Aside from the publicity potential, however, it is good for local residents to know what is produced in our town, and tention on this.

We worlder how many people know how diversified the products are at Smith and Spone. That two coating mills produce a large portion of the slick coated paper which we find in magazines and Edvertising brochures? What automobile parts are manufactured at Standard Products? That work sox and children's sox sold all fiver Canada are products of Beaumont Knitting Co. That chances are the apple pie you eat in a restaurant was processed in Glen Wilhams? And so on!

We wish Councillor Cock success in his such an event every few years tocusses at- idea and hope local firms will give him a boost in carrying out his plan-

Why Exempt Shelters.

One of the most misguided ideas we have heard about recently is a daily newspaper editorial which terms sensible and realistic' a proposal of Attorney General Roberts that the Assessment Act should be amended to exempt fall out shelters from laxation.

The paper claims that because public Interest in civil defence is apathetic, taxing shelters would further discourage people from building what might be their link with life in a nuclear attack.

ment," the editorial says have been urg ing citizens to take measures for their own survival and this involves expense. To make if even more costly by imposing a tex is an absurd contradiction

We don't know where the writer pays his taxes, but surely if he is going to tack le an editorial on such a subject he should know that the whole hasts of property taxation is on the value of the physical assets. One could argue, with some justification, that our municipal taxation laws are unfair. We have ourselves editorialized on the unfarmess of the man who puts his savings into improvements to his home being taxed more heavily than his neighbour who directs his money to other things and lets his turner come second

But to single fallout sheders for tax exemptions is ridiculous, and, we tear "Spokesmen from all levels of govern- more of a pointical platitude than a common-sense suggestion.

> If a man is willing to pay more taxes to build a garage to protect this car, to add a wing to his home to better house his cinidren, to brick his home, to protect it from the weather, he will hardly balk at paying a few tax dollars for a shelter which could conceivably protect life itself

Ambulance Needs Men....

A call for additional men for the local volunteer ambulance service was made last week in a letter written to the Herald mail bag by Cecil Davidson.

The ranks have thinned somewhat recently, due to members moving from town and a few leaving for business or other reasons and at present another fifteen men are needed to bring the service to full feur's licence and some knowledge of first aid are the main requisites. A volunteer must also, of course, agree to be available for a twelve-hour 'call period.' Duty per-
