Fleming Finds His Form Raiders Find Assistance

An oft absent Raider, Don Fleming,
His goal output one night condemning,
Tried his hand at a score
Then popped two, three and four,
To set critics to hawing and hemming.

-(Poetic license No 3394780)

Often ill, often very busy, Don Fleming scored often Thursday night as Georgetown Raiders doubled the score on the Dundas Graftons here to rekindle their aspirations for a playoff berth. It was their second win in as many games and boosted them into a third place tie with Port Colborne Sailors.

Fleming is a Metro school teacher who had a whirl with Toronto Macedonians last season but since getting into the brain-building business has had to reshape his hockey time to fit the gaps between examinations and homework marking. The Raider brass signed him with this understood

One of the infrequent gaps fell Thursday night. Dundas fell 6 to 3.

To protect himself from the tag of "linechanger" stand-in coach Blackie Graham went through all the motions of a qualified bench general juggling his lines like an Ed Sullivan regular. One of the combinations he threw together was the Blake Inglis, Moe Galand Don Fleming unit which accounted for 5 of the Raider half dozen. The remaining lines were born out of Graham's knowledge of his personnel and whoever vaulted over the boards first.

DOUG RICHARDSON

Player Salad

While on the shuffling kick in the first period, Graham dealt the following "hands". Wayne Thompson with Bob Smith and Doug Richardson; Don Chaffe with Junior Beaumont and Moe Galand; Wayne Thompson with Junior Beaumont and Smith; Don Chaffe with Doug Richardson and Bob Smith; Don Chaffe with Bob Smith and Beaumont. He reduced it to three or four unions later. When he had a man advantage he iced either the Inglis, Galand, Fleming line with Beaument on the point and Gord Thompson, or the same group with Richardson in place of Beaumont.

Doug Richardson was a little short of tremendous. He killed penalties effectively and pestered the Graftons like a one man gang. Offensively he was a consistent threat, and though he didn't make it into the records until his goal into a vacated net near the finish his efforts drew epithets from fooled Graftons and a great deal of admiration from a small audience.

Richardson came close to scoring when he broke into the clear with the middle period just seconds old, and hit the goal post. Moments later Don Fleming began his personal sbarrage and sent Georgetown into a lead. Blake Inglis fed him the pass and he rifled the shot from twenty feet out just as Myers dropped to block the drive, but a fraction too late. The same duo clicked half way through the game, Fleming, this time launching a shot from the edge of the circle that caught the top right corner.

Caught Napping

Barry Smith got caught away from home and Dundas registered their first score with little resistance. Wally Magdy tried to cover, but with no success, as Knight's ice hugger hit home while the Raider's nomad goalie watched from 25 feet away. Reynold was sitting out a hooking offense when Fleming changed the course of Moe Galand's backhand shot for his, and Georgetown's third marker, but Dundas stayed in the game with a slightly tainted goal seconds later. Myers fired it right from the face-off it hit Magdy's stick and bounced crazily past Smith's right side.

Georgetown outscored the Crafton's 3-1 in the third session Fleming's assisting pass was just behind Galand as Raiders made a thrust early. The league pace setter turned around and flipped the puck backhand into the top of the goal. Overanxious clearing resulted in Raiders' fifth goal Blake Inglis knocked a lofted puck down with his glove at the Dundas blueline and slapped it to the corner of the crease where Fleming banged it in.

Dundas changed it to a more respectable 5-3 when Bill Searle exhibited some classy stickhandling and rushed with the puck right to Smith's feet before scooping it behind him. He was started away by Myers. That one made the Dundas coach something of an Einstein since he had just committed strategic suicide by pulling his goalie for another forward while the teams were five a side with ten minutes left to play. After the bold move paid off he quickly replaced his netminder and left him between the pipes until the remaining time shrunk to two minutes.

Richardson beat three would-be checkers before releasing his shot past a fourth into the unguarded net.

LADIES' SECTION

Here are some results of the Ladies' draw that has just been finished in the second schedule

Tuesday afternoon winners: Doris Barrager, skip, Irene Farnell, Sue Flack, Joan Bridge

Wednesday afternoon, Dora Ivy Young skip, Edna Murray, Edna Malcolm, Lorraine Kennedy

Thursday afternoon Irene Curry, skip, Joy Noble, Audrey Matthews, Mary Buehn.

