

French before High School

NEW WRINKLE IN ELEMENTARY EDUCATION

PUPILS TOM LEFLEUR, Barbara Wilcox, Irene Haines and Karen Dorsey, respond to Mrs. Jacqueline Primeau's movements with the pointer by giving the French word for the object it rests on. They are some of the students in the twice weekly French language class at Holy Cross Separate School, an 'after-four' venture in bilingualism that will prepare the youngsters for the high school French language course. Currently open to Holy Cross pupils only, the class will accept public schoolers in the fall.

Barbara Pankenin is School Valedictorian

by Felicity Atkinson

On June 19th, 1963, the annual Grade 8 banquet was held at St. George's Anglican Church. The 55 students, donning their best for the occasion, made a colourful sight on the church lawn as pictures were taken. Students, teachers, and guests were then escorted into the church where the dinner was to be held. The Rev. J. McMillan opened with grace, and Lorraine Sadler presented the toast to the Home and School Association. Mrs. Gossling of the executive committee presided. The dinner then commenced, and everyone did justice to his turkey meal.

Following the dinner, short speeches were made by the guests of the head table. Kim Gunn, as toastmaster, introduced the first Mayor Hyde, who brought greetings from the town; Mr. McDowell, public school inspector for Halton County, spoke on the importance of continuing schooling; Mr. Kim Gunn introduced our guest of honour, Mr. Kala Uka, a visiting scholar student at the U of T. He explained the methods of schooling in his native Nigeria, and of the impressions he had of Canada when viewed by a visitor from Africa. Mr. F. J. McMillan presented the Citizenship Awards to Lorraine Sadler, who ranked first in academic achievement, Jacqueline Bowell and Johanna Gordon, who were tied for second place with Brian Pollock.

Mr. H. O. Knapper, the school principal, gave Honour Letters to students Barbara Pankenin and Lorraine Sadler, for outstanding service to the life of the school.

Local Insurance Man Gets Quality Award

Twenty five members of the Brampton Life Underwriters Association were honored Wednesday when they received 'National Quality Awards'. Presentations were made during a luncheon of the Association at the North Halton Golf and Country Club.

Among those receiving the award, which recognizes life insurance sales representatives who place consistent emphasis on quality service to their clients was Georgetown agent Jack Runham of Metropolitan Life, who has qualified for the award five times.

'Permanence of life insurance in force' is the basis of the award, not sales volume.

'The National Quality Award, commonly referred to as 'NQA', is conferred by the 3 major life insurance associations: Life Underwriters Association of Canada; Canadian Life Insurance Officers Association and Life Insurance Agency Management Ass'n. To qualify, life underwriters must achieve a minimum of 90 per cent in maintaining their business in force. They must be members and subscribe to the principles and code of ethics of the Life Underwriters Association of Canada. More than 2,000 Canadian life insurance men and women qualified for this year's Award.

Halton's Fox Bounty Is Raised to $7.00

The foxes in Halton County will have to become fiercer in self defence, since at last Tuesday's county council the fox bounty was raised to $7 from $5 — the highest fox bounty in southern Ontario.

Reeve J. Robertson of Nassagaweya explained that the increase was an attempt to fight rabies by cutting down the fox population. "The veterinarians feel that foxes are the main carriers of rabies," said the reeve.

Chief opponent of the increase was Ensigning Reeve G. Leslie, who felt that foxes would be brought into Halton for the bounty, regardless of where they were shot.

In answer to a query, Assistant Clerk J. Andrews told Council Wentworth County pays a $4 bounty, but Wellington and Peel pay none. Reeve G. Leslie felt the increased bounty would give incentive to go out and hunt foxes. He felt even if they are shot out of the County then brought in, it didn't matter since foxes are known to cover up to 30 miles in a night.

Deputy Reeve W. Hunter of Georgetown stated that the proposed Rabies isolation centre would cost a lot of money if by cutting down on foxes the incidence of rabies was reduced, a lot of money would be saved.

FARM NEWS

Rose Chaffer Bothers Other Vegetation Too

The rose chaffer is abundant and troublesome in localities where the soil is sandy. Areas near Burlington, Bronte and Oakville are often affected.

The beetles are about 1 1/2 inches long, tan coloured and have long spiny red legs. They appear in early June about the time when peonies are in bloom, and feed on the foliage of roses, reducing the leaves to mere skeletons.

Unfortunately these pests do not confine their feeding to roses but may be found on raspberries, strawberries, peonies, and many other garden plants.

To obtain effective control it is usually necessary to treat all plants in a wide area as the beetles fly readily and will move from one plant to another very quickly.

