SCHOOL BUS DRIVERS TAKE WORK SERIOUSLY

GARNET McDUGALL, Georgetown Transportation manager, discusses School Bus safety with Harry D. Fletcher, B.S., M.A. and Jack R. Irwin, of the Ontario Safety League. Mr. Fletcher, a specialist in motor fleet training from Pennsylvania State University, conducted a special 5-day course for School Bus Drivers including Mr. McDougall, graduated the course was endorsed by the School Bus Operators' Association of Ontario. Classroom and other facilities were donated, courtesy Scarborough Board of Education. A release from the Ontario Safety League says "There are more than 5,700 school bus routes in Ontario. Twice a day, 200 days a year, school buses carry 175,000 children to class and back. This huge operation is taken for granted by most people, but not the men who plan and operate student transportation."

"Lornes" Roots in Early Upper Canada—U.S. Rift

This is the first of a series of articles dealing with the history of the Lorne Scots. In 1800, the Peel, Dufferin and Halton militia units will be presented with their colours by a representative of Her Majesty's World Plowing Match at Major Conn Smythe's Caledon Farms.

FOREWORD

The brief history of the Lorne Scots Regiment and Regiment from which it was formed was prepared from the scanty records in the Regimental Archives, including the complete War Diaries of World War II. The information about the first Scottish dress was confirmed by Lt. Col. Alexander Noble who joined the regiment in 1891 and had a keen recollection of the earlier days of the Halton Regiment, the Lorne Rifles.

The late William Perkins Bull turned over to the Peel & Dufferin Regiment several files, including records of officers' service and nominal rolls used in the preparation of his book "From Brock to Currie". These documents filled in many gaps in the regimental history. The late Lt. Col. W. Jackson, MBE, ED, while director of war records service, supplied war service records and extracts from Part II orders of the overseas units. Col. Louis Keene, while commanding the Halton Rifles, had gathered letters and newspaper articles, pictures and extracts from earlier histories. These records filled a large scrap book and were an important source of information about the early history. It is hoped that this short history will stimulate further research.

The chairman of the Historical Committee extends his thanks to the following committee members for their assistance: Honorary Lt. Colonel John H. Barber, E.C., C.D., Lt. Col. S. R. Charters, C.D., Major B. F. Bunt, C.D., and Lt. J. W. Moore. The revision of the previous historical booklet commenced during the term in command of Lt. Col. A. Kemp, C.D., and completed under the command of Lt. Col. E. F. Conover, C.D. R. V. Conover, ORE, VD, Colonel.

The government consisted of a Lieutenant Governor, a Council, and a House of Assembly.

selected by the citizens. For administrative purposes the area was divided into districts. October, the Peel, Dufferin and Halton militia units will be presented with their colours by a representative of Her Majesty's World Plowing Match at Major Conn Smythe's Caledon Farms.

Relations between the newly formed Republic to the south of the Great Lakes and the British Government were constantly disturbed by boundary disputes. In Upper Canada settlement had been close to the four important military posts, Kingston, Niagara, Detroit and Michilimackinac. When the late three posts finally were ceded to the U.S. by the Jay Treaty of 1793, some of the population again migrated to British Territory. The aggression of the expansionists in the U.S. against the Indian tribes kept the frontier in constant turmoil and, as the small garrisons of British soldiers stationed at various small forts along the frontier were not adequate to protect the scattered settlements, the Legislative Assembly of Upper Canada in 1793 passed a militia act enrolling all able bodied men between the ages of 16 and 50 for service in the defence of the newly formed colony.

Holidays Don't Disrupt Service by Ambulancemen. Holidays have put a gaping hole in the reserve manpower of the Georgetown Volunteer Ambulance Service, but it is improbable that the situation will become serious.

Aurora Lady Dies Was Hornby Resident. Sincere sympathy is extended to the family of the late Mrs. Leanne Miller who passed away at her home in Aurora on July 23rd in her 42nd year where men are men and small children are children.

What happens when the members go on holiday is that the arrangement of the duties is taken over by the other members. The duties of the members are taken over by the other members. The duties of the members are taken over by the other members.

