Biting Cat Causes Check for Rabies

Whether or not young Rikki, son of Mr. and Mrs. Vic Ginn, 102 Prince Charles Dr., will have to undergo the pain of Rabies treatment hinges on the health of a cat now under observation in the Humane Society Shelter in Oakville but not before it got loose once more, after it had been taken to the police office.

The cat Sunday when walking off friend's house to go skating. According to the boy, he had just petted the animal and it was walking away when it suddenly turned and leaped at him, sinking four teeth into one hand.

Mr. W. Gedcke, 102 Prince Charles Dr., who had been keeping the stray, was also bitten when he and police constable Dan Whitton caught the cat.

Anna Marie was describing the students with whom she is working taking a post graduate course at Louvain University, Belgium. While describing her year of experience in Scandinavia, Holland, France, Great Britain and Ireland, she repeatedly stressed the great service rendered by the Rotary Clubs in spreading the bursaries. "The understanding created in the world by the meeting of students from many lands is of considerable value in the future of the world," she declared.

Europe surprised her in many ways. The first surprise was on arrival in Copenhagen Denmark, the land of Hans Christian Andersen, to be greeted by the local incidence of Liver Pies, bacon, ham and Before starting her course at Louvain she attended a conference in Sweden of students from all over the world. While the conference is sponsored by the Swedish Rotarians the students come from all countries, even where there is no Rotary.

She told about a factory in Sweden half of which is built underground, carved right out of the rock. There may be a lesson for would-be fallout shelter builders here. She said the workers found being underground so depressing that murals of landscapes were painted on the walls to simulate the great outdoors.

Quite a number of among the students touring the factory when the pension plan, sickness benefits, and safety measures were explained. However, it rose to lead decision when the workers' homes on the seashore were visited.

The answer to the uproar was the obvious disbelief of the students from the countries with Communist governments. It seemed they had been told the "capitalistic" countries provided nothing for the workers, so they firmly believed this was a propaganda show. They were sure the workers' homes on the seashore would be vacated as soon as the Student conference was over.

USED HEAD, DISCOVERED PLANET

John Cough Adams, English astronomer of the last century, deduced from calculations about the movements of the planet Uranus that another hitherto undiscovered planet must exist beyond it. Encyclopedia Britannica reports that the planet discovered by deduction was actually observed the next year. It is Neptune.
