

Thinks Town Needs Teener Facilities

Parents, Citizens and Tax-payers:

As a lot of the youth in this town know, I am a visitor so if you don't mind, I would like to tell you what I think you are doing to destroy the young people and help juvenile delinquency grow a back of a lot faster.

You don't give them anything during the week to take up their time. I know that you are thinking that they should stay home and study, but how many young people stay home every night and study. They like to get out during the week too.

I've seen girls and boys walking the streets looking like pickups for anyone who comes along. The last you could get is a show started or some kind of entertainment say three nights a week. All I see is mainly things to do for adults like the bowling alleys and golf and country clubs which also accept other entertainment for adults or people who have money. Say you gave your child $1.00 a week. Well I can tell you where it goes, 75c for the dance on Friday and 25c for pop after the dance is over. So how can they afford to do anything else - except walk the streets or sit in a restaurant all night.

When they walk the main street all they see is people going into the hotel and as far as I am concerned, if they see adults do it, they think there is something going on in their selves and I know of a few people in this town who have lied about their age to get in there.

Now there are 10,000 people in this town, so why can't you get together and do something about the problem that is very fastly happening. I know that as soon as I can find a job up here I will be moving up here. And if I do I plan to help the youth of Georgetown. To help make Georgetown a better place to live.

Thank you.

MAIN-STREET TODAY AND YESTERDAY

It's a pleasure to shop in our downtown stores. Once again o'er the streets wide and new. We weathered the mud, the stones and the dust. To get what we've got and we like it a lot.

The merchants were patient in those trying times. And the clerks stood by them and did their best. With a smile and a helping hand to us all. Which we'll admit was quite a feat.

And then came the time of the Centre Isle Plan. To be or not to be? that was the question. For quite some time it hit a high note. But at last it was all settled with one single vote.

Now, the stores look so nice with their new face (on). And thanks to the workmen who did a good job. But let's stop and go back a few years in thought. And think of the stores we have all forgot.

I'm sure you remember where Eaton's now stands. Was our old Smithy Shop where the horses were shod. And where gas is displayed in modern array. Stood our old Post Office for many a day.

But as our own town grew it was moved down the hill - A much larger building. And modern too. McGibbons is still in its same old spot. Except that its face has been lifted a lot. And where now stands a modern Dry Cleaning store. Was our old and well loved Dollar Store.

"Henry's" displays his clothes with good-taste. Right where our good old Her-ald was born. It's still in good hands, but has found a new spot. Farther on down the street, where stood our Bake Shop. And so we go on down the street of renown. And make up our minds to do all we can. To keep it alive. And a thriving old town. And in remembering may I pass on to you. The hope that some day in the very near future. Our much needed "Y" will have its place too. In our present Post Office and its all up to you, and you and you.

Luncheon Rewarding at Terra Cotta Inn

By RONALD EVANS
In The Telegram

I've had the habit of taking four-hour lunch breaks (Monday, noon). But what I do, it's worth it. At least it was worth that much time to visit the Terra Cotta Inn near Georgetown the other day. We had a long mid-day break? Well, there were several good reasons:

(1) It's a fair distance out to the Terra Cotta Inn - about 28 miles from downtown Toronto, I figure.
(2) I got lost on the way.
(3) And most important, enjoyed myself so much I was in no hurry to leave once I got there.

HE COOKED
It was about 11:30 a.m. when I left the foot of Bay Street with a friend and set out for Terra Cotta. Everything went fine along the Lake Shore road, the Queen Elizabeth Way and north on Highway 10 as far as Brampton. But then, past Brampton, I got lost and headed east on Highway 7 to Georgetown. I eventually located the narrow, winding dirt road that led to Terra Cotta, but this unnecessary detour doubled the time it took to get to the inn.

What I should have done (and what you should do, whether you're going by way of the Queen Elizabeth, Highway 7 or 401) was stay on Highway 10 as far as the little hamlet of Victoria and then turn left onto the tree-lined, well paved road that leads straight to the inn.

