Set 1963 Budget For Local Hospital

On the third Thursday of each and every month, a very important function takes place at our local hospital. This is the monthly meeting of its Board of Directors. The present board is made up of fifteen local residents, who were elected to office by the members of the Hospital Association at large, and five others who are members due in part to their function in the hospital area, or definite functions within the hospital.

The board itself is divided into a number of committees, these being Management Committee, Mr. T. Evans, chairman, Finance Committee, Mrs. Elsie Hamilton, chairman (hospital treasurer), Property Committee, Mr. Harold McClure, chairman, and the Donations and Bequests Committee, Mr. D. Charles, chairman. Each of these committees has a very definite and important function to perform, and on the program at the monthly meeting is a report from each committee to the Board of Directors as a whole. The Chief of the Medical Staff, at present Dr. J. H. Chamberlain, and the Administrator, Mr. H. Graham Gilhooly, also give reports with recommendations and suggestions in their functional capacity within the hospital.

Based on the reports received, the Board of Directors makes the policy decisions which are so important to the general welfare of the hospital. The various committees of the Board of Directors hold their own committee meetings prior to the general board meeting. This is the democratic means by which the hospital is governed and controlled in all of its activities. Some of the highlights of the monthly meeting held on Thursday, Nov. 15th were as follows:

Physiotherapy Dept. of the hospital and made recommendations with regard to additional lighting on the grounds, and the purchase of various items of major equipment. The Public Relations committee reported on steps being taken to perpetuate the hospital history, one interesting item being a portrait for the Board Room of Mr. John Gunn, who was instrumental in the hospital's creation and coming into operation.

The Donations and Bequests committee reported on the current state of the fund raising campaign, and Mr. Charles informed the Board of an interview he had with the company who had been responsible for the initial fund raising campaign.

Made Forecast
The Administrator reported on the month's activities in the actual operation and management of the hospital, highlighting the total situation as it affects good patient care at the present and also made forecast, as to what he feels the situation will be over the next few months of operation. The 1963 budget has been submitted, after approval by the Board, and we are now awaiting information from the Insurance Commission on its acceptance at the Provincial and Federal levels. He also made mention of some of the troubles that hospitals in other provinces are encountering, and detailed some of the disadvantages of hospital operation under governmental plans. He reported also on the situation regarding the Physiotherapy department, hospital staff, and the utilization of the hospital facilities by inpatients and outpatients. The Board were interested in the setting up of the new department for Physiotherapy. It is hoped, in the near future, to print in the newspapers the specific details and pictures of this very important and worthy service.

A short telling, such as this, cannot begin to tell the story of the monthly Board of Directors' meeting. Much careful thought and discussion is required in order to transform all of the many recommendations and suggestions into sound policy statements, so that the many persons who work for or in the hospital will be taking the necessary actions to ensure the best possible quality of hospital care for the residents of Georgetown and district.

Local Merchant Featured in Trade Paper Article

A Georgetown jeweller, John Boughton, was prominently quoted in a recent issue of the Canadian Jeweller, a trade magazine published by the McLean-Hunter firm in an article entitled "What's Right (And Wrong) With Repairing," which discussed the pros and cons of watch repairs in a jewellery store. John Boughton's picture dominates the lead page and his arguments for repairs are a large part of the story.

"Watch repairs put me in business," he states in the item. "I say only since six years ago was driving ambition to own his own jewellery business and a kitchen table on which he cleaned watches."

The item continues: "Mr. Boughton operates a smart new store on Georgetown's Main St. It is the owner of a stock worth five figures. Boughton Jewellers was built without a cent of borrowed capital, in fact, with no capital at all."

Mr. Boughton's first investment was a staking tool bought from profits from the part-time watch cleaning. This enabled him to undertake repair work limited until then. He learned watch-making in England. The next step was the purchase of a cleaner, which he is still using.

"Fast and dependable," he said when asked to name the two most important things in the repair business. Profits were again tied back with the purchase of the first stock Boughton Jewellers came into existence shortly after when the first proper business premises were found in an old frame building. The next step was to get onto Main Street. Giving up his factory job, Mr. Boughton advanced his capital by sharing quarters with a bake shop. By this time a show case had been acquired. After a year he was able to get established in another location.

A five year course given by the British Horological Institute, and becoming a Graduate Jeweller of the Canadian Jewellers Institute, "gave me enough knowledge to discuss every phase of the business with confidence," says Mr. Boughton. "It's particularly valuable when selling, especially when diamonds enter the picture."

