Scuba Divers Enjoy Craigleith Week-End

Scuba diving Cliff Johnson was smiling after the local group exercise off Craigleith shore on the weekend. The junior divers, 4 teenagers including 2 girls and 2 boys, made three descents in the waters of Georgian Bay over two days, the deepest going forty feet. The adult group went down twice to a 35 foot depth and at no time did trouble develop.

The local club will probably make another group dive before the end of the season, but more than likely it will be in this area.

Arrangements are being made to keep the divers together through the winter, and an indoor pool for that purpose. Heated pool or not, however, the Scuba enthusiasts will be meeting regularly through the off-season and view films on the progress of the sport in other parts of the world. New members are still being sought.
