HOPE TO BE WORST HOSTS EVER

Outshot 30-21 But Brads Pull A Win

Tie Series Wednesday As Glimpse Of Future

If the referee handling the 4th game of the COHL Intermediate A series had been Ruby Goldstein, Bradford Bred's Fords would never have won. Ruby would have checked the entire squad on the ice and they would have all been disqualified for being greased.

They had to be. How can human hockey players without being caked with petroleum jelly slither out of so many awkward situations? How can puck chasers without wearing five layers of sheep fallow slip out of the grasp of elimination when the odds are so heavy against them.

That's how it was Wednesday. Georgetown Raiders leading the best of 5 set, 2 games to 1, needed only to come through with the k.o. blow in front of the 1000-plus onlookers to get their ticket to the finals.

If the skies weren't dark enough to start with things took on the shade of the inside of a coal mine for Fords early in the contest when their sensational string bean, Dan Spider Gibson, crashed into the boards at the north end and left on a stretcher with rib injuries. Total this with the fact that Raiders outshot their visitors 30 to 21 and you get anything but the eventual outcome.

Bradford ignored all the Zodiac signs and won the contest 6-4 to knot up the series at two games each and force a fifth game back in Bradford.

Georgetown had many more opportunities to hit pay dirt than Bradford, especially in the early moments of the game when they pumped rubber at the Ford cage at a tiring clip. But the Fords made better use of their opportunities, finished their plays better, and held their fire until they could see the whites of the goal judge's eye behind Barry Smith.

Raiders had just ended an unproductive flurry in the Bradford end when Thornington put his club ahead 1-0 at the 8:45 mark from Folis. The Raiders' backers considered the way the game was going and worried little about the injustice of a Bradford tally until Billy Forham who kept stepping on Jackie Price's heels in the scoring race throughout the regular schedule, launched a missile that eluded Smith to make it 2-0 less than a minute later.

Cash In

Raiders failed to cash in until the period was half gone, Joe Auger the triggerman, after Moe Galand sent him into the clear at centre ice. Galand and Gerry Inglis collected the assists.

Galand, who spearheaded Georgetown's scoring, potted the first of a pair and created a 2-all tie at the 2:43 mark of the second period from Fraser Dunn and Doug Falby. But Bob Hassard touched off another Ford uprising at 9:20 with his tie breaker from Lorne Boyer and Kelly. Fordham followed up again with a bullet that found the target seconds later to re-open the 2 goal margin. And Raiders reduced it to one on Bob Demerse's counter at 12:37 from Gerry Inglis and Fraser Dunn.

Deflator

Gary Vasey registered the eventual winner when he deflated the eager locals with Bradford's 5th goal after just 35 seconds of the final period. Best Georgetown could do was draw within a single goal for the third time in the game on Moe Galand's second goal, the best of the night, at 11:56. Galand surprised the Fords with a hair-pin route from the red line to the goal mouth that left three would-be checkers in his wake, and finished it right by threading the short side.

The goal lifted the sagging Raiders but the Bradford shield couldn't be penetrated. Kelly put it on ice with a long shot that entered the vacant net at 19:57.

The Fords played the last part of the game without Folis who suffered a concussion in a tangle with Fraser Dunn and, like Gibson, left on a stretcher.

CURLING CHATTER

by Bob MacArthur from the

North Halton GOLF and COUNTRY CLUB

Something new has been added at the curling club. Although it is late in the season, the new benches are sure appreciated by those who run out of wind while sweeping.

Games these nights are being played under trying conditions. About half the rink fails to show up and there is a scramble to fill out the rinks with substitutes. Friday night on the 7 o'clock draw only two games got under way. There were not enough players to fill the four sheets.

A number of curlers made a return visit to Guelph on Tuesday night. The Guelph curlers were our guests about six weeks ago and this was the return visit. It sure left the regular curlers very short of players.

Russ Kelly reports that he is starting this week to get the equipment into shape for the coming golf season. The snow sure went away fast but the ground is not drying up very fast as the frost is not yet out of the ground. Contain yourself fellows, it won't be long now.

Noticed a couple of the younger golfers coming in from the course on Sunday afternoon. They sure looked as if they needed something to warm them up.

Nash-Mintern Rink Win Langdon Spiel

Mr. and Mrs. Ken Nash and Mr. and Mrs. John Mintern are the winners of the Langdon trophy for the present season. They won the trophy at the curling club on Saturday in the largest spiel ever held at the club. There were three draws necessary to accommodate the married couples who wanted to take part in the spiel. Each rink played two games and the total points were necessary to decide the winners.

Here are the prize winning rinks:

Early Bird Draw — 8 a.m. — Ken Nash's rink with a total of 21 points plus 13. They also took possession of the cup for the season. Bill Schenk's rink was second with 19½ points. The third rink was skipped by Jim Linton, with 15 points, but they did not get into the prizes.

The Swing Shift winners — 10 a.m. Draw — Lloyd Crichton's rink with 21 points and a plus of 8. Second was the rink skipped by Ken Howat with 13½ points.

The Sleepy Heads — 12 o'clock Draw — George Gray's rink with 21 points and a plus of 10. Wray Bessey's rink was second with 20 points while the rink skipped by Sam Mackenzie was third with 15 points.

President of the Board, James Linton was delegated to make the presentation in the absence of Mr. K. Langdon.

The largest crowd every assembled at the rink for curling took part in the dancing that followed the games. The music was supplied by Ralph Ursel and his five piece orchestra, which kept the crowd in a festive mood with their fine repertory of modern dances.

[illegible] ship shield which will be inscribed with the names of the winners.

This week the ladies are playing for spoon draws and this will about wind up the season for them, except for their annual meeting, which is scheduled for the club on Wednesday, April 18th.

LADIES' DARTS

Recently the League leading Brampton Community Furniture dart team played hosts to the leading team here — Georgetown Community Furniture — and a most enjoyable afternoon ensued.

First a doubles match took place and each team won one game.

Challenge Match

Then both teams fought out a challenge match resulting in a win for Georgetown.

The single matches proved most interesting and here again resulted in each team winning one game.

A delicious lunch was then served and arrangements finalized for a return match to Georgetown, in the very near future.
