Ides of March Dance Aids Sunshine School

The Riviera night club at Norval was packed with a happy crowd of dancers last Thursday when the Georgetown Auxiliary of the Retarded Children's Association were hosts at the Ides of March dance.

The evening added a substantial balance to the organization's funds and will help operate the Sunshine School being built near Norval.

Prettiest Knees
Ralph Ursel's Orchestra played as emcee for the evening. To the usual spot dance prizes were added such novelties as a twist contest and a prize for the gentleman with the prettiest knees. Local merchants were generous in donating prizes.

Extra entertainment was provided during the evening by vocalists Tom Troulen and Tom Darcie, well known singers from the minstrel show.

Ontario Director
Receiving guests at the door were Mr. and Mrs. William Treahy and Mr. Mrs. Ernest Ball. Mrs. Treahy is president of the auxiliary and Mrs. Ball a director of the Ontario Association.

Sandwiches and coffee were served to the guests after the dance.

Breaks Arm in Fall on Ice But Mail Goes Through

STEWARTTOWN
Mrs. Harry Scott had the misfortune to fall on the ice recently at her home, breaking her wrist in three places. She believes the "show" must go on, and each day, Mr. and Mrs. Scott are our faithful mail carriers on R.R. 3.

March 1st a truly beautiful day slipped in silently with no hint of snow storm but at 9 a.m. it was cold.

The icy roads and walks are treacherous for young and old alike. Some of the older folks try to venture out at all, and nightly so for many a long painful hour has been spent suffering from a misstep.

We still remember verses from our Public School reader "Somebody's Mother" which began:

The woman was old and ragged and gray,
And bent with the chill of the winter's day.
The story goes on how she stood at the crossing, afraid to venture across on the icy street, and one of the school

Tree Planting Continues

An allocation of $500 for planting trees in various parts of town has been made this year by the town council. The program will continue a policy inaugurated last year when trees were planted on Sargent Road and Maple Avenue as a beautification project.

Already a group of residents of Mile Drive have petitioned for trees up their street with an offer to share costs of Sargent Road residents did last year.

Importance of the program is noted when, at the town council meeting, instructions were issued for Martin Siding to remove four large elm trees which have died, three on the highway and one on McNabb Street, of a total cost of $470.

A large proportion of these huge trees were planted many years ago by a group of residents for enjoyment of succeeding generations and today's plantings will in turn be for the benefit of residents of ten and twenty years hence.

56th Anniversary Celebrated by King Street Couple

Mr. and Mrs. William H. Taylor, 35 King Street East, celebrated their 56th wedding anniversary yesterday, March 7th.

Family Party
On Sunday, they entertained at a family party in honour of the occasion. Present with them for the day were their daughter Evelyn, Mrs. Sam McKrown, her husband and mother-in-law of Toronto; Mrs. Taylor's sister, Mrs. Ellen Borthwick of town; and their great-granddaughter, Peggy Taylor. Their son Lloyd of Toronto was not able to attend but participated in his parents' later in the week.

King Street
Ontario natives, Mr. and Mrs. Taylor spent a great part of their married life in western Canada. He was originally from Guelph and his wife from near Petrolia. They were married in Franklin, Manitoba, lived at Kipling, Saskatchewan for eight years and then in Winnipeg. Seventeen years ago they returned east to make their home in Georgetown.

We feel that if some of our older folks would just let them spring to their aid as quickly as that gallant lad in the reader and be pleased to be useful.

In the hockey world, which is "The World" for some of our young boys. Those who have followed the C.O.H.A. games are very well pleased with performance of the Georgetown Raiders, who have finished the season's schedule and are looking forward to great success in the coming play-off games.

expenses of the hospital, they do NOT PAY the upkeep of building or equipment. The finance committee consists of 5 members.

Public Relations Good
Committee chairman E. M. Clark's report on this area of hospital work stressed that possibly the greatest boon was the excellent harmony prevailing among the staff, their obvious efforts to please and the very excellent feeling existing between patients, visitors and staff members who come in contact with visitors to the building. Mr. Clark paid tribute to the help of Graham Gilhooly in the dissemination of public information and his many factual articles appearing in the local press. Mr. William Kinrade had attended a seminar in Toronto with other hospital P/R people and had found it most enlightening. Plans for the future are being laid.

Donations and Bequests
Denny Charles convener of the all-important donations and bequests committee, in his report stressed his two chief problems; that of standardizing plaques and of checking on delinquent pledges. He reported a great deal of time had been devoted to standardizing all the plaques, to take into account the requests for various types of wordings. He also reported that a large number of people were behind on their pledges and this was causing acute financial difficulty. Every effort should be made to have these honoured, and he hoped more public appreciation of the financial need would help in the situation. Personal visits were going to be made early this year.

excellent documentary of the history of the medical profession's part in the hospital picture. He paid tribute to the cooperation and help of the Board of Directors.

The medical profession organized first as a medical staff before the hospital was built, in December, 1960. The active members consist of six practitioners in the town, one of whom is the consultant in surgery. Honorary consultants are available in most fields; two in obstetrics and gynecology; seven in surgery; four in medicine and three in anaesthesia as well as courtesy staff members representing surrounding centres. Medical bylaws have been in effect since the hospital opened. Regular staff meetings are held.

Dr. Chamberlain stressed the impact the hospital had on modernizing the practice of medicine in Georgetown and stressed the spirit of cooperation and cohesiveness among the physicians. He mentioned the help of the administrator, and said that under the nursing director, Zena Hopwood, Georgetown is developing a high calibre of nursing personnel.

Original medical equipment purchased was of an excellent quality, especially in view of the financial restrictions, but as times passed additional equipment is being acquired and at the present time not too much is lacked for. Physiotherapy services ARE, however, needed, and as the hospital is becoming more active, a trained pathologist is needed. Dr. Chamberlain hopes that these additions may be acquired this year.

(The very excellent report of the administrator, plus reports of Hospital Auxiliary, etc. will be dealt with next week.)
