EABITIONALLY the month of flaming leaves and clear skies, October stole a page out of November's script last week and sulled the rug from under those district souls who like to think about Indian summers, snowless autumns, and the ke. But besides catching motorists with their enti-freeze down and snow hires still in storage, the premature precipation had its benefits. Merchants experienced a sharp increase in business on the weekend, and the landscape was, comentarly, better for the transformation, i.e. above at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Alex Hume, 24 Young St.
