Despite Rumours-Hunters Haven't Switched to Machine Guns

ANYONE IN THE vicinity of the new Anglers and Hunters property this weekend may have thought it so, but the club has definitely not inaugurated a machine gun target shooting competition. What you heard was fifteen hammers wielded by the industrious ALH work crew as they made short work of erecting the frame of their new clubhouse north of the Ballinafad side road. Construction started about 4 week ago and since then dub members have been swarming over the structure like bees around a hive. At one w time on the week-end there were over a dozen pseudo-carpenters working on the roof alone. In this area, about 12 feet square, Herald photographer Peter Jones, using a high speed shutter captured this particular work party on film. They are, Art McAllister, Bob Jepson, John Glynn (note works supt. card), Ian Presgrave, M.ke Zawilski, Harv Copland and Dom Powers. They'll be in it next week.
