Half Sculptures Sold In First Three Hours

The Montreal exhibition of sculptures by Yosef Drenters was an unprecedented triumph with thirteen of his twenty-five sculptures sold within the first three hours of the opening.

The show, at the Galerie Drednere, was scheduled to close June 1st, but will be extended two more weeks to give more people a chance to get acquainted with Drenters' work. Just prior to the Montreal show Mr. Drenters gave an exhibition of his sketches at House Sol on Charles St.

Prices of the pieces range from $200. to $2,500. However in an interview on a Montreal TV station, Yosef said "Some of my neighbours in Rockwood have told me bluntly they wouldn't give me five cents for them."

This week CBC cameras will travel to the old Academy in Gordon, wife of Canada's Eu Rockwood where Mr. Drenters once Minister, who called Yosef to film the studio the art work to the attention of paintings and sculptures for a Dorothy Cameron Art Gal show entitled "Heritage" which Jerry Almost simultaneously will be shown in June.

Yosef, who came to Canada's best known artist, from Holland in 1930, has been sculpting for the last work has been avidly sought three years. Previously he did by the well-known art collect painting and charcoal sketchers, among them Mr. and Mrs. Some of these are exhibited S. Zacks, Toronto, Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Birshorn, New York, Mr. and Mrs. W. Gordon, Toronto and Mr. and Mrs. I. Steinberg, Montreal.

Many of his sculptures seem to have a religious influence, stemming in part from his own year's training for the priesthood.

Former Systems Returns Drop Prior Notice Rule

A return to a more informal hearing of ratepayers at the Georgetown council meetings was decided Monday.

In January council decided to eliminate a policy by which a ratepayer wishing to address the council must submit a written request stating the subject he wished to discuss.

Mr. Hildebrandt said council spends most of its time on public work and perhaps there is only five minutes at the end of a meeting to discuss problems else close to the hearts of the ratepayers.

"Give us an example," replied Mayor Hyde.

"Well, there are two men sitting here tonight who have a dust problem," said the councilman. "If I'm lucky I'll get a chance near 11 pm to tell the people's wishes from you."

At the time he said "There" the ratepayers could have been few delegations that filled out a request and brought your and maybe it is partly their problem to council and the mayor wished to discuss.
