MARK "BUCK" JONES, son of photographer Peter Jones, shows the way to the western spectacular with a wave of his plastic Winchester 30-30. The 2nd annual Rodeo will be held Saturday, June 10th, in the park climaxed a week of western happenings. A little premature with his ten gallon hat, young Mark has the right idea. They say the Lions, and make Rodeo Week a Community participation affair.

Islands, Not Boulevard Is Plan for Main Street

"I hope the Herald editor is going to take some of the critics off our backs," said Mayor Hyde Monday when he pointed out that Main Street reconstruction will not create a boulevard as a newspaper article said last week.

"Wee islands," if you want to call them that, will anchor hydro light standards in the centre of the road, but there will be no centre curbing other than protection for the standards, the mayor said.

Between poles, pavement will be painted white and will be available for truck stops for unloading.

Service Roads
"But eventually we hope for service roads behind all Main St. buildings to eliminate completely the problem of trucks stopping for deliveries," says Mayor Hyde.

A scale model of the street as it will look is in the town engineering office. Reserved parking is planned at the bus stops.

Centre Poles
Plans, presently in their finalizing stage, call for eleven centre poles in the two Main St. blocks. But possibility of having four light brackets on each pole, and reducing the number to eight is being studied with hydro officials.

Interruptions
Meanwhile, there will be some interruptions on the street. This week traffic has been detoured at times around the north block from Wesleyan St while water pipes are being replaced at various locations.

ESQUEUSING COUNCIL

Claims Dog Nuisance Wants Action in Glen

Glen Williams took a large share of the spotlight at Esqueusing council Monday night with an oversupply of dogs, and an undersupply of water being discussed.

Harvey Garvin, making his second appearance on this subject, told the members the dogs running loose were worse than ever. "I've just bought another batch of trees," he claimed, "how long do you think they'll last?"

"Are there any strays?" asked Reeve Sinclair. "They're all supposed to have homes, but they are never there," replied Mr. Faulkner, another member of the delegation. "Why can't we have a by-law like Chingachewy, stating that anyone with less than 20 acres has to keep the dog tied up in summer," he asked.

Councillor Wilfred Leslie agreed. However, Coun. Wilfrid Bird demurred. He pointed out there are many people with only five acres who are a long way from anyone, who would have to keep their dogs tied up. "The area to be controlled would have to be defined," said the councillor.

"Suppose we do get a by-law," stated George Leslie, "how are we going to enforce it?"

"There's a dog catcher in the Glen, who'd be happy to do it," replied Mr. Garvin.

"We'll talk with the dog catcher and see if we can make a deal," the councillor promised.

"We'll also define the boundaries of Glen Williams," he concluded.

The delegation left, promising to be back if nothing is done.

Aim for Championship Baseball Coach Says FIRST GAME THIS SATURDAY IN ACTON

Not all first year club's aim at a middle rung in their respective league ladder.

Chie Jewell, manager of Georgetown's new Intermediate A baseball club said this week his team's sights are set on the Halton County Intermediate Ball League crown, and he would not be satisfied with anything less. "If the players felt any other way," he said, "we wouldn't bother starting."

The team tastes its first real competition this Saturday afternoon in Acton park when they pit their untired process against a "new look" Acton ball club.

The farmertown team was left with gaping holes in the lineup when their Georgetown commuters left to catch a berth here. So the opener will be more of a toss-up than ever.

The locals have been working out at the park since early April but weather has been against them, making the job of getting into shape not the easiest of matters. Injuries have hit the lineup already. George Doucette, a valuable leaguer in the club's outfield, wrenched his shoulder in collision while running down a ball, last week, and Jim James, an infield probable, tore knee ligaments while skidding into second base.

Hurlers Ready
Though Chie Jewell hasn't named his starting lineup, or even made any claims, his pitching staff is as set now as it will ever be. Lynn McLaren is the playing coach, and Bernie Bore, are starting right handers. Dave Hart, and possibly Al Duncan and Jim Beckett, will provide southpaw pitching. Another possibility is Jim McGill who has shown up well in practice.

The club's muscle power at the plate and clutch fielding won't really be known until the Saturday test. The first home game is scheduled for Wednesday, May 24th.

Strong criticism of the newly formed county Industrial Committee was made by a number of Georgetown councillors on Monday.

"Industrial promotion has reached a saturation point," opined Cr. Ian Cass who with Cr. Wm. F. Hunter moved a formal protest to all county municipalities against the new committee being supported by county funds. He termed the committee a duplication of effort using municipal funds for something which should be a purely local function.

New Committee
"We're all chasing a few industries," he continued. "The new committee is set up on an exploratory basis. It's simple to create but hard to destroy, and it's weighted in favour of the southern municipalities."

Cr. Hunter, who was appointed last week as Georgetown's delegate to the committee, blasted a set-up which includes the Trafalgar industrial commissioner as chairman.

