

Holy Cross School Will Have Addition

A 5,340 square foot addition is proposed for Holy Cross school. A sketch by architects Cox and Moffet, showed four classrooms can be opened up into one big room for assemblies. As yet the final approval has not been received, but the Board does not foresee any difficulties.

Chairman Stan Walsh told the members that 57 pupils had registered for kindergarten in September, with more enrollments anticipated.

Resigns
A letter of resignation from Miss Mary Kelly was read, bringing the number of teachers needed for the fall term to four, or possibly five, if an additional teacher is needed for the bilingual class.

The Chairman, the secretary Ed Malison, and Principal Fitzmaurice, will visit Hamilton Teachers' College to interview graduates. "I have nothing against the ladies," said Father Olger De Vent, "but I'd like to see a male teacher or two."

Poverty
Transportation Chairman Ed O'Flaherty reported that some school bus fees were in arrears. Commented Chairman Walsh, "Some are pleading poverty where both parents are working. If there is a reasonable income at all, they should pay," he concluded.

A need for more play area in the future was discussed and the possibility of filling some of the sloping area was suggested.

The Board expressed concern for Miss St. Jean, who is ill in hospital, and voted to send her flowers.

Impressive Service at Reclaimed Cemetery

A very impressive Service of Remembrance and Dedication was held on Sunday afternoon at the reclaimed cemetery on the Seventh Line between Stewarson and Ashgrove. The weather was perfect and some seventy five people and children came to honor the brave pioneers of the early district.

Rev. John Hill of Ashgrove United Church opened the service with all singing Faith of Our Fathers. Scripture reading was from the 2nd chapter of Nehemiah, verses 9 to 16. Cornet solo by Robert Wrigglesworth "O Valiant Hearts."

Rev. Ian Fleming of St. John's United Church, Georgetown, read the second Scripture from the eleventh chapter of Hebrews followed by prayer. Musical selections were played by five members from the brass section of the Citizens' Band of Georgetown. Robert Wrigglesworth, David Brewster, David Smith, Jim Fiddler and Clyde Stewart.

The Bible used for the Scripture was loaned by Miss May Thompson whose grandfather had used it every Sunday when the Mt. Pleasant Wesleyan Church (Methodist) stood there. While Revs. Hill and Fleming dedicated the cairn built of the few stones available, two members from the Women's Insti-

Norval Newlyweds Will Live in Barrie District

A couple who are making their home at Ivy, near Barrie, were married on May 27th in Norval United Church. Rev. Lloyd Free officiated at the double ring ceremony which united in marriage Yna Wallinga, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Wallinga, Stewartown and William Henry Parr, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Franklin Parr, R.R. 1, Malton. Mr. Ron Laidlaw was organist and Mrs. Jack May sang Wedding Prayer during the service.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a three-quarter length gown of nylon net and white lace, with taffeta underskirt. A tiny tiara held her nylon net veil and she carried red roses and chrysanthemums.

Bride's Sister
The bride's sister, Mrs. Ida Laws, was matron of honour. She wore pink nylon over-taffeta with a brief white lace jacket and carried a bouquet of yellow roses. Bridesmaid was Miss Elsie Parr, the groom's sister, who wore mist green nylon and also carried yellow roses. Another sister of the bride, Margaret Wallinga was gown with tiny red and blue flowers, a white headband and carried a bouquet of mums, carnations and roses.

The groom's brother, Samuel Parr of Toronto, was groomsman. Ushers were the bride's brother George Wallinga and the groom's brother-in-law, Paul Zarb of Weston.

Reception
At a reception which followed in the church basement, a toast to the bride was proposed by Samuel Parr. For a honeymoon trip to Niagara Falls, the bride wore a black and white cotton suit and a white corage.

Guests attended the wedding and reception from Brampton, Georgetown, Newcastle, Malton, Toronto, Bolton and Weston. Included were Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Statham, Mr. and Mrs. J. Th. The groom formerly worked with his father on their Malton farm and the bride was employed at Peel Creamery, Brampton before her marriage.

Census Taking Stock Of Canada's Resources

Haltom County is finding excellent response in its job of 'Helping Canada Count' according to reports from census commissioners in the five Halton districts. These officials invariably have found their reception to be good, and people anxious to help in this vital task. The census takes place every ten years.

This year it is expected that the vital information will be processed more rapidly, with an 'electronic brain' computing the information when it is received at census dept. headquarters in Ottawa. The machine is reported to be worth $2,500,000, and will greatly speed the final results, which allows the country to 'take stock', in much the same way as a merchant does of his business place every so often.

Haltom census commissioners, each in charge of a large number of enumerators, are as follows: Oakville, Mr. G. Coomb; Trafalgar, Mrs. B. Cooper; Burlington, Mr. Peter Tully; Burlington Nelson, Mr. R. Morris; and North Halton: Mrs. B. Clark. The great percentage of the population is located in the southern municipalities. It was estimated at the time of the last municipal census taking in Halton, that 100,000 lived in south Halton, below the Base Line, with 25,000 to 30,000 in North Halton including Acton, Georgetown, and the townships of Nassagaweya and Esquesing. Locally, reports are that the census proceedings are going ahead briskly, and will be finished on schedule.

Urges Research For Peaceful Uranium Use

Ottawa (special to The Herald): Increased emphasis on research into the peaceful uses of uranium was urged in the House of Commons by Alexander 'Sandy' Best, MP for Halton. Taking part in a discussion on the estimates of the Department of Mines and Technical Surveys, Mr. Best said that the uranium mines and the people they employ were a vital sector in the Canadian economy.

It is to be hoped that increased efforts by the companies themselves, and the government agents involved, will continually improve the prospects for the peaceful use of this mineral," Mr. Best said.

Industry Problems
While there had been, in recent months, a definite increase in activity in solving the uranium industry problems through the creation of such bodies as the Canadian uranium research foundation and the Canadian nuclear association, he felt that the government could do more.

"I do feel that our government can assist, through the mines branch and through its able director, Dr. Convey, in placing additional personnel and additional funds, perhaps research grants to universities across Canada, or directly in the branch itself, into the solving of this problem of uranium costs and, secondly, alternative uses of this mineral in the very wide field of possible applications which now lie before us," Mr. Best stated.

High Pressures
While the uses of uranium in alloy steels for withstanding high pressures and temperatures in jet engines had been pointed out, this could be examined in greater detail. In addition, there was need of study on the addition of uranium to non-ferrous metals and more basic research could be done in testing uranium for catalytic work, shielding, underplating and so on.

"If it came about that an appreciable percentage of our steel production in Canada could incorporate one, two or more pounds of uranium per ton, it could go a definite distance towards solving some of the problems of our uranium mining production and would provide employment in various areas of Canada," the Halton MP suggested. He said there appeared to be a lack of assistance, either in terms of finance or personnel for looking into other uses of uranium.
