Prompt Action Averts Thompson Property Fire

Early Sunday morning as Alfred Bridgen was walking home after closing the Orange Hall following the Teen Club dance, his attention was drawn to smoke on Wilmer Thompson's property near an incinerator. Taking a closer look he noticed a pile of rubbish burning and the fire was creeping towards a building. Mr. Bridgen noticed lights at Gordon Lee's home and went there for a water hose. Grant Lee helped Alfred extinguish the blaze that could have easily spread to an adjoining garage.

Mr. Thompson stated that he had not burned any rubbish on Saturday. This being firecracker season for the children, this might have been the cause of what could have been a dangerous fire.

The small fishermen caught them by the bushels last Tuesday evening. Jack Simpson, John Wallace, Bill Bailey and Edward Robertson brought home seven bushels of the little fish, catching six bushels of them in a half hour. Friday evening several went down to Burlington and three bushels were the catch. There seems to be no trouble giving the smelt away.

Groom's Father is Former Town Resident

In a ceremony at St. John the Baptist Anglican Church, Dixie, Miss Mary Gwendolyn Thompson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence S. Thompson of Brooklin, and Mr. Thomas Frederick Tedder, son of Mr. and Mrs. Victor Tedder of Port Credit, were married. Rev. Jeffrey Billingsley officiated at the afternoon ceremony.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of antique ivory and candle white Alencon lace, featuring a portrait neckline and short sleeves. Her fingertip veil of tulle illusion was gathered to a matching bandeau of net, and she carried a semi-cascade of gardenias and stephanotis.

Mrs. A. E. John Thompson was matron of honor for her sister-in-law, and she wore a short gown of embroidered silk organza over taffeta in seashell pink. A bouffant overskirt of organza topped the sheath skirt and the matching cummerbund ended in a bow at the back. She carried pink and white carnations in a semi-cascade.

Mr. Robert Tedder was best man for his brother, and ushers were Mr. Robert Reid and Mr. Bruce Riddell.