"Cr. George Leslie of Esqueusing and myself are the only councillors. The rest are paid commissioners or municipal clerks," he pointed out.

Two Days
Cr. Hunter said he had wanted night meetings, but the majority of the committee decided on two days weekly.

"All I get is $260 mileage and for that I can't afford to give up two days a month if any of you want the job you're welcome to it," he said.

The Trafalgar commissioner has first look at the mail, and he'll have first grab at any industry," was Cr. Hunter's opinion.

Opposite View
Reeve Doug Sargent expressed an opposite view.

"I supported this in county council and I'm certainly for a cooperative venture," he said.

The Reeve said the new committee can afford a chain of office for the Warden, but we can't find money for roads... they can plan a million and a half dollar building at our expense," he said.

Reeve Sargent replied that Georgetown gets a fair break in Halton, contributing 6% of the money and having 14.3% of voting power.

When the motion came to a vote, the censure resolution passed by a 5-3 majority. Reeve Sargent, Deputy Reeve Elliott and Cr. Brown and Burke opposed it.

Marshall-Symons Wedding In St. Alban's Church

A reception in St. Alban's parish hall followed the marriage on Saturday of Carol Jean Symons and Paul Edward Marshall. The wedding, at which Rev. Ronald Stubley officiated, took place in St. Alban's Anglican Church, Glen Williams at 4 o'clock.

Marshall wore an aquamarine all-silk sheath, matching three-quarter length coat and corsage of pink sweetheart roses.

Leaving on a honeymoon trip to Ottawa, the bride wore a white bouffant suit, blue accessories and a corsage of blue carnations and gardenias.

Guests attended the wedding from Weston, St. Catharines, Hamilton, Pickering, Toronto and Brantford.

The bride, who is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William A. Symons, wore a walk-length gown of alabaster lace over net with a scalloped neckline and soft, delicate ruffles. A fingertip veil of pure silk tulle illustrated a delicate crown of white pearls. She carried a simple bouquet of gardenias, lilies, carnations and stephanotis.

Mr. and Mrs. Marshall will live in an apartment on Queen Street and both employed in Oakville, the groom at the Bell Telephone Co. and the bride with Ferro Enamels.

No Grant for Baseball But Promise Co-Operation

Council can give no grant to organizations like the baseball club, but there is a possibility some equipment might be bought, Bill Richmond was told when he approached council Monday for help for the new club.

Mayor Hyde explained that council could be in trouble by granting money to any one sports group.

"Our hands are tied, but I would hope people would give generous support to your club," said Cr. Ian Cass.

Buying uniforms is one big expenditure, for which the club has no funds, said Mr. Richmond.

"We realize your problem but you must remember that such groups as clubs and sports must buy their own uniforms," the mayor pointed out.

Council okayed both proposals to the ball club during intermediate games, and said there would be co-operation in granting use of the ball diamonds as much as possible for children's baseball.

However, Mayor Hyde said

Wait Results Lambeth Shoot

How the Georgetown Revolver club team of Ron Warnock, Ron Chalmers, Ab Whitney and Norm Malby fared in the competitions at Lambeth won't be known for a month to six weeks.

Speaking for the team this week Ab Whitney said the team shot according to plan and were very pleased with their results. He said they anticipate a good competitive score.

The results are being graded at Ottawa by the Canadian Civil Association of Marksmen.

Glen Williams Enters 5-Team Ball League

Glen ball fans will get a look at five ball clubs from all over the county this season, now that their team has been accepted into the Halton Rural Softball League.

Hornby, Nelson, Lowville, Palermo, and Omagh will each make one visit to the Glen ball park during the ten game regular schedule. The season starts Friday, May 26th when Hornby visits the Glen.

Only minor changes have been made in the lineup which the Glen went with while in the Georgetown Industrial League.

$1,000 Cheque Given Hospital at Banquet

Mrs. Larry Maughan Auxiliary President

New officers were installed at the Georgetown District Memorial Hospital Ladies' Auxiliary first annual dinner meeting in the new Georgetown Golf and Country Club dining room on Tuesday, May 9th.

Taking office in the installation conducted by hospital board chairman, John Gunn, were the new president, Mrs. Larry Maughan, 1st vice-president, Mrs. John Matthews, 2nd vice-president, Mrs. Frank Wallace, 3rd vice-president, Mrs. Ken Robertson, recording secretary, Mrs. Ron Chalmers, corresponding secretary, Mrs. J. S. Graham, and treasurer, Mrs. Erwin Noble.

At the head table were Hospital Administrator and Mrs. Graham Gilhooly, Board Chairman and Mrs. John Gunn, President of the Georgetown Medical Association and Mrs. J. H. Chamberlain, and Director of Nurses, Miss Zina Hopwood.

Retiring president, Mrs. John Inglis was in the chair for the business which opened with grace by Mrs. O. M. Brewster, followed by a toast to the Queen. Mrs. Inglis welcomed the auxiliary members and guests and after dinner the minutes of the last meeting were read by Mrs. Tom Ferguson.

