Beauty Tips Given By Avon Saleslady

The January and health meeting of the Women's Institute was held at the home of Mrs. Arthur Ruddell with the president, Mrs. Fred Nurse presiding and opening with the ode and creed. Secretary Mrs. Bob Alexander called the roll which was answered by "How I relieve my tensions."

Mrs. Thos. Brownridge was in charge of the program and introduced Mrs. DeSylva, the Avon representative. She opened her talk by saying the skin is the real secret of beauty and must be healthy. We all know diet, climate, worry and ill, does not improve our looks and she stressed six glasses of water daily is a must for everyone.

The speaker showed beautiful creams and lotions which help to make all ladies lovely and attractive, and demonstrated a beauty treatment, on the face of Mrs. Wilfrid Bird.

Mrs. Gordon Wenzel was the lucky winner of a bottle of lotion. Mrs. Bird thanked Mrs. DeSylva for her demonstration and presented her with a small gift. Plans solos by Lois McNeil were enjoyed and the business period followed. Mrs. Frank Ruddell reported for the power committee. Mrs. Heeter Bird told of the food and clothing our institute had supplied to needy families for Christmas and everyone agreed they must have had a happy one.

It was moved that the society enter to the Jr. Farmers' banquet in February and a committee be appointed to look after it. Mrs. Cecil Wilson thanked the hostess and everyone who had taken part and the meeting closed with the Queen and a social hour.

WORDS OF THE WISE

As diamond cuts diamond, an done/hone smooths a second, all the parts of intellect are whetstones to each other, and genius, which is but the result of mutual sharpening, is character, too. —(Adolfo Bartoli)

Urges Jaycees Participate In Politics at All Levels

Members of the Junior Chamber of Commerce were urged by Dr. C. A. Sandy Best, of Georgetown, former MP for Halton County to serve in politics in various levels of government.

Dr. Best was speaking at the Burlington JC's Municipal Affairs Night, last Monday. His subject was a quote from the JC creed, "That government should be of laws rather than men."

He agreed in part with the leaders and organizers of the statement and said: "The laws parties to do so in the future, of government are dependent on men and the type of people on all levels of government."

He told the JC's that the old drastic changes in remunerations have been remiss and that of those who serve us, particularly in facilities. Dr. Best further philosophized and meaning, said: "We are operating a huge past, but it is now up to the national business like the horse and buggy days."

Farm Account Book Useful for Business

According to the Farm Economics Branch, Ontario Dept. of Agriculture, a sharp pencil and a completed account book are January's most useful farm tools.

With these, a farm operator can determine his earnings for the past year. He can assess his operating achievements and failures. He can plan changes in management that should improve his farm income.

The necessary information for this year-end assessment may be in many forms. A few farmers can remember every detail of their business operation. Many maintain a drawer full of statements. But more and more farmers prefer the use of some type of formal account book.

Last year, almost fifteen thousand farm operators used the Ontario Farm Account Book for this purpose. The records in this book can be readily summarized for income tax purposes and are classified to simplify their analysis for farm management use.

The Ontario Farm Account Book is again available to Halton Farmers, at the office of the Extension Branch, Ontario Department of Agriculture, Milton.

Palermo Farm Girl is To Visit Newfoundland

June Kingston, a member of the Palermo 4-H Homemaking Club, and student at the Oakville high school, has been selected to take part in an International 4-H Exchange this summer. June was chosen as one of 9 outstanding 4-H Homemaking and Agricultural Club members in Ontario. She will visit Newfoundland while the other delegates will each visit a different province. In exchange Ontario will play host to nine delegates from other provinces. The International 4-H Exchange is being arranged for the first time this year, by the Canadian Council on 4-H Clubs and the Royal Bank of Canada. Delegates will live with a farm family who will show them points of interest in the province and take them to local 4-H events. As well as becoming acquainted with 4-H members in another province, each delegate will have the experience of flying to their destination on July 29th, and returning on July 22nd.

June is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Kingston, of Palermo. She has been a member of her 4-H Homemaking Club for five years, and has maintained a high standard of work at all times. She is presently taking her Grade 12s at Oakville high school, where she is a member of the school Prefect Organization and participates in school sports and p.p. club activities. At the same time June finds time to teach Sunday School and to be a member of her church choir and young People's Union. She plans to go on to University for a degree in Home Economics after completion of Grade 13.

