in taxes.

While agreeing that most of the by-law provisions have their approval, Reeve Sargent and Cr. Gunn were dissenters in the vote. Both expressed the opinion that, while the 60-40 ratio is desirable, it is not practicable and that there should be some way a subdivider could be allowed to proceed.

"It is such a vast subject, we could argue endlessly and come to no firm conclusions," said Cr. Gunn, "but I'd like to see

ADIRONDACK HONEYMOON

A HONEYMOON in the Adirondack Mountains and Lake Placid followed the October 19 wedding of Maria Carolyn Mackenzie, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Mackenzie, Georgetown, to Robert Charles Brearley, son of Dr. and Mrs. George Brearley, Bala. The wedding was at St. Paul's Presbyterian Church, Georgetown, and the reception was held at the Hotel Bala Inn.

Maria Carolyn, 22, of Bala, wore white kid jacket and Mr. and Mrs. Samuel John MacKenzie became the bride of Robert Charles Brearley, Kitchener, son of Dr. and Mrs. George Brearley of Bala, in the St. Paul's Presbyterian Church, Georgetown. The bride was wearing a white lace gown with a full skirt and a long train. The groom was wearing a dark suit and a white shirt with a dark tie.

Mr. and Mrs. Brearley were married in the church by Rev. Alex Carter, officiating at the double ring ceremony.

Rev. Carter officiated at the double ring ceremony. Mr. L. Gowan was one of the ushers and Dr. Bala, pastor of the known history of the church, the choir provided the wedding music, singing the "Lord, I Trust in Thee" and "O Perfect Love".

The bride wore a white white, slipper satin, fashioned on princess lines with pointed neckline and long point over hand sleeves. The bodice was appliqued with French lace which extended down into the hipline. French lace decorated the sleeve of shoulder and wrist. The skirt, constructed in fullness from two box pleats at waist line at front and back and extended into a graceful train.

Her two tiered lingerie veil with white rose floral crown. She carried a wicker basket bouquet of white rose buds and white hydrangeas.

Mr. and Mrs. Brearley, of Bala, received along with the parents of bride and groom, the close friends of Dr. and Mrs. Brearley. Mrs. Brown was a plain coloured brocade sheath with matching satin cummerbund, bracelet sleeves and boat neckline. Shoes and cloche hat of velvet and cognac plumes were black. Her gloves were white and a pale pink carnation corsage completed the costume.

Mr. and Mrs. Brearley are honeymooning in Lake Placid, the Adirondacks. For travelling she chose a knitted sheath dress and jacket suit in rose geranium, hat to match brimmed in black velvet, black shoes and purse with a white orchid corsage. They will live in Kitchener where he is employed with the Equitable Securities Canada Limited.

Guests were present from Montreal, Ottawa, Belleville, Toronto, Brampton, Kitchener, Seaford, Oakville, Rockwood and Georgetown.

Mr. Robert Collett Weston was matron of honour in a gown of gold slinky satin, fashioned with bracelet sleeves, square neckline and bust from the same material at neckline and equally spiced on front panel of the barrel skirt. Miss Betty Greg was bridesmaid and Miss Margaret Mackenzie, cousin of the bride, was junior bridesmaid. Both wore gowns of antique green, fashioned similar to that of the matron of honour. All wore hats of a ring of flowers with pin-pointed crowns extending into eyebrows length veils. The crowns had a satin floral motif in matching colours.

His remark was contested by Reeve Sargent who said other factors were involved and that if Georgetown had had a control by-law earlier, taxes would be lower today.

The two by-law readings passed, with the reeve and Cr. Gunn voting in opposition. Cr. John Elliott was absent from the meeting, so his vote was not recorded.

Accident Injuries Fatal To Local Resident

Thomas Gray, who was severely injured in a car truck accident near Georgetown just three weeks ago, died of multiple injuries last week at Milton District Hospital. Funeral service was Friday from the Lynett Funeral Home, 3200 Dundas St. W., Toronto.

Mr. Gray, of 52 Main Street, Georgetown, is the husband of Paula Gray, who operates a Milton beauty salon and was going to Milton to pick up his wife on October 19th when his car was struck by a gravel truck near North Halton-Golf Course. Rushed to Milton District Hospital after the crash, he never quite regained consciousness.

WHY WAIT LONGER?

With Cold Weather Coming why not let us put your car in first class shape for

EASY STARTING

ALL THE COMING MONTHS AHEAD

A proper Motor Tune-Up consists of:

1. Testing compression.
2. Check Points. Overhaul Distributor if necessary.
3. Install new sparkplugs of the right type for your engine.
4. Clean carburetor and calibrate.
5. Test and adjust automatic choke.
6. Test coil.
7. Test Fuel pump.
8. Adjust valves (where necessary).
9. Check cooling system for leaks.
10. Test Battery - Generator - Starter.

We do all the above work and you get your car the same day you bring it in.

Our prices are fair and we guarantee all work done by us.