"Being a watchmaker-jeweller is a good combination," he said. "The customers take your word when it comes to replacing a watch. A customer bringing a watch for repair enters the store three times, when he brings it in, when he picks it up and when he returns for the final adjustment. Knowing that he benefits from this traffic is the reason why Mr. Boughton wouldn't have a timer in the store."

"A watch still needs personal adjustment," he said. "I've got the service station owner's watch adjusted at a slightly losing rate to compensate for his physical activity. Also the customer realizes special care is being taken of his particular needs."

"Everybody should have two watches, particularly men," says Mr. Boughton. "One for work and recreation, and something more elegant for dress up occasions." The next acquisition is already planned — an ultrasonic watch cleaner. A free diamond cleaning service is also important to Mr. Boughton.

"Women appreciate this and are glad to pay for re-cleaning and setting of the diamond if necessary."

Saskatoon Alderman Was Prominent Businessman

A Saskatoon alderman for 26 years, and a resident of that city since 1906, Spencer A. Early, 76, died in hospital there Monday, November 26. Funeral services were held Wednesday afternoon from Westminster United Church, conducted by the Rev. Murray Macdonald. Mr. Early was born in Norval, the eldest son of the late Thomas Early and Margaret Wilson of Norval. He received his public school education here and attended Georgetown High School.

He went west to Saskatchewan 26 years ago and farmed in the Elbow district for three years before moving to Saskatoon. During his first year there Mr. Early worked as a lumber salesman, farm help and transfer on reconstruction of the C.P.R. bridge.

From 1907 to 1913 he was a partner in the Early and Early Feed Co. of Saskatoon. Since 1913 he had been managing director of Early Feed & Feed Ltd.

Mr. Early was also a partner in the Western Live Stock Co. Ltd. and operated a hog ranch on the outskirts of Saskatoon.

He was a member of the Feed Manufacturers Association, the Canadian Seed Trade Association and the Saskatchewan Wholesalers' Association and the Saskatchewan Chamber of Commerce. In addition, he was a member and past president of the Saskatoon Board of Trade.

Active in civic affairs, he was an alderman of that city for 14 years and a member of the Saskatoon Collegiate Board. He was a Mason, a member of the Red Cross, a life member of the Saskatoon Cosmopolitan Club and past international president of the Cosmopolitan Club, and also a former steward of Westminster United Church.

Mr. Early was an enthusiastic curler and has won several curling trophies. He was predeceased by his first wife, Mary Letitia Hunter, in 1947, and by a son, Allan Reed, in 1934. His late wife was a sister of Joe Hunter, Norval, Jack Hunter and Mrs. Tom Lyons of Georgetown and Mrs. Charlotte Carter of Brampton.

He is survived by his second wife, Gertrude, and two daughters, Mrs. Margaret Hyde of Vancouver, and Mrs. Charlotte Wahn of Montreal, and three sons, Francis Wilson and Thomas Hugo both of Saskatoon and Robert Spencer of Calgary, two sisters, Mrs. N. Carpani, Vancouver and Mrs. Frank Fendley, Norval, and two brothers, Harold and Chester, both of Norval.

FARM NEWS

4-H Forestry Club Completes 4th Year
by J. A. F.

The Halton County Forestry Club during 1962 completed the fourth consecutive successful project year. The members of the club have taken part in this project which is designed to improve the value of areas of their farm which are best suited for tree growth. The principal aims of this club are to promote the use of such low fertility or unaccessible areas on the farm.

Plant Trees
For this reason all members in the club are required to plant a number of trees which are adapted to their particular area, thus increasing the value of the land. As an alternative to planting trees in the form of a woodlot, trees may be used to make a windbreak to protect the farm dwell-ling, or barns, from the prevailing winds in the winter. Members not wishing to plant trees may undertake a project of cleaning and culling an existing woodlot. In this way undesirable and diseased trees are removed to increase the productivity of the existing woodlot.

Starts in December
This program is under the direction of the Extension Branch of the Ont. Dept. of Agriculture in Milton, assisted by the Ont. Dept. of Lands and Forests, as well as the 16 Mile Creek Conservation Authority.

The 4-H Forestry Club is one of the most worthwhile projects offered in this county, as well as a project that is offered at the time of year when meetings do not conflict with other 4-H Clubs in the county. The project starts in late December and is completed by mid-July.
