Crafts Display Success Thousands in Attendance

Through Hoey Farm for Annual Show

In case anyone observed the seemingly endless trek of cars leading from Highways 401, 7, and No. 25, and thought it was a mass evacuation of Ontario cities, such was not the case, last Saturday!

The occasion was the annual Georgetown Arts and Crafts Sale and Exhibition, this year held at the farm home of Elizabeth Wilkes Hoey and her husband Bill, in Nassagaweya. Mrs. Hoey is internationally known for her silk screen printing and many of her materials have been used in government buildings in Ottawa and many other famous buildings. She is an active member of the local Arts and Crafts.

Over 1,000 cars began to disgorge their passengers at the Hoey farm, scene of the sale, many of them well before the opening hour of 10:30. Several thousands of people attended the sale, and hundreds spent the entire day, browsing through the displays, as well as examining the antiques about the farm grounds.

Exhibits of art, silver work, clay modelling, and leather work, leather jewellery, copper jewellery, spinning, silk, green printing, draperies and many, many other crafts were displayed.

Inside the large old barn was a display of pottery by Miss L. Molesworth consisting of bowls, ash trays, flower pots, etc. Miss V. Molesworth displayed an entirely different group of pottery as did Mrs. Woodcroft. There also in the barn was a display of hooked rugs in various stages of completion.

Hand weaving was displayed, including everything from infants' bibs, to stoles to ties for the men and skirts. Mrs. R. Bennett and Mrs. Bennie Acton demonstrated weaving.

Outside the barn Miss Dorothy Stone did portrait sketches in black and white and colour. Mrs. John Glynn and Mrs. A. Baxter demonstrated spinning. A potter's wheel was operated by Miss Adelaide Miller who could be seen working with her clay turning out bowls. A guest, Mrs. Jack Herman, demonstrated her hand made pottery bowls, mugs, plates, etc. The wall of the driving shed created a mass of colour with painting by Miss Stone, Mrs. A. M. Nielsen, Mrs. J. Mills, Mrs. Bennie Acton, Mrs. Mac Murray, Mrs. B. Breckenridge, Mrs. M. Gilmer, and Mrs. Hoey. In the driving shed also was Mrs. Hoey demonstrating silk screen printing, and a colourful display of her materials, aprons, skirts, etc.

The summer kitchen displayed metalcraft, including copper and silver bracelets, coasters, earrings and small trays, with Mrs. Mitchell in charge. Mrs. Wesley Beatty of Acton demonstrated copper and silver and sterling candle holders and large copper trays made a colourful showing against a background of silk screened fabrics. Mrs. A. M. Nielsen displayed delicate, colourful shell work, toilet corsages and small shell necklaces. She also displayed enamelling on copper, earrings and small dishes. Mrs. C. Bradford and Mrs. D. Greenwood displayed some striking

Wants Open Meetings For Council Committees

"Is it possible for council committee meetings to be open to the public?" asked Mr. Marshment, 23 Hale Drive, at Monday's council meeting.

Mr. Marshment thinks all meetings, other than police and welfare committees should be open to the public.

"Or at least to the press," he continued. "I understand some members vote one way in committee and another in public."

Mayor Hyde explained that the Municipal Act allows meetings of committees-of-the-whole to be closed by resolution. Smaller committee meetings, however, are not open.

He said Mr. Marshment's request would be left with council to discuss if and when any members so desired.

Consider the Possibility Of a Local Bus Service

A local bus service may be a reality, according to Cr. Don Barrager.

When a ratepayer, Mrs. Robert McNeill, asked council Monday about the possibility of a service for East Georgetown residents to get downtown, Cr. Barrager said Georgetown Transportation Co. is surveying this at present.

The company holds a local franchise and several years ago attempted such a service, but found it unprofitable, he said when the town was much smaller.

Five Delrex Blvd residents sent a letter protesting an illuminated commercial sign on a neighbour's bungalow which they thought contravenes the zoning by-law.

The sign is in order except for the illumination and the owner has so been notified, the town engineer told council.

A hearing before council on problems of the town works staff local was asked in a letter from the business manager.

Posting of jobs at the pump-house, hiring employees at less than union scale, laying off employees just before their probationary period ended and hiring replacements, and abuse by supervisory personnel were matters which the union has asked to discuss.

A $300 grant was made to the volunteer ambulance corps in attention of the school board will be drawn to a request by a ratepayer, F. Spingola, that steps be installed up a steep bank where a gravel path leads to Kennedy school.