Speight's Auto Electric AND MOTOR TUNE-UP

32 Water Street Phone TR. 7-2726

GALLINAFAD

Open House Marks

25th Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Tom Givens recently held "Open House" at their home on the occasion of their 25th wedding anniversary. Many relatives and friends dropped in to extend best wishes. Some lovely gifts were received.

Mrs. Alex Van Hoorn was hostess for 14 members and 2 visitors at the November Evening Auxiliary meeting on Thursday night. Roll call was answered by giving a favourite Christmas recipe. The meeting opened with hymn 602. Mrs. J. Shortill in charge of devotionals read from John 3: 16-21, Ephesians 4: Matthew 4. Mrs. Mike Norton read a paper on Citizenship, also a poem was read by Mrs. N. Sinclair on "Why I don't go to Church". Mrs. C. E. Snow gave the topic on work camps, outlining how all churches work together to help the underprivileged. Hymn 243 was sung to close the meeting. Mrs. Percy White assisted with lunch.

We are all very glad to hear that Mrs. Arthur Riddell is home again. She has been hospitalized in Brockville General Hospital since their accident in October. Also her many friends are glad that Herb Wilson is able to be home from Milton Hospital. Janet Nurse has been a sick little girl with the flu and Douglas Riddell too. We hope both will soon be feeling themselves again.

Mrs. Murray Judge and two little sons of Cheltenham spent the week end with Mrs. Evelyn Barnes and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Dixon of Kapsakising visited her mother, Mrs. R. J. Graham, one day last week.

Elizabeth Thompson and her mother of Hermon spent a few days with Margaret and Murray Brookbridge last week.

WORDS OF THE WISE

He who accepts evil without protesting against it is really co-operating with it. — Henry David Thoreau.

TRAVEL NOTES

New Michigan Governor Has Uncle And Cousin Here

The U.S. election, specifically the Michigan returns were followed with more than usual interest by two Georgetown families.

Mr. Louis K. Swanson and his wife were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Brearley. Louis is the brother of the groom and Mr. Sandy Mackenzie, brother of the bride, Georgetown, were with them.

The wedding reception was held at the North Huron Golf and Country Club where Mrs. Mackenzie received the bride's gift of a diamond sheath of pounds decorated with draped organ sleeves and matching rock crystal shortening.

Mr. Louis K. Swanson and his wife were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Brearley. Louis is the brother of the groom and Mr. Sandy Mackenzie, brother of the bride, Georgetown, were with them.

The bride wore a cream white, slipper satin, fashioned on princess lines with pointed neckline and long point over hand sleeves. The bodice was appliqued with French lace which extended down into the hipline. French lace decorated the sleeve of shoulder and wrist. The skirt, constructed in fullness from two box pleats at waist line at front and back and extended into a graceful train.

Her two tiered lingerie veil with white rose floral crown. She carried a wicker basket bouquet of white rose buds and white hydrangeas.

Mr. and Mrs. Brearley, of Bala, received along with the parents of bride and groom, the close friends of Dr. and Mrs. Brearley. Mrs. Brown was a plain coloured brocade sheath with matching satin cummerbund, bracelet sleeves and boat neckline. Shoes and cloche hat of velvet and cognac plumes were black. Her gloves were white and a pale pink carnation corsage completed the costume.

Mr. and Mrs. Brearley are honeymooning in Lake Placid, the Adirondacks. For travelling she chose a knitted sheath dress and jacket suit in rose geranium, hat to match brimmed in black velvet, black shoes and purse with a white orchid corsage. They will live in Kitchener where he is employed with the Equitable Securities Canada Limited.

Guests were present from Montreal, Ottawa, Belleville, Toronto, Brampton, Kitchener, Seaford, Oakville, Rockwood and Georgetown.

Mr. Robert Collett Weston was matron of honour in a gown of gold slinky satin, fashioned with bracelet sleeves, square neckline and bust from the same material at neckline and equally spiced on front panel of the barrel skirt. Miss Betty Greg was bridesmaid and Miss Margaret Mackenzie, cousin of the bride, was junior bridesmaid. Both wore gowns of antique green, fashioned similar to that of the matron of honour. All wore hats of a ring of flowers with pin-pointed crowns extending into eyebrows length veils. The crowns had a satin floral motif in matching colours.

His remark was contested by Reeve Sargent who said other factors were involved and that if Georgetown had had a control by-law earlier, taxes would be lower today.

The two by-law readings passed, with the reeve and Cr. Gunn voting in opposition. Cr. John Elliott was absent from the meeting, so his vote was not recorded.

Thomas Gray, who was severely injured in a car truck accident near Georgetown just three weeks ago, died of multiple injuries last week at Milton District Hospital. Funeral service was Friday from the Lynett Funeral Home, 3200 Dundas St. W., Toronto.

Mr. Gray, of 52 Main Street, Georgetown, is the husband of Paula Gray, who operates a Milton beauty salon and was going to Milton to pick up his wife on October 19th when his car was struck by a gravel truck near North Halton-Golf Course. Rushed to Milton District Hospital after the crash, he never quite regained consciousness.

