

FOR BRANCH 120 IT WAS "IN THE CARDS"

ZONE-SPORTS DIRECTOR, Alex Waldron, presents individual trophies to Georgetown cribbage players, Jim Layton (right) and Tom Herbert for being seven game winners at the Legion Zone cribbage playdowns in Acton. The honoured pair are members of the Georgetown Branch 120 crib team which copped the honour to represent Zone B7 at the next level at Branford in March.

The Lions Den
BY SAM MELTZER

To most of us old timers who think that today's teenager spends time G.W. (that is girl watching to the squares) there came an enlightening story this week from Cranbury, New Jersey. The local Lions Club sponsored a program for several high school students to instill in them the competitive spirit incumbent with big business. The Lions ran the project as a contest, the response from the youngsters in the area then became overwhelmingly enthusiastic. The boys got their introduction to the business world because they had at their disposal Lions from all areas of business who they consulted on management problems.

The teenagers were called on to make decisions regarding the price at which to sell products of a large paper company, and how much to invest in marketing, research, and plant improvements. The information was then fed into an IBM 721 computer to determine the company's income and profit. Anticipating the computers' verdict as eagerly as the boys were the Lions, who helped the youngsters chart the progress of each company of large graphs.

The Cranbury Lions, who believe in developing teen potentialities to the fullest, planned the project with educational goals in mind. Not only did the youngsters acquire new knowledge but they gained valuable insights into potential careers.

Capital for the project was primarily income from personal satisfaction. The Lions knew for certain the program was a success when they learned the boys were missing football games to discuss profit margins and losses, instead of field goals and passes. This human vignette reminds me of the immortal words of James Oliver when he said:

"The world is blessed most by men who do things and not by those who merely talk about them."

Return Cunningham As Board Chairman

Management Conference is Attended by Farmers

Twenty six of Halton's farm operators attended a Conference on Farm Business Management, during the week of February 5th. The three day conference program was conducted by the Extension Branch Ontario Dept. of Agriculture for Halton County. This is a continuation of a conference the members attended one year ago on Farm Business Management.

The three-day conference included discussions on machinery costs and selection, decision making in management, financial structure on farms, and budgeting.

Discussion leaders for the conference were: C. D. Spencer, Agricultural Engineering; Fiddington, B. A. McArthur, Farm Management Specialist, and J. A. Francis, Agricultural Representative.

This conference was part of a series of meetings on Farm Business Management being conducted by the Halton Office of the Extension Branch, Ontario Dept. of Agriculture.

SPORT SATURDAY NIGHT

The entire Legion building was filled with flying missiles last Saturday night. Gary, who has been in the Signal Corps League held their dart tournament for two and a half years is on his way to Liverpool, Manitoba for three weeks' training. When he returns he hopes to have learned how to leave an airborne aircraft in such a manner that his first step is not his last. He will then become part of the airborne element of the No. 2 Signals Squadron. Watch that first step Gary, it's a beauty!

Another face we see often on Saturday night is that of Milt Harker who, at sixty-eight, has lost none of his zest for singing. He contributes regularly to the melodious offerings of the group and actively sees to it that everyone has an enjoyable time. Milt appears to be completely unhindered by an artificial leg, and, like the good sport he is, will even joke about it. Just as a thought, Milt, have you tried keeping your sock up with thumb tacks?

The victorious team was the 'Panthers' captained by Art Hall, with Ron Cash, Frank Richardson, Bob Nicholson and Shorty Lawson. The runner up trophies went to the 'champs' with Captain Al Gates, Jack Graham, B. McCartney, Tony Brunski and Herb Wild.

Harry Bottoms and Roy Rudi ger emerged as doubles champions followed by Tony Brunski and Jack Graham in the runner-up spot.

Following the competition suitably engraved lamps for the winners and ash trays for second place were presented by A. J. 'Art' Johnson, of Carling with thumb tacks?

Bye-bye, who sponsored the event.

A rousing cheer is difficult to print but certainly an order for Archie Pollock and Gob Collier who spent a hectic day running the tournament.

One of those once-in-a-lifetime cribbage hands was won to Charlie Cocklin while competing in a singles tournament last week. Three Aces and the Jack of Spades with five of Spades turned up was nearly enough to knock Charlie off his chair. A "Twenty nine hand" however, was not quite enough, as he went on to lose the game. Tough luck Charlie.
