Hair Dryer is Gift For Manor Residents

By Muriel Thompson

Another delightful evening with young people was spent on Monday evening, Dec 17th when about 40 Girl Guides from Acton came to present a program in the auditorium. They were under the direction of their Captain Mrs. T. Watson and their two lieutenants Mrs. George Williams and Miss Jean Hart. It was also an honour to have the Acton district commissioner Mrs. G. Wallace come also.

The program was a musical one, and the girls were grouped on the stage behind the piano. Mrs. T. Watson was the pianist and Sally Dick, one of the Girl-Guides, announced the program. The girls looked very smart in their trim blue uniforms.

PLEASING FASHION
While song sheets were being distributed to the audience the Guides sang two songs, "Fires Burning" and "Music Alone Shall Live".

The visitors and the audience sang four groups of Christmas carols in unison and after each group of carols the girls sang a carol alone. These songs were sung in very pleasing fashion with special praise going to the Guides rendition of the "Twelve Days of Christmas".

An interesting diversion came at the close of the carol singing. Miss Perkins, acting on behalf of the Ladies' Auxiliary to No. 2 Firefighters, 8th Line, Oakville, presented a cheque for $100 to Mr. S. A. Allen, the Superintendent, for the purchase of a hair dryer for the women residents of the Manor. Any surplus remaining is to be used for the purchase of dishes. Mr. Allen thanked the Oakville ladies on behalf of the residents for this generous and practical gift and the Guides for their fine program.

The Guides also made a presentation to the Manor. This was a collection of unique and attractive wax candles, suitable to be used as table centres, which the Guides had made in their work sessions. Each candle was slightly different from all the rest. They were lighted and placed on the tables for the refreshment hour.

COME AGAIN SOON

The Guides helped Mrs. E. Winney of the Manor—staff, who is also a member of the Auxiliary, in serving chocolate milk and small cakes to everyone. The Guides had donated the cakes.
