Fall topdressing keeps hay land productive

ANY crop which can yield as much is firm and drugo you can get on the A low-cost feed as hay or pasture deserves the best possible management to keep it productive. That's why a liberal topdressing this fall with Agrico fertilizer is a wise investment.

Fall fertilization of hay and paşture lands stretches out the season, encourages late growth and puts the legumes and grasses in top shape for winter. More important, it stores plant food for earlier, more abundant growth next spring. This can mean an extra 10 days to three weeks of earlier growth. And in the fall, the ground
