Holiday Gift For Fans Raiders Swamp Milton

Surprising what kind of a wall can be thrown up with a stone mason and four rocks. Gerry Inglis, a Glen Williams stone mason, and 'rocks', Gord Thompson, Doug Falby, George Grasby and Wally Magdy, made up Georgetown Raiders' defensive wall Thursday night when the home side went on a scoring spree to humble Milton Merchants 12 to 3.

ers points race with every tally, lead to 7-2 with his second at Laura T the rearguards were going on 19.58. about their business of playing the unsung heroes. Heavy bodyying in the early stages rapidly took the bloom off the eager greenshirts and they were a tired group before the game was past the midway mark. Alf Trotta's frustrating stops when the Milton's did . manage a threat, probably helped their decline.

To make this a compete list of factors add the name of Ja ckle Price who for once wasn't the hard skating leader of the Merchant band, and for some reason over and above those already mentioned parted company with the puck at the sight of a red uniform.

Merchants were short staffed for this one. Ed Haslett, Art Melanson and Stu Hannant were among the missing, but if any county towners want to play
