

THESE KITTENS NEED A HOME

THE AGE-OLD PROBLEM of kittens seeking a good home has a mystery who could refuse accommodation for such a beguiling litter. They're members of the cast of the Pink Siamese, the Vicki Lay program of music and dance which even caught up with these cuddly young felines, although beguiling litter. They're members of the cast of the Pink Siamese, the Vicki Lay program of music and dance which has been postponed because there was no stage available.

Marie Beaumont Antiques New Business in the Glen

Come next spring, a new business will be operating in Glen Williams in a converted barn on the property of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Beaumont.

Marie Beaumont Antiques is the name the couple have chosen for their business venture. And meanwhile, they have set up shop in the upstairs of their charming home in the village and welcome buyers for the antique and collectible items they have been collecting for several months.

The idea has been forming for some time in the mind of Mr. Beaumont, who retired from the textile business a few years ago when he sold the family business to Eastman and Gordon Graham.

Seeking an interest which could be both interesting and profitable, he gradually came to realize that a life-time hobby could become more than that. And Marie Beaumont Antiques was born. Mr. and Mrs. Beaumont have spent months of study, visited dealers in many parts of Ontario and Quebec, and for some time have been accumulating a stock of merchandise, still small, but carefully chosen.

They have glassware of cranberry glass, carnival and Tiffany. Some excellent pieces of linens, spades and bisquit china. Fine cheese and butter moulds and a dozen's bunch, to name only a few.

The Beaumont property lends itself admirably to an antique business. Possibly the oldest house in the village, it was originally the home of Squire Williams who gave his name to the Glen, and is over a century old. It has been in the Beaumont family since 1910 when the late Joseph Beaumont purchased it.

The barn, where business will be set up in the spring, is at the rear of the property. Besides being an excellent location for an antique dealer, it has a fine view of the river which winds its way through the village and overlooks the ruins of the old Glen Textile plant which, industrially lends a sad note to the scenery but pictorially will be an extra attraction for visitors.

New Hampshire Impressions of Ontario

By Doris Mallett Woodstock, New Hampshire

This summer I had the real privilege of being a Grange International Youth Exchangee to Ontario. For four and a half weeks I lived with the Clarence Anderson family between Glen Williams and Terra Cotta. While I was there I met many people and saw about as much of Ontario as was possible in a month. I came into contact with different ways of farming, different customs, and ways of life.

In speaking of tea I might mention your trossau tea. Although this custom might be practiced in some parts of the United States, it is not practiced in New Hampshire. It, without a doubt, involves a lot of extra work, but I do like the idea.

There are innumerable other things which I will always remember about Ontario — places I visited, people I met, and many others. I hope that this exchange will become more extensive so that more will get a chance to see how places such as a short distance apart can be so different. In the meantime come visit us in New Hampshire.

Shower Rene Wheeler Now Mrs. C. Chalklin

One evening before her marriage, about thirty friends and neighbours gathered in the Fellowship Room of the United Church to shower Rene Wheeler with many lovely gifts. Rene thanked the ladies for the many and varied articles for her new home. A dainty lunch was served at the close of the evening. Hostesses for the occasion were Mrs. Una Wheeler and Mrs. Herb Hancock.

The United Church Women met in the Fellowship Room of the church last Monday evening. The president, Mrs. W. Everson, was in the chair. Mrs. C. Barth took the devotional on a "Thanksgiving" theme. The treasurer, Mrs. F. Engleby gave a report and it showed the "trunkage sale" was a success. An invitation was received for the ladies to attend St. Andrew's U.C.W. meeting on October 10th; also an announcement was made of the Fall Rally in Orangeville, Westminister Church on October 22nd. After the business meeting, the ladies went over to Mrs. Schenk's home where they had a social hour and viewed the Christmas cards which the ladies of the church are selling. Farming is different for several reasons. One of the most important factors is that your land is very flat and ours is very hilly, as we live right in the mountains. Perhaps for this reason we raise very little if any grain at all. Our land is not easy to farm and our farms are decreasing in number.

One of the effects that I noticed of having a large farm population is that all activities begin so much later — dances don't start until ten o'clock for instance, meetings begin at nine o'clock, where ours would begin at least an hour before yours and get out at least an hour earlier.

A very nice custom that I found was that of serving tea or coffee to visitors no matter what time of day they dropped in. It is a custom that is not practiced nearly as much at home in New Hampshire.
