

CLUB MIDTOWN

by Kate

They say that things always happen in three's and that was the case last Friday night when we were proud to present you with three of the most talented girls I have ever seen, namely the Charmelines. The place was just packed with teens watching one of the greatest shows ever put on by Club Midtown. Because I know that every one liked this group, I know like myself, that you would like to know more about these fine people, so I asked them an awful lot of questions and this is what I found out.

They first started singing together, in the high school they all attended which was, Robert A. Tait Senior High, down there in Chateaubert, at the age of 17. They are now all in the same school, at the age of 18, and went into the recording business. They named their group after a cousin, Charlene, and have recorded four records. I believe they won scholarships and would have liked to attend college, but their profession taking up the time it does keeps them in the shadows. But they still would like to go to college if they get the chance and the time. The girls: Irene, Gigi and Dee are now recording for Dot records and have a new record, not yet released, called "I Saw a Star Fall Last Night". If this record is anything like what we heard at the dance, you can be sure that it will reach the top.

They said that they would like to continue with their career for as long as possible and hope to someday be on top. All of them told me that they love the travelling and the way they get to meet so many people. They commented on how friendly the Canadian people were, and what a wonderful bunch of teens made up their audience. I was very privileged to be able to spend so much time with this group as I did, and believe me you couldn't find three more charming girls if you looked for a lifetime. By that, I mean they acted just like one of the crowd. There wasn't any putting on airs or acting better than every one else — just a down to earth niceness that attracted everyone they met. For it was a real joy talking to them and I, as I guess you, wish them all the luck in the world.

Of course the success of the show can also be attributed to the fabulous show put on by the Consulats. These guys have been coming up to Club Midtown for at least a year now and they are even better than they were when they first started. Not only are they terrific artists but they are a wonderful bunch of fellows. I mean they are the sort of guys that no matter how long you have known them there is always the feeling to want to get to know them better. During the course of the evening I got talking to one of them and decided it was time you knew more about them. These fellows hail from the Toronto area and have been working together for two years. Two of them played in the Impacts, but when that group folded up they got some guys together to form the Consulats Little Caesar (Bruce Morehead), the chief of the group is the one who does most of the good jobs on the piano, he is 22. On the drums we have Wayne Connors and a better drummer could not be found, he is 22. Then we have Tom Wilson who plays the bass guitar and sings a lovely Moss Lisa, he is 23. On the sax we find Norm Sherratt, blowing up a storm and blasting out our ears drums when he sings "I'm Not A Fool" (I sure hope that's how you spell it) — he is 21. And then last but not least, that nut you see walking around on the dance floor playing a mean guitar is Ken Pernoki. He is 21.

They all go together to form the most fabulous band ever assembled on the face of the earth. It is hard to say when they got their first big break because they played at so many places. They first appeared around these parts at Club Midtown through the efforts of Mike Williamson. (Mike, you'll never know what a great contribution you made to rock and roll. We thank you very much.) They have a home (that's a continuing word for later) down at the CHUM radio station that could very well result in a record. If it does watch these fellows rise. But you every dance from here to Alaska will want them. In fact it is a wonder to me that they haven't been booked there already. Well, Wayne, how did you like it?

Now I think it is time I told you what we have planned for this week. To keep up the good work we have been doing we present another favourite of yours, the Lucernes. These guys have only been around for a little while but already they show signs of becoming really big in the R.R. world but if you want to know why just come up to the dance this Friday night and see for yourselves. I give you my personal guarantee (if that means anything) you will never regret it.

SOMETHING TO THINK ABOUT
These interviews are only the first of the many more I hope to obtain from people I feel you would like to know about. Next week I hope to be able to give you the low down on the Lucernes and the week after that I hope to give you the low down on someone you know you will want to know more about. I am not going to mention any names but I advise you to tune in if you are the least bit interested. If you're not, tune in anyway, it might be good for a laugh. Also this is just the start of the many shows we hope to be able to bring you in the future. Men, please try to remember the white shirt and tie or the sports jacket. You all look so handsome when you are dressed up and it gives the place a real look of distinction and pride. Also girls, remember be sleek to jeans, please.

Well, people, this is turning into a novel so I better sign off. But just remember what they say. The least dressed teens are here to stay. No matter who you are or what you do. Appearance shows the real you. They say that all good things must come to an end. This is the end.

Jury Recommends Farm Safety Tips

Greater emphasis in farm publications and organizations on the safe operation of farm machinery was recommended by a five-man jury of the Inquest into the death of William Harold Ferguson, held at Spayville School, Sept. 25th. Mr. Ferguson was killed on a farm at 1st St. concession 2, Etoualling Township, when he was pulled into a forage harvester.