Because of my bumping, it was well after 1 p.m. before we pulled into the inn's large parking lot. Still, the luncheon trade was in full swing, with the

WINDY SPOT
We took a table for two, minus, unfortunately, one of the great gay umbrellas but with a fine view of the gardens below, with their falling streams, still pools and nodding wildflowers. It was perhaps too windy that day to dine out comfortably (my cigarette ashes refused to stay in the glass tray and patrons at the next table lost their heavy plastic placemats) but who could resist that setting and the bright sunshine.

Our waitress turned up in no time at all with luncheon menus fastened to large wooden paddles. That day there was the choice of homemade soup (30 cents) or (also 30 cents), celery tray (20 cents), sweet potatoes (fried) from $1.50 for turkey pie up to $2.50 for roast dressed duckling and including sweetbreads and bacon, curried brains, steak and kidney pie, lobster, Murray and Wall salad, and two desserts (ranging from a coffee paraffin of 35 cents to Terra Cotta special of 40 cents).

JUICE AND SOUP
My companion chose chilled apple juice to start and I took the soup, which was a cream of celery broth, thick, rich and satisfying.

THE SPECIAL
My friend, surfeited with hot salad, passed up dessert, but I picked that Terra Cotta special, a towering concoction of ice cream, ginger preserve and whipped cream. We wound up with coffee and our complete bill came to $5.20.

The Terra Cotta Inn is not licensed to sell any alcoholic beverages. Too bad, wine would certainly enhance any meal in this big white frame house with its dark-timbered and brass-wiping dining rooms.

ENGLISH YEA
One of the special delights of the inn, one about which I've heard many friends speak but have never sampled, is the English-style tea served in the afternoon, with hot buttered scones, whipped cream, honey, jams, marmalades and homemade preserves.

The inn's dining rooms are open every day from Easter to Halloween, for the rest of the year only on weekends.

Legion Ladies Mark 34th Anniversary
Members of the Ladies Auxiliary of Branch No. 120 Canadian Legion, celebrated their 34th birthday on Friday evening, September 14, in the Legion Banquet room where they enjoyed a hot turkey dinner catered to by the members of Verduin Rebekah Lodge. Ladies and guests numbered over one hundred and were welcomed by the president Mrs. James Emmerson.

Mrs. C. Day led in singing Grace, Mrs. D. Capperauld, first vice president proposed the toast to the Queen and Branch member James Murphy the toast to the fallen comrades. Mrs. W. Finley, Zone Auxiliary Commander, blew out the candles on the huge birthday cake which was beautifully decorated for the occasion. Mrs. Finley wished the members continued success. Branch president Dave Capperauld spoke briefly commending the members on their work.

After dinner, dancing was enjoyed to the music of Joe Pratt and his orchestra. Lucky draw winners were Mrs. B. Hurley, a blanket; Mr. Roy Ridiger, pillow cases and Mrs. Harry Bottoms, a towel set. The members of the Auxiliary expressed their appreciation to the Rebekahs for helping make the evening such a pleasant one.

BUSY SCHEDULE
From the reports I received it looks like the Industrial Dart League is going to have a busy schedule again this season. I understand teams are being formed and everyone is just waiting for the first game of league play.

ATTENTION 'OLD VETS'
Here is a poem that was written by Milt Harker of Branch 120 and Milt dedicated this poem to all old vets.

ATTENTION, OLD VETS
You my boy are needed,
Yes you, and many more;
You'll find a welcome waiting
Inside the Legion door.
If you're sad and lonesome,
And each night watch TV...
Then drop in to the Legion -
There's lots for you to see.
If you like crib or euchre

Darts games galore,
We'll give you satisfaction,
What more could a man ask for.
You'll meet old buddies
Whenever you attend...
And with the many members
You're bound to make a friend.
No need for you to sit at
home,
Just feeling sore and blue,
So please drop in whenever you wish.
We've always lots to do.
We have a branch, we're proud of...
A bunch of guys true blue,
But there's always room for more,
And that's always room for YOU!
