District Resident Passes In Acton

After an illness of three weeks, Mrs. William J. Hall, 17 Brock Ave. Acton, passed away in Guelph General Hospital on Saturday, June 10. Mrs. Hall, who had many friends and always enjoyed making new ones, had lived in Acton for 56 years. She was noted for her musical talent and was a great lover of flowers.

Member
She attended Knox Presbyterian church faithfully when her health permitted, and was a member of the Ladies' Aid. She was a member of the Women's Institute, former member of the Duke of Devonshire chapter of the IOBE, and the Royal True Blue Lodge.

Mourn Her Loss
She is survived by three daughters and two sons, Nellie and William of Toronto; Robert of Wingham, Marjorie and Laura (Mrs. Wilfred McEachern) of Acton; six grandchildren; sisters Mrs. Catherine Lane, of Lamech, Mrs. Emily McDaniel, Acton, Mrs. Maude Hill and Mrs. Ceira Cross of Georgetown.

The funeral service was held Monday, June 12 at the Humley-Shoemaker funeral home, Acton, conducted by the Rev. A. H. McKenzie, followed by interment in Fairview Cemetery.

Funeralbearers were Harold McIntyre, Fred Anderson, Earl Lambert, Kenneth Miller, Harold Price and Joe McDonald all of Acton. Carrying some of the beautiful flowers were Lorne Cross, Glen Scott, Clare Keith, Douglas Price and Norman Price.

Mr. and Mrs. DeVries arrived in Vancouver Saturday and plan to visit at several places en route home to Georgetown. His interesting job has also taken him to Pakistan and Iran in the past few years. He will be on vacation for a few months before being posted to another location.

WHAT COUNCIL DID

Petition Against Centre Lights on Main Street

A petition signed by 26 persons, objecting to council's plan for centre street light standards on Main Street was left in abeyance by council Monday.

Reeve Sargent said the petition had come into his hands that day, but was not addressed to anyone.

"It's from a number of Main Street businessmen apparently opposed to the centre lights and I can't tell you where it arrived from," he said as he handed it to the mayor.

With Authority
Cr. Jim Emmerson said he thought the petition should be presented by someone with authority to speak for the petitioners.

"Then we could discuss it with them and find out why they oppose the advice of experts and what alternative plan they might want," he said.

Mayor Hyde's opinion was that the petition was from ratepayers and could be signed by anyone.

"There is at least one name on it who isn't a businessman," he said.

Five Years
The mayor pointed out that Main Street reconstruction has been under construction for four or five years, and isn't being done just for merchants but for all the town.

Last year, he continued, positive action was taken and sound financial planning done which will meet costs without debentures.

The program has been approved by council, endorsed by lighting and safety experts and construction of a storm sewer down the centre of the street had begun that day, he explained.

Small Percentage
"This petition represents a small percentage of ratepayers, 23 in fact of $700 on the voters list. We should recognize it, but we should also recognize our responsibility to the whole town," he said.

"I note on the petition that two people from one business signed. One merchant has already asked that his name be withdrawn." (Earlier in the meeting a letter from Henry Helfant of Henry's Clothing asked for this.)

Reeve Sargent said he was not defending the petition, but believes merchants should be considered because the lighting affects them more than the general public.

"I don't know what proportion the petition represents, but I don't think you can call it 'small'" he said.

All Ratepayers
The mayor replied that the project is being paid for by all the ratepayers and is not financed as a Local Improvement.

Cr. Emmerson suggested the petition be held over until a spokesman for the petitioners attended a meeting.

Cr. Cass said that as only a small proportion of businessmen and a very small percentage of voters were represented, the petition should be filed.

Subject Dropped
Mayor Hyde approved filing too. To hold it any further, he explained, could make construction costs a great deal higher.

A show of hands, however, found only a minority favouring filing the petition.

The subject was dropped at this stage when no one offered further opinions.

ASHGROVE
The Ashgrove W.M.S. meeting was held Tuesday evening, June 13th at the home of Mrs. T. Brownridge with the Association Helpers and regular members together.

President Mrs. W. Bird opened with a hymn and prayer. Minutes of May meeting read and approved and roll call was answered with the word Friendship. Devotionals was in charge of Mrs. Bob Cunningham and was on the Power of Promises.

Mrs. Charles Austin gave some splendid thoughts on "What Prayer Can Do." It can make a man cease from sin, we can all pray as though our very lives depended on it. Pray for God for help and guidance that we may attain peace, she concluded, if we all join hands and hearts with those who seek God, have truth and faith, who then can destroy us.

Mrs. Harvey Nurse had the prayer for the chosen missionary Mrs. James Carney thanked the hostess and all who had taken part and the meeting closed with a social hour.

U of T Graduate

NORMAN BIRD

At a recent convocation at the University of Toronto, Norman Bird received his B.A.S.E. degree in mechanical engineering.

Mr. Bird, who is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Milton Bird, B.R.3. Georgetown, graduated last year from the Ontario Agricultural College, Guelph with his degree of Bachelor of Science of Agriculture and enrolled for post graduate work at U of T last fall.

Agriculture