RIDING A "SWEEPSTAKE"

THOUGH IT APPEARS these Scuba divers are standing in about 4 feet of water, they are actually on top of the capstan of an old sailing ship, the Sweepstake, just off the point of the Bruce Peninsula in Georgian Bay, and those articles a couple of the divers are holding up are souvenirs from the hulk of the old vessel. The picture was taken by another local diver, Paul Barber. In this group are Mike Baker, Stan Hegstrom, Simon Llewellyn, and Joyce Rundle. The ship is 150 feet long and, as an example of the way sailing ships were built in its era, has a deck planking of 4 x 12s. It is sitting in 40 feet of water.

Rosh Hashanah is Jewish New Year

By Sam Maltzer

Quite a number of Georgetown friends have asked me why Rosh Hashanah is called the New Year — since it takes place in the seventh and not the first month. Rosh Hashanah is the first of the Ten Days of Penitence. Tradition tells us that God created the world then — and the bible specifies "In the seventh month, in the first day of the month shall ye have a sabbath, a memorial of blowing of trumpets, an holy convocation." Although the real beginning of the Jewish Year counts from the day of the Exodus and was appointed by Moses as the first day of Nissan (March-April). The services in the synagogue are very solemn. The "Shofar," the ram's horn, is sounded (although this year it will only be sounded on the second day, as the first day falls on Saturday (our Sabbath). Its sound is a summons to the worshippers to look into themselves and conscience, and come to repentance. After that there is much festive celebration and the ancient Hebrew greeting "Leshanah tobach tikkatheby" (may you be written down in the book of life for a good year). The day of Atonement nine days later, originated with Moses wandering in the wilderness. It is a fast day marked by prayer — when we seek forgiveness for transgressions. Yom Kippur is therefore considered the holiest day of the year. With Rosh Hashanah, it constitutes the "High Holy Days." On the eve of Yom Kippur when the candles are lighted the Cantor sings the Kol Nidre and the congregation sings with him. The very orthodox congregations wear the kittel, the white shroud. Thus their thoughts turn upon man's ultimate dissolution and they reflect "there is not a righteous man upon earth that doeth good that sinneth not."

Ever-Fresh Picnic Sandwiches
Picnic sandwiches will keep fresher if made of bread frozen in the freezer. Frozen sliced bread separates easily and should not be defrosted. The bread will keep the fillings fresh but will be thawed for eating by luncheon.

SANDY WILL STAND AGAIN

C. A. SANDY BEST

Alexander "Sandy" Best, who represented Halton as a Progressive Conservative in the previous two Ontario provincial administrations, has tossed his hat back into the political ring in anticipation of another Federal election. "I have decided to stand once again for the Conservative federal nomination in Halton," Mr. Best informed the Herald. "My decision has been made after a lengthy and thorough examination of all the factors involved. It has been aided in part by the extremely close vote in Halton last June, the possibility of an early election, and the repeated urgings of many hundreds of friends and supporters."

LEGION NOTES

by Andy A. St. Laurent

Dear Comrade:
According to a recent bulletin issued by Com. Garth Rusk, chairman, Provincial membership Committee, our Ontario Command finished 1961 with a record paid-up membership of 80,186 as of Dec. 31st, 1961. This represents an increase of 955 members above the 1960 figure. Very impressive, you say? You are right, it is always nice to show increased membership year after year.

However, there are certain grim facts that you should all be made aware of. Facts that we must all face up to regardless of just what our branch executive level happens to be.

Non-Renewal
I am talking about the fact that each Ontario Command loses an average of 5,000 members due to non-renewal of membership. This is fact, not fancy!
What is the reason for this? Why do these Legionnaires fall out?
Whose fault is it? Yours? Mine? Is it the Legion as a whole? Is it the individual branch?

UNIFIED EFFORT
If we know the answers to the above questions I am sure we could devise ways and means of combatting this perplexing problem. The way I see it, is that our attack must be directed at the source, at branch level. It must be a unified effort on the entire branch executive working conscientiously towards the common goal, Fallout Prevention. One way this can be accomplished is to make your branch attractive to all its members. This, to me, is very important. In our Legion, we have all types of individuals, their tastes and talents are varied and diversified. It is their responsibility, yes, the duty, of the branch executive to have an overall branch program that will embrace these tastes and talents so that these members will have that "belonging" feeling. Unless a member of a group or organization, be it civic, service or fraternal, has the opportunity to exercise his right of "active" membership he will quickly lose interest and drop out.

MEMBERSHIP SMOKER
Don't forget our membership smoker on Friday, Oct. 19th, I repeat, Oct. 19th and not the 14th as published in last week's column. Let's try and make this membership smoker as successful as our last one, and the only way this can be achieved is that all Legion members do their utmost, bring along with you a potential member, that's all, leave the rest to the committee.

"Fight Fallout" — Renew in 62.