DIT dust or spray is the best of the readily available materials. Use one of the following when the beetles appear:

- 50 per cent wettable powder 3 tablespoons/gallon;
- 25 per cent DIT emulsion, 3 teaspoons/gallon;
- 5 per cent DIT dust.

Do not apply the above to edible parts of plants within 4 weeks of harvesting.

Home garden mixtures, especially if they contain methoxychlor and malathion, are effective and are less hazardous on fruit and vegetables. They may be applied closer to harvest. Follow the directions given on the container label!

SIXTEENTH IN A SERIES Letters From a "Trouble Spot"

Letters from a Georgetown soldier in Viet Nam

When he received a posting to the Far East, a member of the Canadian Military U.N. delegation, Albert Carter began putting his observations on paper and sending them home to LOL 245. The lodge found the accounts so absorbing that they submitted them to the Herald and part of a letter appears below as article No. Sixteen of a new series.

To the Officers and Members of Royal Oak LOL, 245:

I am in the best of health here and hope that you and all yours are in the best of health also.

On the 16th of March I went to Bangkok, the capital of Thailand (formerly Siam) for the week's holiday.

Tokyo has been called the New York of the Orient and Saigon has been called the Paris of the Orient, but Bangkok is the London of the Orient, and the Paris and Amsterdam too. The city bears a remarkable similarity to London in the hodge podge scatter of its buildings, with houses of all ages and styles jostling each other and stores, temples, government buildings, factories and cinemas with little regard to zoning or any other restrictions. On one street you can see a temple wedged in between a modern apartment block and a small machine shop, followed by a couple of old houses and a new ten storey office building under construction. On some streets the buildings will be brand new with wood and brick huts behind them, while on the next street the wood huts will be out in front with modern glass and concrete buildings in behind.

At one time the Bangkok side of the Menam River was a maze of canals. Most of these are now filled in or are in the process of being filled in by streetcars.

GLEN WILLIAMS Hamilton Bus Trip For Church Ladies

About 8:30 o'clock Monday morning last week the church ladies were on their way to Hamilton on their annual bus trip. The first stop was Westinghouse where the ladies were greeted and welcomed by a lady of the Home Economics Department whom they fondly called 'Mrs. B.' with a hot cup of good coffee which was very welcome on the cool, damp morning. They toured this plant where the appliances are made and followed each step from the piece of steel through to the finished gleaming white refrigerator or washing machine. After all enjoyed luncheon at Morgan's the afternoon was spent shopping. They came home by way of Guelph and ate supper at College View Inn, arriving back in the Glen about 8:30 p.m. after an enjoyable day.

Congratulations to Jacqueline Lucas who is now a University of Toronto graduate with her B.Sc.N.

Congratulations to Darlene Culbert who received Honours in Grade 1 Vocal Royal Conservatory of Music exam. Earlier in the spring at the Peel Music Festival she won the Bronze Medal. Joyce McLean of Norval is her teacher.

I am sure Wayne Davidson is thrilled to think he was drafted from the Ont. Mudjet 'A' champions by Chicago Black Hawks. Wayne is also a good golfer. We wish him success.

It was disappointing for the Cemetery Board after making all the preparations at the Cemetery to have such a downpour of rain just a half hour before the Remembrance Service was to begin on Sunday afternoon. However, this is the first time since this annual service began nine years ago, so we can't complain. As previously planned, in case of rain it was held in St. Alban's Church with Rev. R. J. Stubbley the minister. The two church choirs joined in leading the singing of the hymns. Mr. A. McQueen was soloist. There was an overflowing congregation for the service and Rev. R. J. Stubbley was the speaker. The service closed with benediction and singing 'God Save the Queen.'

Get well wishes are sent to Mr. F. C. Ingram who is sick in Georgetown and District Hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Vernon who have their summer home on the 10th line are on a trip to the West Coast.

DISTRICT NEWS - AT A GLANCE -

MILTON ACTON

Government approval of Canadian Westinghouses land lease agreement with the twelve mile creek authority is needed to make its radar research project on Mount Nemo a fact. It was learned at the authority's monthly meeting here last week.

ORANGEVILLE OAKVILLE

The property deal was signed last week and work was started last Monday morning on a $300,000 industrial plant to be built in Orangeville. The first new industry for this town in four years it is expected to employ a hundred men and women.

BRAMPTON

Free parking on Brampton municipal lots will come to an end July 15th when an enclosed lot with a pay station will be constructed and motor vehicles will go back into operation on the other two town lots. A contract between the town and the Chamber of Commerce has given Brampton free parking on lots since January 1961.

council members literally gasped with astonishment and admiration when they toured the huge new generating station of the Ontario Hydro Commission at Lakeview on Thursday "It's something out of this world," was the mayor's enthusiastic comment.
