

CLIFF SLIDING PERPETUAL
EROSION THREATENING GLEN CEMETERY

THE STEEP SLOPE in the foreground has been edging closer to the graves in Glen Williams Cemetery for years because of erosion at the base of the sandy cliff and the situation has reached the serious stage. The Credit River tributary, at the base of bank is perpetually washing away the toe of the slope and the sand is shifting to compensate for it. The Esquimaux Township Council, Glen Williams Cemetery Board and Credit Valley Conservation Authority are all naturally concerned.

THIS IS THE VIEW from the graveyard at the top of the sliding cliff. In 1959 a plan to have the bank "rip-rapped" and stop the erosion was drawn up, but when the estimates were higher than anticipated the idea was dropped. The sharp angle of the cliff face where it touches the bank makes the erosion process much more severe during the winter months.

Plan County Museum as Prime Tourist Mecca

The Business and Professional Women's Club met at Kennedy's Klub 7 for their regular dinner meeting on Monday evening. Mrs. Eric Smith of Delrex Blvd was introduced as a new member. Major H. Newman, curator of the Halton County Museum, was the guest speaker. His talk was most educational and illuminating to his listeners. He pointed out the fact that the County Council of the first few thousands of dollars had been made, but stressed the need and advantage of such a museum in Halton. Mr. Newman presented a new perspective regarding the Museum and that was that the tourist business is the third largest industry in Canada at the present time and that one of the objectives of the Museum Board is to make this place an outstanding tourist attraction which will bring thousands of visitors to the county and thus increase business. The museum will not be a limited area such as Black Creek and Upper Canada Village which only portray a particular period. The long range view of the project as an historical and tourist attraction includes the museum itself, tea room, botanical gardens, the beautiful setting in itself is a natural amphitheatre and where it is hoped that a ballet will eventually be set up. Mr. Newman also told of the work involved in the renovation of the building, which had 90 years of whitewash on its magnificent timbers, and which was finally removed by blasting of an old gentleman
