CANVASS BRIGHT AS PORCH LIGHTS
 AT WRITING TIME the annual Red Cross blitz was as bright as the porch lights left on this week for the volunteer workers who canvassed the town. The blitz started Monday night in most parts of town. "Cher homes were called on Tuesday, and Wednesday. Above one of the campaign canvassers, Mrs. Connie Nieuwhof turns some of the gathered funds over to campaign chairman John Wolfe at headquarters in the plaza branch of the Bank of Commerce. Happy with the results are Mrs. S. N. Martin, the president of the local branch, and Boyd Garland, the treasurer for the campaign.

Confidant of Victory Says P-C Chairman

Last weekend saw meetings held by the local P.C. group in their Main Street headquarters, over Superior Stores in the old Henry Davis offices. As well as having meetings of the area chairmen and poll workers, a larger meeting was held of all interested in working for the P.C. party.

Tom Sale, of Oakville, campaign chairman, spoke briefly, outlining how each and every one could help. He emphasized the example of Oakville, where the organization is already confidently looking forward to victory.

Henry Best, his brother's campaign manager, then spoke briefly, and outlined methods used in other ridings. He made a stirring appeal to everyone to get out and put Sandy Best back where he belongs, in the House of Commons.

Sandy Best then spoke and thanked all for their continued support. He said with just a little push they would make it this time, and urged all to aid him.

Sandy, in his speech, dealt with the aspects of the campaign, and said that he would like to refute the ridiculous claim that the Liberals are making that they will have a Liberal government after April 8.

Area chairmen N. McDonald, E. Arnold and B. Lantz also reported on their organization in their areas, and a number of new workers were welcomed, including Mr. W. Kent, a former campaign manager for Jim McGrath, P.C. member in New foundland. President Les Clark closed the meeting by reminding all of the joint meeting Monday evening, March 25th, at Wrigglesworth School where all candidates are speaking. He also told the group that they could now get information from 9:00 a.m. on by phoning 877-9961, the committee room phone, which will be manned by volunteers.

There will be someone in the rooms to answer questions, afternoons and evenings from now until election day, the speaker said.

Coffee was served to the group at the end of the meeting.

HALTON TORIES ENJOY ST. PATRICK'S DANCE
 A crowd of some 400 Conservatives from all parts of Halton danced the night away at a gala St. Patrick's Dance held by the Halton County Conservative Association in the new Canadian Legion Hall at Purlington last Saturday. On hand were Sandy Best, Halton's Federal Conservative Candidate and Mrs. Best, George Kerr, Provincial Candidate for Halton and Mrs. Kerr and Bobby McDonald, Conservative Candidate in Hamilton.

Spot and door prizes were distributed by Sandy Best and George Kerr, while Conservative volunteer workers and supporters enjoyed themselves dancing polkas, jigs, Paul Jones and the twist.

Part Open, Part Closed Decides Industrial Group

Georgetown Industrial Commission meetings will be part public, part closed in future. On a showing of hands at a commission meeting last Thursday, commission members voted to hold half of their meetings behind closed doors so that they could "talk freely without giving away clues that might be picked up by other towns seeking industries."

Industrial commission chairman William Hunter expressed concern over a press reporter who turned up at the meeting and his opinion that a news-paper report could leak guarded information led to the new policy. He told his fellow commission members that he would resign if the entire meetings were going to be open to the press. He said the press had not made a habit of attending the sessions and do not attend the Industrial Commission meetings in other towns.

During the business the commission: Discussed vacant factory space and will make a list of the descriptions of production facilities here not operating to full capacity, following the reading of a letter from Industrial Facility Development Company offering to meet with the commission regarding available space and equipment, and firms wishing to expand. The secretary was as-
