

Mormons Establish Sunday School Here

MARIL ABERCOMBIE and ROBERT SAUNDERS are the two missionaries from Idaho, and Elder Robert Saunders from Tremonton, Utah, representing the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints in the organization of a Sunday School in Georgetown this week. Services will be held at the Fellowship Lodge at the end of Wesleyan Street and will commence at 10:45 each Sunday morning.

They are only two of more than 8,500 full-time missionaries spreading the gospel throughout the world. A missionary spends from two and a half years in mission field, during which they support themselves. As they call upon the people they do not seek or solicit funds. They further state there will be no collection at any of the services. Mrs. Abercombe and Saunders give these three reasons for their calling upon the homes: "As missionaries, declaring the truth of the restoration, it is our hope to discuss with the people the mission of Jesus Christ, of his true personage and divinity. That he is the Son of God, the redeemer of the world, and the author of our salvation."

"That because of impending calamities to come upon the world, God has raised up a prophet in this day and age upon whom has been given the divine oracles, commandments, and authority necessary to obtain salvation. That the prophet Joseph Smith has been appointed as the witness for God at these times."

"That the true Church of Jesus Christ has been again reestablished upon the earth for the good and salvation of all mankind, all are urged to give heed to this message."

Two Grass Fires Spring Here!

The lengthening list of grass fires which perennially plagues local firemen increased by two more last week-end.

An outbreak in a field in the upper part of Glen Williams just off the 9th line required the brigade to beat it out Friday afternoon, and dry grass which burned briefly out of control behind George Kennedy Public School here Saturday was also doused quickly.

The origin of neither fire was determined, but Fire Chief Bob Bonfield suspects children playing in the area had something to do with the second blaze.

A survey of nearly half a million workers in Canada puts the average payroll cost of fringe benefits at $1,036 per worker per year.

CLUB MIDTOWN

Hi and welcome to the literary world's twilight zone! I am one of the few people around who can create a nightmare with just a pen, some paper, and the use of my warped little mind.

On Friday, our parents and others interested adults are invited to join us at our annual Spring dance, when the Debonnaires will be playing for our big evening.

This Saturday we are invading Canadian Bandstand. Tickets will be on sale at the school and Friday night at the dance. The cost is $1.00 per person, so buy one and join the crew. You'll be on TV and the fun is unbelievable. Buses will leave the Rose Room at 12:45 Saturday afternoon.

People are forever asking me just how long I've been writing this column in The Herald. Well, my first column was written on a strip of birch bark. Just the other day Walter Blehr was asking me if I had considered taking out a pension plan for myself, and this summer I get my own key to the office and a cot in the backroom.

I will never forget the first day Terry Harley came to work for the paper. Now there was a green rookie if I've ever seen one! Oh, he had talent, a bright being, a shy lad, he needed to have his talent cultivated and to have someone who would take time to help him, someone he could respect and idolize like a big brother or something. Well, somewhere along that rocky road to success that shy lad Terrance Harley, stepped out of the shadow of his big brother and into the bright sunlight of fame and distinction while his big brother slipped into the shadows and faded away.

So! Can you picture what would happen a couple of centuries from now if someone discovered, while digging in their garden, a copy of my column, that one who had thrown away after wrapping your lunch or garbage in. What a discovery! Picture the excitement of it all. There it would be yellowed with age and covered with a couple of hundred years of mildew, the written proof that the ancients (that's us) were really just a bunch of money-crazy, neurotic nuts! I doubt if it would rate with the discovery of the Dead Sea Scrolls, but it would probably be one of the greatest mysteries of that time.

My hitsville bound ones are: "Mama said there'd be days like this," by the Shirelles and "Warning Voice" by the Crests. The Midnight Rider of the week is "Louisiana Mama," by Gene Pitney. Gene stuffs birds on the side. Oh well, to each his own!

That's it for this week. See you Friday night at the Arena. Until then be good, take care, keep smiling and remember the direction you travel that counts.

At ease my friendly!

Goodnight M. L.

Elora Lady Dies on Eve of 100th Birthday

The mother of a Georgetown man died in her Elora home last Wednesday, two hours before her 100th birthday.

Mrs. Mary Cromar, mother of William Cromar, 51 Maple Ave. W., was born in Elora, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Grey. She was married in 1882 and went to live on the farm of her husband Alexander Cromar in Pilkington Township.

Following the death of her husband in 1933, Mrs. Cromar and daughter, Ida, remained on their farm until 1950 when they returned to the same house in Elora where Mrs. Cromar spent her early years.

Preparations for her 100th birthday had gone on quietly so the excitement was not considered contributory.

Telegrams from Queen Elizabeth and from friends in Scotland arrived the day of her death to congratulate her on her birthday and flowers had also arrived to brighten the home for the occasion.

She was a member of Knox Presbyterian Church and was also an honorary president of Knox Women's Missionary Society, an associate member of Elora and Salem Horticultural Society and a charter member of Elora W.I.

Her major interests were church work and she was an avid reader and took great interest in local activities.

Mrs. Cromar, one of a family of eight, is survived by a brother Mr. George Grey of Philadelphia, daughter Ida at home, son William of Georgetown, a grand-daughter Barbara (Mrs. Murray Johnson of Willowdale), and an infant great-granddaughter.

Lesley Anne Johnson, was born just a few hours before Mrs. Cromar's death making the family momentarily span four generations.

The funeral service was held Saturday in Knox Presbyterian Church, Elora, and interment was in Elora Cemetery.

Acton Lady Speaker For Thankoffering

Congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. John Byers on the safe arrival of a baby girl in Guelph hospital on Wednesday.

We regret that Paul Turner is a patient in hospital in Guelph with a second bout of pneumonia, having been out only a few days. We wish him a speedy recovery.

Also we hope for improvement for Mrs. Roughley's mother, Mrs. Brigham, who is very ill in Milton.

The spring Thankoffering meeting of the W.M.S. was held at the home of Mrs. Kirkpatrick on Thursday evening with Mrs. Nutma of Acton as guest speaker.

Mrs. Nutma delivered a splendid paper entitled "The Missionary Task of the Mother in the Family." Mrs. E. Karn sang solos, accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Roughley, who also played a piano solo, as did Mrs. O. Mulder, and Mrs. Bert Benton played accordion numbers. The speaker was introduced by Mrs. A. Benton and Mrs. Sanford took care of the courtesy reports.

Scriptures were read by Mrs. Patterson and Mrs. H. Norton, and Mrs. A. Benton led in prayer. Mrs. Patterson also reading the Glad Tidings Prayer. Mrs. Mitchell, president, was in the chair and the Glad Tidings program was followed. The hostess and several others served lunch afterwards. Nineteen attended the meeting.