Marjorie Newman, ATCM, presented her students in a piano recital at Maple Ave Baptist Church recently. Sally Hunsdale sang three vocal selections accompanied by Joyce McLean and others participating included Christine McNamara, Ross Wicks, Nicks, Kate Ussie and Oker Ross. Bradford Price, Bonnie Scoble, Veronora and David Nerru, Julie Rourke, Karen and Donnie Shortall, Francisca Gwizdala, Lyn and Johnnie Hewson, Doris Page, Colleen Cummins, Gordon Macdonald, Pat and Monique, Janet and Ellen Duncan, Faye Hennessy, Hugh and Asselme, Christine, Hugh and David Brewster, Mary Harlow, Brian Wicks, Sharon Pickering, Terry Lane and Loraine Symmes.

Georgetown's entertainment picture comes to mind of him standing there with hat at a jaunty angle, webbed feet at Miller Hall in honour of Lloyd Miller who is about to leave us. The Sikes Brothers, in top form as usual, carried their folk songs. Roy "Parson" Smith presented a story in the form of a sermon or a sermon in the form of a story we're not sure which.

Autoucher Extraordinary! Gord King raised 18 dollars on a sealed paper bag, then in an imaginative mood returned the money and ate the bag's contents, a package of potato chips and a package of cherries.

Jim Murphy, Jim Murphy, Zeki McCandless, Charlie Day and Bill Harnachan all worked songs toward making the evening a big success.

The weekend was punctuated by several parties both at the Legion and in private homes, all convened for the purpose of raising money for the purchase of a new Autoucher.

The little sonnet of Lloyd's mother of North and North and Mrs. Draxill, Galloway Falls, with a fond of any kind, is eligible to be a Legion member. The neighbour is eligible to have a cold drink while he fills out an application and the smiling membership committee will look after the rest.

A very small chore for each member this week will be to check his next door neighbour on each side to see if he is eligible to be a Legion member. The neighbour is eligible to have a cold drink while he fills out an application and the smiling membership committee will look after the rest.

Slice Charge for School Gym Rental

The high school board has eased the cost of renting the school's huge auditorium. At a meeting Monday the board reviewed their rental price after a letter from the Little Theatre requested a reduction in rates so that they may take advantage of the facilities. The board required groups using it to pay a $100 meeting night.

Under the new regulation a group may now have the use of the gym for a $50 deposit and the cost of caretaking, providing they apply a month in advance and receive the board's approval. The board is primarily concerned with preserving the expensive floor surface.

NEWS FROM THE BOOK SHELF

If you like books that send cold shivers up and down your spine, Shirley Jackson's "We Have Always Lived in the Castle" is just what you are looking for. No it is not a Whodunit, far more subtle and the most shivery thing about it is that it could have happened.

Of a very different calibre is Lovat Dickson's "The House of Words". This is an autobiography not only of Lovat Dickson, but of publishing life in London. Mr. Dickson, a Canadian, went to London in 1920 hoping to invade the literary world, which he did with success and respect, becoming a director of the Macmillan Publishing Company.

It is a delightful book where one meets many old friends, written with humour by the man who defended Grey Owl's reputation when the secret came out that Greig Owl was not a full blooded Indian. What Lovat Dickson did for this fascinating lover of animals, and what Grey Owl did for Lovat Dickson's finances makes good reading for Canadians who can be proud of both of these men, one a born Canadian, the other an adopted son.