Reeve Sargent who said other factors were involved and that if Georgetown had had a control by-law earlier, taxes would be lower today.

The two by-law readings passed, with the reeve and Cr. Gunn voting in opposition. Cr. John Elliott was absent from the meeting, so his vote was not recorded.

Thomas Gray, who was severely injured in a car truck accident near Georgetown just three weeks ago, died of multiple injuries last week at Milton District Hospital. Funeral service was Friday from the Lynett Funeral Home, 3200 Dundas St. W., Toronto.

Mr. Gray, of 52 Main Street, Georgetown, is the husband of Paula Gray, who operates a Milton beauty salon and was going to Milton to pick up his wife on October 19th when his car was struck by a gravel truck near North Halton-Golf Course. Rushed to Milton District Hospital after the crash, he never quite regained consciousness.

Reeve Sargent who said other factors were involved and that if Georgetown had had a control by-law earlier, taxes would be lower today.

The two by-law readings passed, with the reeve and Cr. Gunn voting in opposition. Cr. John Elliott was absent from the meeting, so his vote was not recorded.

Thomas Gray, who was severely injured in a car truck accident near Georgetown just three weeks ago, died of multiple injuries last week at Milton District Hospital. Funeral service was Friday from the Lynett Funeral Home, 3200 Dundas St. W., Toronto.

Mr. Gray, of 52 Main Street, Georgetown, is the husband of Paula Gray, who operates a Milton beauty salon and was going to Milton to pick up his wife on October 19th when his car was struck by a gravel truck near North Halton-Golf Course. Rushed to Milton District Hospital after the crash, he never quite regained consciousness.

Reeve Sargent who said other factors were involved and that if Georgetown had had a control by-law earlier, taxes would be lower today.

The two by-law readings passed, with the reeve and Cr. Gunn voting in opposition. Cr. John Elliott was absent from the meeting, so his vote was not recorded.

Thomas Gray, who was severely injured in a car truck accident near Georgetown just three weeks ago, died of multiple injuries last week at Milton District Hospital. Funeral service was Friday from the Lynett Funeral Home, 3200 Dundas St. W., Toronto.

Mr. Gray, of 52 Main Street, Georgetown, is the husband of Paula Gray, who operates a Milton beauty salon and was going to Milton to pick up his wife on October 19th when his car was struck by a gravel truck near North Halton-Golf Course. Rushed to Milton District Hospital after the crash, he never quite regained consciousness.

Reeve Sargent who said other factors were involved and that if Georgetown had had a control by-law earlier, taxes would be lower today.

The two by-law readings passed, with the reeve and Cr. Gunn voting in opposition. Cr. John Elliott was absent from the meeting, so his vote was not recorded.

Thomas Gray, who was severely injured in a car truck accident near Georgetown just three weeks ago, died of multiple injuries last week at Milton District Hospital. Funeral service was Friday from the Lynett Funeral Home, 3200 Dundas St. W., Toronto.

Mr. Gray, of 52 Main Street, Georgetown, is the husband of Paula Gray, who operates a Milton beauty salon and was going to Milton to pick up his wife on October 19th when his car was struck by a gravel truck near North Halton-Golf Course. Rushed to Milton District Hospital after the crash, he never quite regained consciousness.

Reeve Sargent who said other factors were involved and that if Georgetown had had a control by-law earlier, taxes would be lower today.

The two by-law readings passed, with the reeve and Cr. Gunn voting in opposition. Cr. John Elliott was absent from the meeting, so his vote was not recorded.

Thomas Gray, who was severely injured in a car truck accident near Georgetown just three weeks ago, died of multiple injuries last week at Milton District Hospital. Funeral service was Friday from the Lynett Funeral Home, 3200 Dundas St. W., Toronto.

Mr. Gray, of 52 Main Street, Georgetown, is the husband of Paula Gray, who operates a Milton beauty salon and was going to Milton to pick up his wife on October 19th when his car was struck by a gravel truck near North Halton-Golf Course. Rushed to Milton District Hospital after the crash, he never quite regained consciousness.

Reeve Sargent who said other factors were involved and that if Georgetown had had a control by-law earlier, taxes would be lower today.

The two by-law readings passed, with the reeve and Cr. Gunn voting in opposition. Cr. John Elliott was absent from the meeting, so his vote was not recorded.

Thomas Gray, who was severely injured in a car truck accident near Georgetown just three weeks ago, died of multiple injuries last week at Milton District Hospital. Funeral service was Friday from the Lynett Funeral Home, 3200 Dundas St. W., Toronto.

Mr. Gray, of 52 Main Street, Georgetown, is the husband of Paula Gray, who operates a Milton beauty salon and was going to Milton to pick up his wife on October 19th when his car was struck by a gravel truck near North Halton-Golf Course. Rushed to Milton District Hospital after the crash, he never quite regained consciousness.

Reeve Sargent who said other factors were involved and that if Georgetown had had a control