Charles Heaney, River Dr. complained that he had been refused permission by the county health unit to move into a park district house because it was not hooked up with the sewage system, yet now he lived on a street which is not serviced by sewers at all.

He also noted a problem of a property he owns on Main St. S. where a building had burned down and a new one cannot be built because it is in a conservation area. He was told he could apply to the Committee of Adjustment for a ruling. A letter from the county emergency measures coordinator suggested that a local branch should now be established with a liaison officer from the civic staff. He expressed pleasure at having men like George Macaulay and George Asplen offering their services in this important work.

Two readings were given to a by-law to issue $41,000 in debentures for the planned high school addition.

COUNCIL BRIEFS

Each member was then given tickets to sell on a town Restaurant, Brampton. Mrs. McCallum received for her daughter in a beige sheath with darker beige hat and gloves and watermelon accessories. Watermelon glads made flowers that were brought into her corsage.

The groom's mother wore deep lilac, matching accessories and a corsage of yellow mums.

Leaving for a motor trip to Roanoke, Virginia, the bride travelled in a two piece brown sheath, with matching jacket and accessories and a pink carnation corsage. On their return, the newlyweds will reside at 70 Jessie St., Brampton, where Mr. Gibson is employed at Gummud Papers. Mrs. Gibson works at the Township office in Cooksville.

An honoured guest at the wedding was Mrs. Duncan Gibson, the groom's mother.

Institute Planning Fall Fair Exhibits

September 8th was the date of the first Fall W.I. meeting, held in Knox Hall.

The meeting opened with the Ode and the Mary Stewart collect. To answer the roll call, the members were required to bring flowers suitable for corsages. The minutes of the last meeting were read, correspondence dealt with and accounts paid.

The officers received the new handbooks and "Home and Country" was distributed to the members. A donation was received from Miss Mary E. Watson, the proceeds from two quilts.

A short course in leadership training will be held in Milton October 11th and 12th. Leaders will be Mrs. Kenneth Kiteley, assisted by Mrs. Pearson. The theme is "Sew and Save Dollars and Cents."

Mrs. Wellington Wilson gave a motto, entitled "School Days."

Exhibits for the Georgetown and Milton fairs were planned. Mrs. Sid Robin, Mrs. Kenneth Kiteley and Mrs. Pearson are to arrange the showing at Milton, while Mrs. Harry Bailey, Mrs. E. R. Robinson and Mrs. Gowland will arrange the individual exhibits at Georgetown. All articles are to be left at Mrs. Harry Bailey's.

Exhibitors were pleased with the demand for their particular Canadian crafts, and sales were brisk.

Many distinguished Canadians in the field of Canadian Arts and Letters were present, with guests coming some hundreds of miles. Among those who came to look, and were so intrigued with sale and setting that they stayed most of the day, was Farley Mowat, celebrated Canadian author.

The day was under the sponsorship of members of the group, with Mrs. Leslie Clark heading the committee who arranged the affair. Hopes for another year: "We hope to have a bigger and better sale next year. We learned a lot this year, in our first outdoor sale, and of course made a lot of mistakes. The chief one being of course that we expected hundreds, and received thousands of guests instead. This caused quite a problem, especially in supplying food, etc. But it won't happen again," Mrs. Clark said.

Localites Attend
Connell Picnic

A number of local and county people attended a mammoth Barbecue and Picnic held near Dundas last Sunday.

The affair was held at the home of the Hon. Ray Connell, Ontario's Minister of Public Works, and held each year for St. S. where a building had burned down and a new one cannot be built because it is in a conservation area. He was told he could apply to the Committee of Adjustment for a ruling. A letter from the county emergency measures coordinator suggested that a local branch should now be established with a liaison officer from the civic staff. Minor Lacrosse Teams Fail To Score

The local teams were badly outscored over the weekend at Sat Sept 9 just wasn't their day.

The Novice team journeyed to Port Credit where the O.M.C.A. held its annual Novice tournament.

The locals lost to Toronto Twp. 10 to 0 and in Rexdale 7 to 0.

Here at the local box in exhibition games, the PeeWees lost to Elora 11 to 0 and the Bantams to Paris 7 to 0.

This Sat. Sept. 16 the PeeWees will travel to Whitby for the PeeWee tournament. There will be a parade at noon hour with all the lacrosse teams and featuring a Miss PeeWee contest with girls 10 to 12 years old from various towns being driven in cars.