Esqueving Man Takes Over Road Position

Considered a veteran in the construction field, E. C. "Bud" Snow took over his new duties as road superintendent of Esqueving Township the first part of the year. He replaces William Townsend, the former superintendent, who passed away the latter part of 1962.

Mr. Snow, who resides at R R 1, Georgetown, near Ballinacree, with his wife and six children, first started in the construction business in the western provinces. After working there for a year he came east again and worked one year for Industrial Sand and Gravel, Georgetown. For the past 11 years he has worked for Mansell Nellis Construction Company in the capacity of foreman.

Second Youngster Wins Kellogg Bike

Another Georgetown district youngster has been declared a winner in the Kellogg's "What's Wrong With the Picture Contest." Miss Laura King, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lee King, 16 Mill St. received a letter from the company last week saying that a new Raleigh bicycle was on the way. Two hundred bicycles are being given away by Kellogg's to the winners.

Contestants were asked to pick out as many errors as they could in a picture on the back of a cereal box.

Earlier this month, Dean Hancock, of R R 1, Glen Williams was also notified that he was a successful entrant.

Discuss By-Laws For Auxiliary to Manor

The first meeting of the Sea Year of the Halton Manor Auxiliary was held in the auditorium on Wednesday afternoon, January 9th, with the president Mrs. Allen in the chair. A short reading "Blessed are they who love the Age" was read to open the meeting. Various items and ideas were exchanged for the work of the Auxiliary in the coming year.

Mrs. Allen read a splendid report from the entertainment convener on the activities of the past year. The visiting and home-made refreshments and some ideas for the new year.

A letter was read from Mrs. Hendry in connection with the Convention for 1963. The letter outlined the objectives of the newly formed Provincial Auxiliary Board. Six new bridge table covers are to be purchased. Tentative by-laws were read by the president. It was agreed that tea and cookies will be served after each monthly meeting. Tickets were sold in the late fall on a Dresden plate, quilt and a wool rug, the winners' names drawn at the Xmas party held in the auditorium, in Dec. Mrs. Bruce Bird was the winner of the quilt and Mrs. W. Hayward, winner of a wool rug. The sincere thanks of the Auxiliary go out to all those in the county who helped towards this effort.

The meetings of the Auxiliary are held on the first Wednesday of each month in the auditorium of the Manor at 2 o'clock and any person interested in the work of the auxiliary and can give a little of their spare time are asked to come and join in this worthwhile work. A social cup of tea followed the meeting.

Standby Generator Can Stop Power Failure Loss

At this time of the year, many rural areas of Halton County encounter electric power interruptions. These are usually the result of freezing rain and of strong winds. Although power interruptions are usually brief, they can cause severe losses to specialized poultry and dairy producers. Power interruptions are not the same as many of the disasters which farmers encounter. Instead of obtaining only partial protection as for example from insurance in the case of fire, the producer can almost completely protect himself from losses due to power failure. To do this he must purchase a standby generator.

The requirements for a satisfactory working standby electric generator are not great. The generator requires the generator, an engine to run it, and a switching arrangement to control it. The generator must be selected according to the needs of the farm. It may be power take off or belt driven or it may require an auxiliary engine to operate it. The size of the generator must be sufficient to operate all the automatic equipment and the essential manually operated equipment. Automatic equipment may start operation at any time and include: pressure water systems, bulk milk tanks, water heaters, furnaces, fans, refrigerators and many other pieces of equipment which work intermittently. Some of the essential manually operated pieces of equipment are: milking machines, electric stoves, electric lights, and possibly feed augers, grinders or rollers. Depending upon the size and type of farm there may be many more items to operate.

To determine the generator size it is necessary to determine the amount of power required to operate them. Ontario Hydro has men in every area office who would be pleased to assist any operator in determining the size of the standby generator which he would require.

Finally, since these generators give good service for a long period of time, one must consider the expansion which the future may bring, and the new types of equipment which may be used.

When the operator has determined the size of generator which is required, he can calculate the engine which is required to run it. The farm tractor is usually large enough and readily available so that it is used. However, in small specialized enterprises it may be more logical and convenient to purchase an auxiliary engine with the generator.

After the generator is purchased it must be installed. It is absolutely essential that Ontario Hydro fieldmen and inspectors be consulted. This is a piece of equipment and procedures of installation which will save money, insure satisfactory operation and adequate protection for the owner, the generator and others. Many of the points appear minor, but the experience and knowledge of these men can save a burned out generator loss of life. Electricity, if properly installed and controlled is relatively harmless, but it can destroy life and property if handled foolishly.