Wednesday evening, first draw, Margaret Mackenzie skip, Hilda Olsen, Gyrtle Scott, Ida Munckton.

Wednesday evening, second draw, Margaret Nelson skip, Irene Farnell, Lorraine Kennedy Joan Costigan

The ladies have now started on another draw that they expect to finish early in March so that winners can be decided before the ice goes out of the rink

The fine weather on Sunday brought a goodly number out to try the snow covered slopes for sliding This as I have said has been so cold that now has braved the elements

The Friday games last week were cancelled to allow the ladies to get playoffs for the British Consols

Monday also saw the cancellation of scheduled games so that the shareholders could hold their annual meeting Both sets of games were postponed and put at the end of the draw to be played. The schedule will end with the 8 games Friday night and the playoffs start on Monday

The curling foursome of Mr and Mrs Graham Farnell and Mr. and Mrs James Evans journeyed to Collingwood on Saturday to take part in the Sacrebleu Bonspiel. The Georgetown Curling Club sent 12 Southern Ontario rinks to see and test their skips. They were skipped by Mrs D Barrager and Mrs Curry. Mrs Brock McPherson Mrs Barrager 13.7, Mrs Curry won over Mrs Rankin's rink 9-5 The wash came from the host club Farnell skip Graham Evans second and Jim lead.

Early Saturday morning two prominent members of the curling club were involved in a motor accident, the Ern Currys. Ern suffered a broken right leg and three broken ribs and lacerations, while Irene has a broken elbow and a deep gash in her forehead. The accident happened near their home on No 17 sideroad just east of the Fifth line. It is expected that they will be hospitalized for a considerable time. Hope their stay in hospital is not too prolonged

Juves Advance With Win Against Preston

With the superior coaching of Fred Harrison and Norm Lockhurst, great team spirit and an overwhelming individual effort, the Georgetown juvenile hockey club swept to a brilliant victory over their old rivals, Preston.

The winners of this best out of five series would go on to meet other teams until they met their downfall. In this series every game was full of scientific hockey and when the occasion arose the juvenile club was able to handle the fierce checking handed out from time to time by their opponents. They won easily as a result of the confidence in themselves and the coaching personnel.

The first game of the series was won easily, as was the second, and the final which took place in Preston, was really the most exciting and best played of the three games. Both teams were a little nervous in the opening period and failed to score any goals. Then in the second period Cooper made a brilliant individual effort and slipped the puck past the Preston goalie by coming from behind the back of the net and completely fooling him in the process. Such was first goal which gave the club a great inspirational lead.

By the end of the game the score was four to one and the remaining three goals were scored by the team's high flying centre, Jack Gudgeon, whose hat trick was assisted by Reid II Marchment and Reid III respectively. Although Gudgeon and Cooper netted the four goals, a great deal of effort and sheer desire to win was exerted by every team member in order to make their victory both fruitful and excited.

After the game the team and coaching staff were present for the first time with a cup which will be in the memories of all the boys for a long time to come, not just as a result of a great victory but

KID HOCKEY

For the start of the play-offs next Saturday there will be no games assigned to teams for each game. Teams will be dressed in the 2 and 3 dressing rooms and leave the ice surface by the end door and teams using 5 and 6 will cross and leave Detroit by the passage way under the seats. On the completion of each game teams will dress and vacate the dressing rooms as quickly as possible in order to make room for the next teams assigned to them. This is being done to minimize the loss of ice time between games so all the committee of each game centres and referees are asked to clear their teams from the dressing rooms as quickly as possible so the next game can get underway.

Now that we have been allowed the use of the new dressing rooms in the arena and a word of warning to all boys in Saturday morning hockey. Anyone found to be damaging or defacing the walls or facilities in these rooms will be liable to an immediate suspension from all Saturday morning hockey.

Coaches and managers of the Jr. 'A' League are asked to be at the arena at 11:00 a.m. next Saturday for a meeting to pick trophy winners in the Senior and American League coaches and managers are asked to be present at 12:30 p.m. when their league is finished next Saturday for presentation of trophy winners to their group.

The Senior League schedule has been extended with eliminations on Saturday morning to allow enough ice time for the league to complete their play off on Saturday mornings