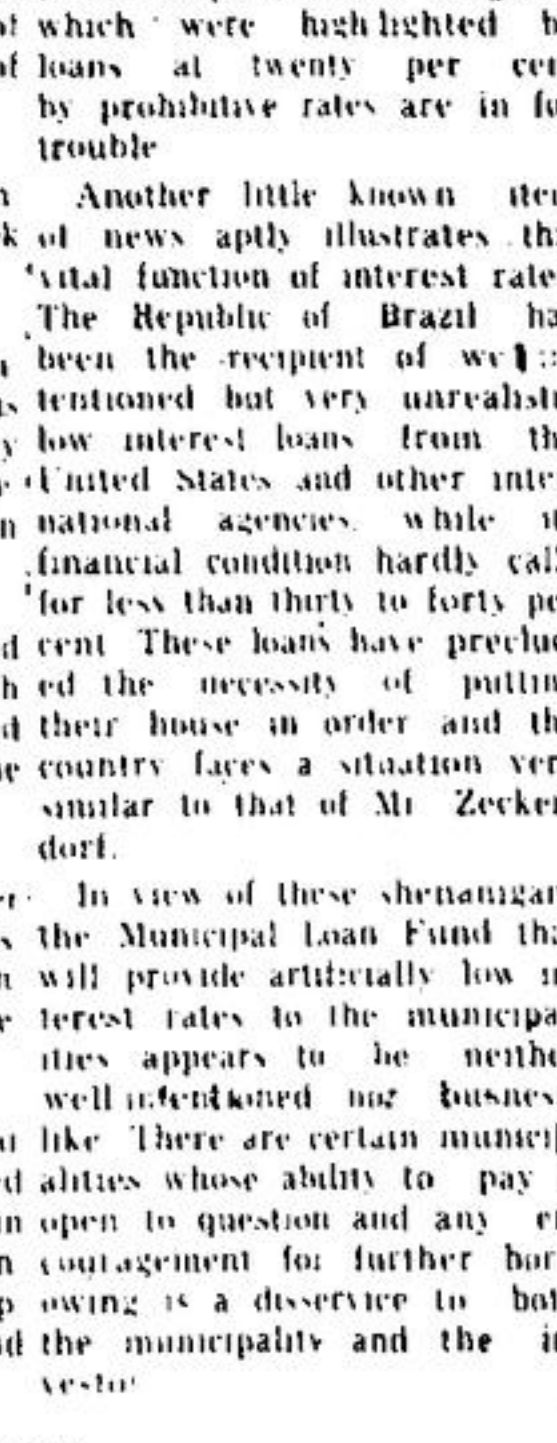

Castis Wary Eye on Municipal Loan Fund

by Henry Timmins

Recently it appears evident that there are people in high places who overlook the vital function of interest rates, with respect to both the lender and the borrower. Interest rates are the necessary incentive to provide loans and just as they are an incentive for the lender they are discouragement to the borrower. Since ability to repay is of the utmost importance in determining interest rate levels it is quite natural for the federal government to pay a differential rate than the man in the street. The hearings being conducted into the small loan business have resulted in the apparently sensational disclosure that poor risks are being "soaked", twenty or thirty per cent by the small loan companies. To those of us who think it is only the little guy who is victimized by these otherwise prohibitive rates, our attention should be drawn to the current issue of Barron's that tells of a big guy being similarly "victimized" in an article entitled "Webb & Knapp's Woes Prove the Risk of Knapgating the Future" the story unfolds of the collapse of the Zuckenroff real estate empire, recent stages of which were highlighted by loans at twenty per cent prohibitive rates are in for trouble.

FUN AND WATER SAFETY GO TOGETHER

Here is a double purpose wood to the side frame pieces summer fun project. Large fit the end framing members enough to serve as a swimming pool bottom to the lower end framing member and screwing 2x4's about a small enough to carry a small boat or trans port on your car. It could be the side framing members into the bottom of the framing members.

Next fasten the end framing members to the end framing members using 1" screws to fasten the bottom to the lower end framing member and screwing 2x4's about a small enough to carry a small boat or trans port on your car. It could be the side framing members into the bottom of the framing members.

Start by cutting the plywood stiffener in after notching as shown on the cutting diagram. The two side pieces are 2" x 2" framing. You have cut them to size with good wood preservative, then fully apply the 2" x 2" framing glue and screw on the top of the frame with their perimeter, as carefully round all corners and fasten the plywood edge. It is a good idea to cover the framing with glue the out with elastic a shoe if that head galvanized impregnated canvas then with two coats of paint. Finally, next fasten these pieces to serve eyes into the framing and screwing through the plywood.

BRING A MEMBER. A very small chore for each member this week will be to check his next door neighbour on each side to see if he is eligible to be a Legion member. The neighbour is eligible to have a cold drink while he fills out an application and the smiling membership committee will look after the rest.
