

WARNING — DON'T HIRE THEM FOR YOUR PARTY — Peter Jones, Georgetown

LOOKING FOR A GOOD COMBO to entertain at your New Year's party? Ignore this one — unless an ensemble of oboe, bassoon, glockenspiel and tuba appeals to you. In fact, this quartet of Joan Mitchell (glockenspiel), Diane Carr, (bassoon), Roger Smith (oboe) and Doug Bridgen (tuba), aren't really a quartet at all but members of the High School Junior Orchestra displaying four of the new instruments which were added recently. The Senior Orchestra, under the direction of Dr. Charles Wilson, will entertain at the Christmas Concert at the High School Friday.

Christmas Party For Businesswomen's Club

Soft candlelight from more than a score of Christmas candles and a cheery fire in the fireplace, greeted the members of the Business and Professional Women's Club when they held their annual Christmas Dinner at the home of Miss Jean and Miss Margery Markenze at their Valleyview Rd. home on Monday evening.

Miss Margery had prepared the main course of the dinner with the members each bringing their piece de resistance for the balance of the fabulous meal. After a time of relaxation and conversation, the Christmas gifts that each member had brought were distributed with Mrs. Astrid Hornby presenting Miss Margery with a remembrance from the club in appreciation for all she had done in preparing for them.

The committee in charge of the program, Mrs. Elizabeth McCrae, Mrs. Ada Wilkinson and Mrs. Maureen Walker, had arranged a hilarious set of contests and stories for the enjoyment of everyone. Traditionally the evening closed with the singing of Christmas carols with Miss Jean Mackenzie the president of the club at the piano. Everyone present was unanimous in thinking that their Christmas season had begun with a feeling of fellowship and were sincere in their thanks to the two hostesses.

Points Value of Home, School Group

At the first regular meeting of the George Kennedy Home and School Association last week, words of advice and encouragement were given by Peter Hedgcock, president of Harrison Home & School.

He told of the accomplishments of the Harrison Association, the only other one still existing locally. The school has been provided with a projector, tape recorder, and a typewriter, he said and an ice skating rink was built in the school yard, largely through the efforts of the Association.

All Problems

He felt that while those things were important the larger goal was a close relationship between home and school by studying all problems relating to the children in the community. He emphasized most strongly the association's policy of non-intervention with school, or school board policy. Rather that change should be effected by creating public sentiment and interest in improvement.

To Council

The speaker said he was proud that men who had served in Home & School Associations had been elected to council from each ward.

In conclusion he gave a brief outline of the content of the new Association with help the new Association with