This Friday, Sept. 15 the Bantams will play a return game in Paris and on the 22nd of Sept. will journey to Huntsville for the Bantam tournament on Sat. Sept. 23. The team leaves here Friday evening at 6 p.m. and when they arrive at Huntsville arena they will be billeted out to homes for the night. It is hoped that more parents will turn out to help with the transportation, which is badly lacking.

Saturday evening, Sept. 9, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Norton Sr., Glen Williams, held a Corn Roast for all the boys who helped with the lacrosse tag day. The executive and coaches also attended.

Norval Burial For Miss Lettie Boomer

Miss Violetta (Lettie) Boomer died after a lengthy illness at her home, 72 Main St. S. on September 3rd.

Born in Norval, she was a daughter of the late John and Alice Boomer and moved to Georgetown with her parents as a young girl. She had lived here since, except for several years when she worked in Toronto and Detroit.

Miss Boomer was a member of St. George's Anglican Church and in younger years took part in activities of ladies' groups in the church.

She leaves two sisters, Cicely, 72 Main St. S., and Pearl, Mrs. Fred Armstrong, 11 McNabb St. Another sister Alice, Mrs. Joe Armstrong and a brother John Boomer predeceased her.

Rev. Kenneth Richardson conducted the funeral service on September 5th at the Harold C. McClure Funeral Home, and interment took place in Hillcrest Cemetery, Norval. Pallbearers were Jack Boomer, Fred and Robert Armstrong, Vic Mosey, Bruce Harding and Eric Timms.

24 Seek Job With Town Police

Twenty-four men have applied for a position as probationary constable with the town police force.

The town advertised, recently when decision was made to add a seventh man to the force.

Council decided Monday to detail the police committee to open applications and make recommendation next week to council.

Bee In Pop, Man Is Almost Blinded

A Toronto man, Marton Szas, age 34, swallowed a bee at a picnic at Terra Cotta Conservation Area Sunday afternoon, went blind for half an hour and nearly choked to death.

Given Adrenalin

Mr. Szas was rushed to Peel Memorial Hospital in Brampton by friends where doctors gave him shots of adrenalin and told him he was allergic to bee stings.

The bee apparently crawled unnoticed into Mr. Szas's pop bottle. When he swallowed it the bee stung his throat. He immediately became temporarily blind, and his throat was so constricted he could barely breathe. He later said his body became numb.

Might Have Died

Doctors said he might have died if he had not reached hospital in time. He recovered his sight while in hospital and later went home for additional treatment by his own doctor, also attended.

Gibson-McCallum Wedding In St. Peter's, Erindale

St. Peter's Anglican Church in Erindale was the scene of a double ring marriage ceremony on August 26th uniting Margaret Doreen McCallum of Cooksville and James Duncan Gibson of Glen Williams.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Irene McCallum of Cooksville and the late Duncan James McCallum and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Gibson of Glen Williams.

Lord's Prayer

White carnations decorated the church as the marriage was solemnized by Archdeacon G. F. Banks. William Bouchier was organist and the soloist Mr. Ridout sang the Lord's Prayer and the Wedding Prayer during the service.

The bride chose an all white gown of lace and tulle over taffeta. The body of the gown was form fitting and strapless, topped with a lace bolero flowing into long slim lily-point sleeves. The bouffant skirt was accented with insertions of lace over taffeta. A crown held her nylon veil studded with sequins and pearls. She carried a white Bible with pink carnations and stephanotis.

Sunshine Yellow

The bride's sister, Mrs. Gordon McMahon was matron of honour, wearing lilac silk organza with a lace bodice. She wore a lace organza ribbon hat with over all net and carried a cascade of lilac and white mums and glads.

Another sister of the bride, Mrs. Gordon Southorn was bridesmaid, with Miss Joan Copperthwaite. Their gowns were sunshine yellow, styled identically with that of the matron of honour, and their flowers were yellow and white mums and glads.

The bride was given in marriage by her brother-in-law, Gordon McMahon. George Herington of Ballinafad acted as the groomsman. Ushering in the guests were Norman McCallum of Cooksville, the bride's brother and Duncan Armstrong of Erin, the groom's cousin.

Reception

A reception for 70 guests followed the wedding in the Rosemount Restaurant, Brampton. Mrs. McCallum received for her daughter in a beige sheath with darker beige hat and gloves and watermelon accessories. Watermelon glads made flowers that were brought into her corsage.

The groom's mother wore deep lilac, matching accessories and a corsage of yellow mums.
