IGA Cooking School Draws Five Full Houses

Stove, Shopping Bags Silverware are Prizes

Packed houses greeted all the seasons of the IGA Fun Fair cooking school which was held in Knox Church hall last week.

Brought to town by the local IGA Store, it proved to be immensely popular with housewives, and many husbands joined them for the two evening sessions which particularly featured meat cookery. Jane Wright proved to be one of the most popular home economists to tour with such a show and her witty comment and excellent demonstrations delighted each audience.

As usual there were door favours and visitors received bonus tapes redeemable at the store. Fifteen bags of groceries were given away at each session, and on Thursday Mrs. Ted Fenning, 80 Park Ave. won a special prize, a set of stainless steel cutlery.

Another grand prize winner was Mrs. P. Anderson, 11 Windsor Rd. who won a Westinghouse range in a lucky draw.

Grocery bags were won by Mrs. Wes Oliver, Fern Price, Mrs. R. Alexander, Mrs. Olive McKechnie, Mrs. Harold Ashley, Mrs. C. Murrear, Mrs. E. Miller, Mrs. Louise Venner, Mrs. Don Parker, Mrs. W. T. Thompson, Mrs. N. Bombolt, Mrs. E. ## Mrs. Hugh Black Was Scotch Block Resident

Wife of a Scotch Block farmer, who retired to live in Georgetown in 1947, Mrs. Hugh Black, 90, was buried in Greenwood Cemetery following service at the Harold C. McClure Funeral Home on February 11th.

The former Margaret Evelyn Clarridge, she was born in Chingquacous Township, daughter of Hugh and Sarah Hunter Clarridge. Mr. Black died the same year they moved to town and she had continued to make her home here until a few years ago when she moved to Wellington to live with her daughter. She was a member of Knox Presbyterian Church and belonged to the Scotch Block Circle of the W.A.

She leaves her daughter Margaret, Mrs. W. A. Campbell of Wellington; three grandchildren and one great-granddaughter; and a brother Harry Clarridge of Brampton. She was predeceased by three sisters, Mrs. Frank Boulter, Mrs. Clure Fraser and Mrs. (Dr.) Fred Heath.

Rev. Alex Calder came from Peterborough to conduct the funeral service. Pallbearers were Norman Bird, Goldie Gillies, Gilbert English, Wilfrid McDonald, Russell Hepburn and Harry Brown.