Mrs. Ernie Bodnar reported on the progress of ticket sales in the Baby Guessing contest and past president, Mrs. Muriel Adams, presented a cheque for $1,000 to the board chairman as part payment of the pledge made by the I.A. Mr. Gunn thanked the group for their support and the reports of committees completed the business.

Mrs. C. A. Reader acting on behalf of the auxiliary presented ed a past president's pin to Mrs. Inglis, and on behalf of the executive Mrs. Ferguson presented Mrs. Inglis with a cup and saucer. Mrs. Inglis introduced Mr. Gilhooly for a report on hospital progress, and following that, introduced Miss Hopwood who was the main speaker. She was thanked.

Western Farmer's Wife Native of Ballinfad

Mrs. William E. Kenner of Boussevain, Manitoba, died at Killarney Hospital on May 2nd after a month's illness. She had not been well for the past few months.

The funeral service was held in the United Church at Boussevain, on May 5th where many friends and neighbours gathered to pay their respects to one who was ever ready to help those in need. Interment was made in Boussevain Cemetery. Her sister, Mrs. Beatrice Hill, of Ballinfad, went west to attend the funeral.

Besides her husband she leaves five children: Mrs. Earl Kilmurry (Violet), Mrs. Gordon Chambers (Reta), Roger and Bruce of Boussevain and Archie of Killarney, 15 grandchildren and three great grandchildren. Her son, and a brother, live in Ontario. Beatrice and Henry Hill of Ballinfad, Mrs. Erin and Mrs. Robert Warne (Phoebe) of Acton, Brothers George and Will Hill, predeceased her.

Mrs. Kenner's maiden name was Margaretta Hill. She was born on a farm near Ballinfad on July 23, 1879, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Beckwith Hill. She attended Blue Mountain School, walking the 10 miles there and back each day.

On January 20th, 1909 she and William Kenner were married at her home by Rev. George Watts, a Methodist minister of which church she was a member. Bride and groom were Miss Sarah and groomsmen Joseph H. Allan and their two little flower girls were Phoebe Hill and Viola Kenner, youngest sisters of each. All four are still living. A few weeks later Mr. and Mrs. Kenner left by train for Boussevain where they began farming where Mr. Kenner had spent the previous year. They returned to town in 1953.

They celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary at their former home on the farm where relatives and friends had gathered to congratulate them and present them with useful gifts. Miss Beatrice Hill went west for that happy occasion.

Ballinfad Gown

Mrs. Jean McQuinn, as maid of honor, wore a lilac ballerina gown with nylon and acetate lace bodice, two tiered skirt of silk organza over rayon tulle and white accessories. She wore a white shell hat with nylon organza and rayon satin ribbons and carried a colonial bouquet of gardenias, carnations, white roses, and money trees.

Mrs. Van Watkins was the best woman. She wore a similar style gown in yellow with similar accessories and flowers. Mrs. Marshall, the groom's mother, wore a white gown with a matching headpiece and carried a basket of massive white flowers.

ESQUEUSING COUNCIL

May Seek Town Help For Glen Water Supply

Mr. R. Proctor, of the municipal engineering firm of Proctor and Redfern, addressed Esqueusing Council regarding a water system for Glen Williams. "I'm here to offer our services in preparing a report," he began. "I would suggest you talk to Georgetown and see if a common report should be prepared, since we feel you might be better served with a common supply," stated Mr. Proctor.

He pointed out that the chances of a good constant flow are much greater in a larger system.

Reeve Sinclair remarked that Georgetown was not too enthusiastic about simply extending a water line recently installed, and wondered what the attitude might be towards supplying the Glen.

In reply to a question from Mr. Bird, the engineer estimated the water needs at 100 gallons a minute, however, the fire underwriters demand 500 gallons a minute, so in the case of expansion five times the present population could be served with the same mains. He went on to explain steps necessary to bring any scheme under the Winter Works Program. Since labour is about 25% of the total job, the saving on the whole job would be approximately 17%, with the government grant.

Mr. Lou Derby, and Mrs. R. Gower of the Bell Telephone Co. appeared before council seeking blanket permission to use the streets.

Mr. Derby said he was the first to propose the use of the streets for a regular schedule. The season starts Friday, May 26th when Hornby visits the Glen.

Only minor changes have been made in the lineup which the Glen went with while in the Georgetown Industrial League.

The objective is to get away from load clearances and subscriber owned poles. Permission was granted subject to the Road Superintendent's approval.

With the granting of permission by Esqueusing council, a Toronto Sports Car Club will now proceed with a sports car rally on the north line north of Glen Williams, on Saturday, June 3rd.

The club will pay for any help needed at each end of the road. Councillor George Leslie suggested they ask the Ballinfad W.I. to serve refreshments.
