MARGARET DOESN'T MIND THE COLD

WHO SAYS IT'S COLD? Not Margaret Muller of Norval at least not since Christmas when her father, in the Arctic, sent her a complete Eskimo parka and coat. The body is caribou, the fur forming a picture frame around her face is wolf, and trim around the bottom and sleeves is wolverine. Mr. Muller said in a letter accompanying the gift that the Eskimos who come into the work camp to trade asked for bubble gum, flashlight batteries and clothing. Margaret says her parka would cost a couple of cans of air-wick, but nevertheless it makes an attractive costume. The skins are sewn together with sinew and the buttons are made of croissants.

Wilfrid Bird is Seen as New Halton Warden

The Burlington Gazette says Wilfrid Bird, reeve of Esquerring Township, will likely be warden of Halton County in 1963.

Although the choice of a warden will not be made until mid-January by the special striking committee of county council, Mr. Bird is regarded as the favorite by sources close to county council.

According to an unofficial rotation scheme followed in the past, the new warden could come this year from Esquerring, Milton or Burlington. Normally, only reeves are considered.

The death of Mrs. Mary Petit, reeve of Milton, and the serious injury of F. L. Ryckman, reeve of Burlington, recovering in Joseph Brant Memorial Hospital, reportedly favours his appointment.

Long Distance Calls Bring Christmas Joy

What is the nicest Christmas present you can get? Mrs.

Thomas Warnes, 2 Churchill Crescent, would say that she had the best one when she received a phone call on Saturday morning from her son Fred from London, England.
