CN Stockpile Mountain A Mile North of Town

The biggest year for construction on a Canadian National's Toronto Terminal Project is in full swing.

John I. Cann, project director, said top priority has been given to the controlling of dust a problem encountered by the recent heat wave. Best ways to resolve this difficulty was a covering of gravel which was being shipped to the project at the rate of 150 freight cars a day — two may mean one ton.

One operation just north of the Georgetown yard will activate a section of the Northern line. A spur line has been laid into a field bordering the 9th line of Esplanade and trucks are right now hauling gravel from the Denome farm there, creating a mountainous stockpile by the new track.

Amount of Gravel Fantastic

The tonnage of gravel required for the project has been fantastic. Since the access line is the highest standard of railway line located over an area with rivers, streams and valleys, it has been necessary to provide for deeper cuts and higher fills to keep the gradient to a minimum since trains can't run up hills like automobiles.

Mr. Cann pointed out that subterranean water courses, at first believed the CN engineers, but subsequently they were able to link the problem through a setup of artificial drains.

One of the biggest headaches was the horrendous bog near the 3rd line of Esplanade that held up track laying on the Georgetown Milton double track line.

Lorne Scots Enjoy 'Record Year'

The Lorne Scots chalked up a record at summer camp this year by having the largest turnout of any militia unit in the Central Command (Ontario) and ending July 27, featured the presentation of the forthcoming units 'Presentation of Colors' and were handled by the Royal Canadian Mounted Police. The Peel, Dufferin and Halton counties regiment with an opportunity to train in battalion formation spread as they are throughout a large area summer camp provides one of the few opportunities for concentrated training. Moreover, it enables the unit to coordinate with the other 13 formations making up 17 Militia Group which is commanded by Brampton's Vol 5 R. Charters. A.D. himself a former Lorne Scot CO.

The first three days of Camp Niagara were preoccupied with ceremonial drill supervised by RSM Ken Murray of Acton and Major J. G. Miller of Brampton.

Battle Exercises

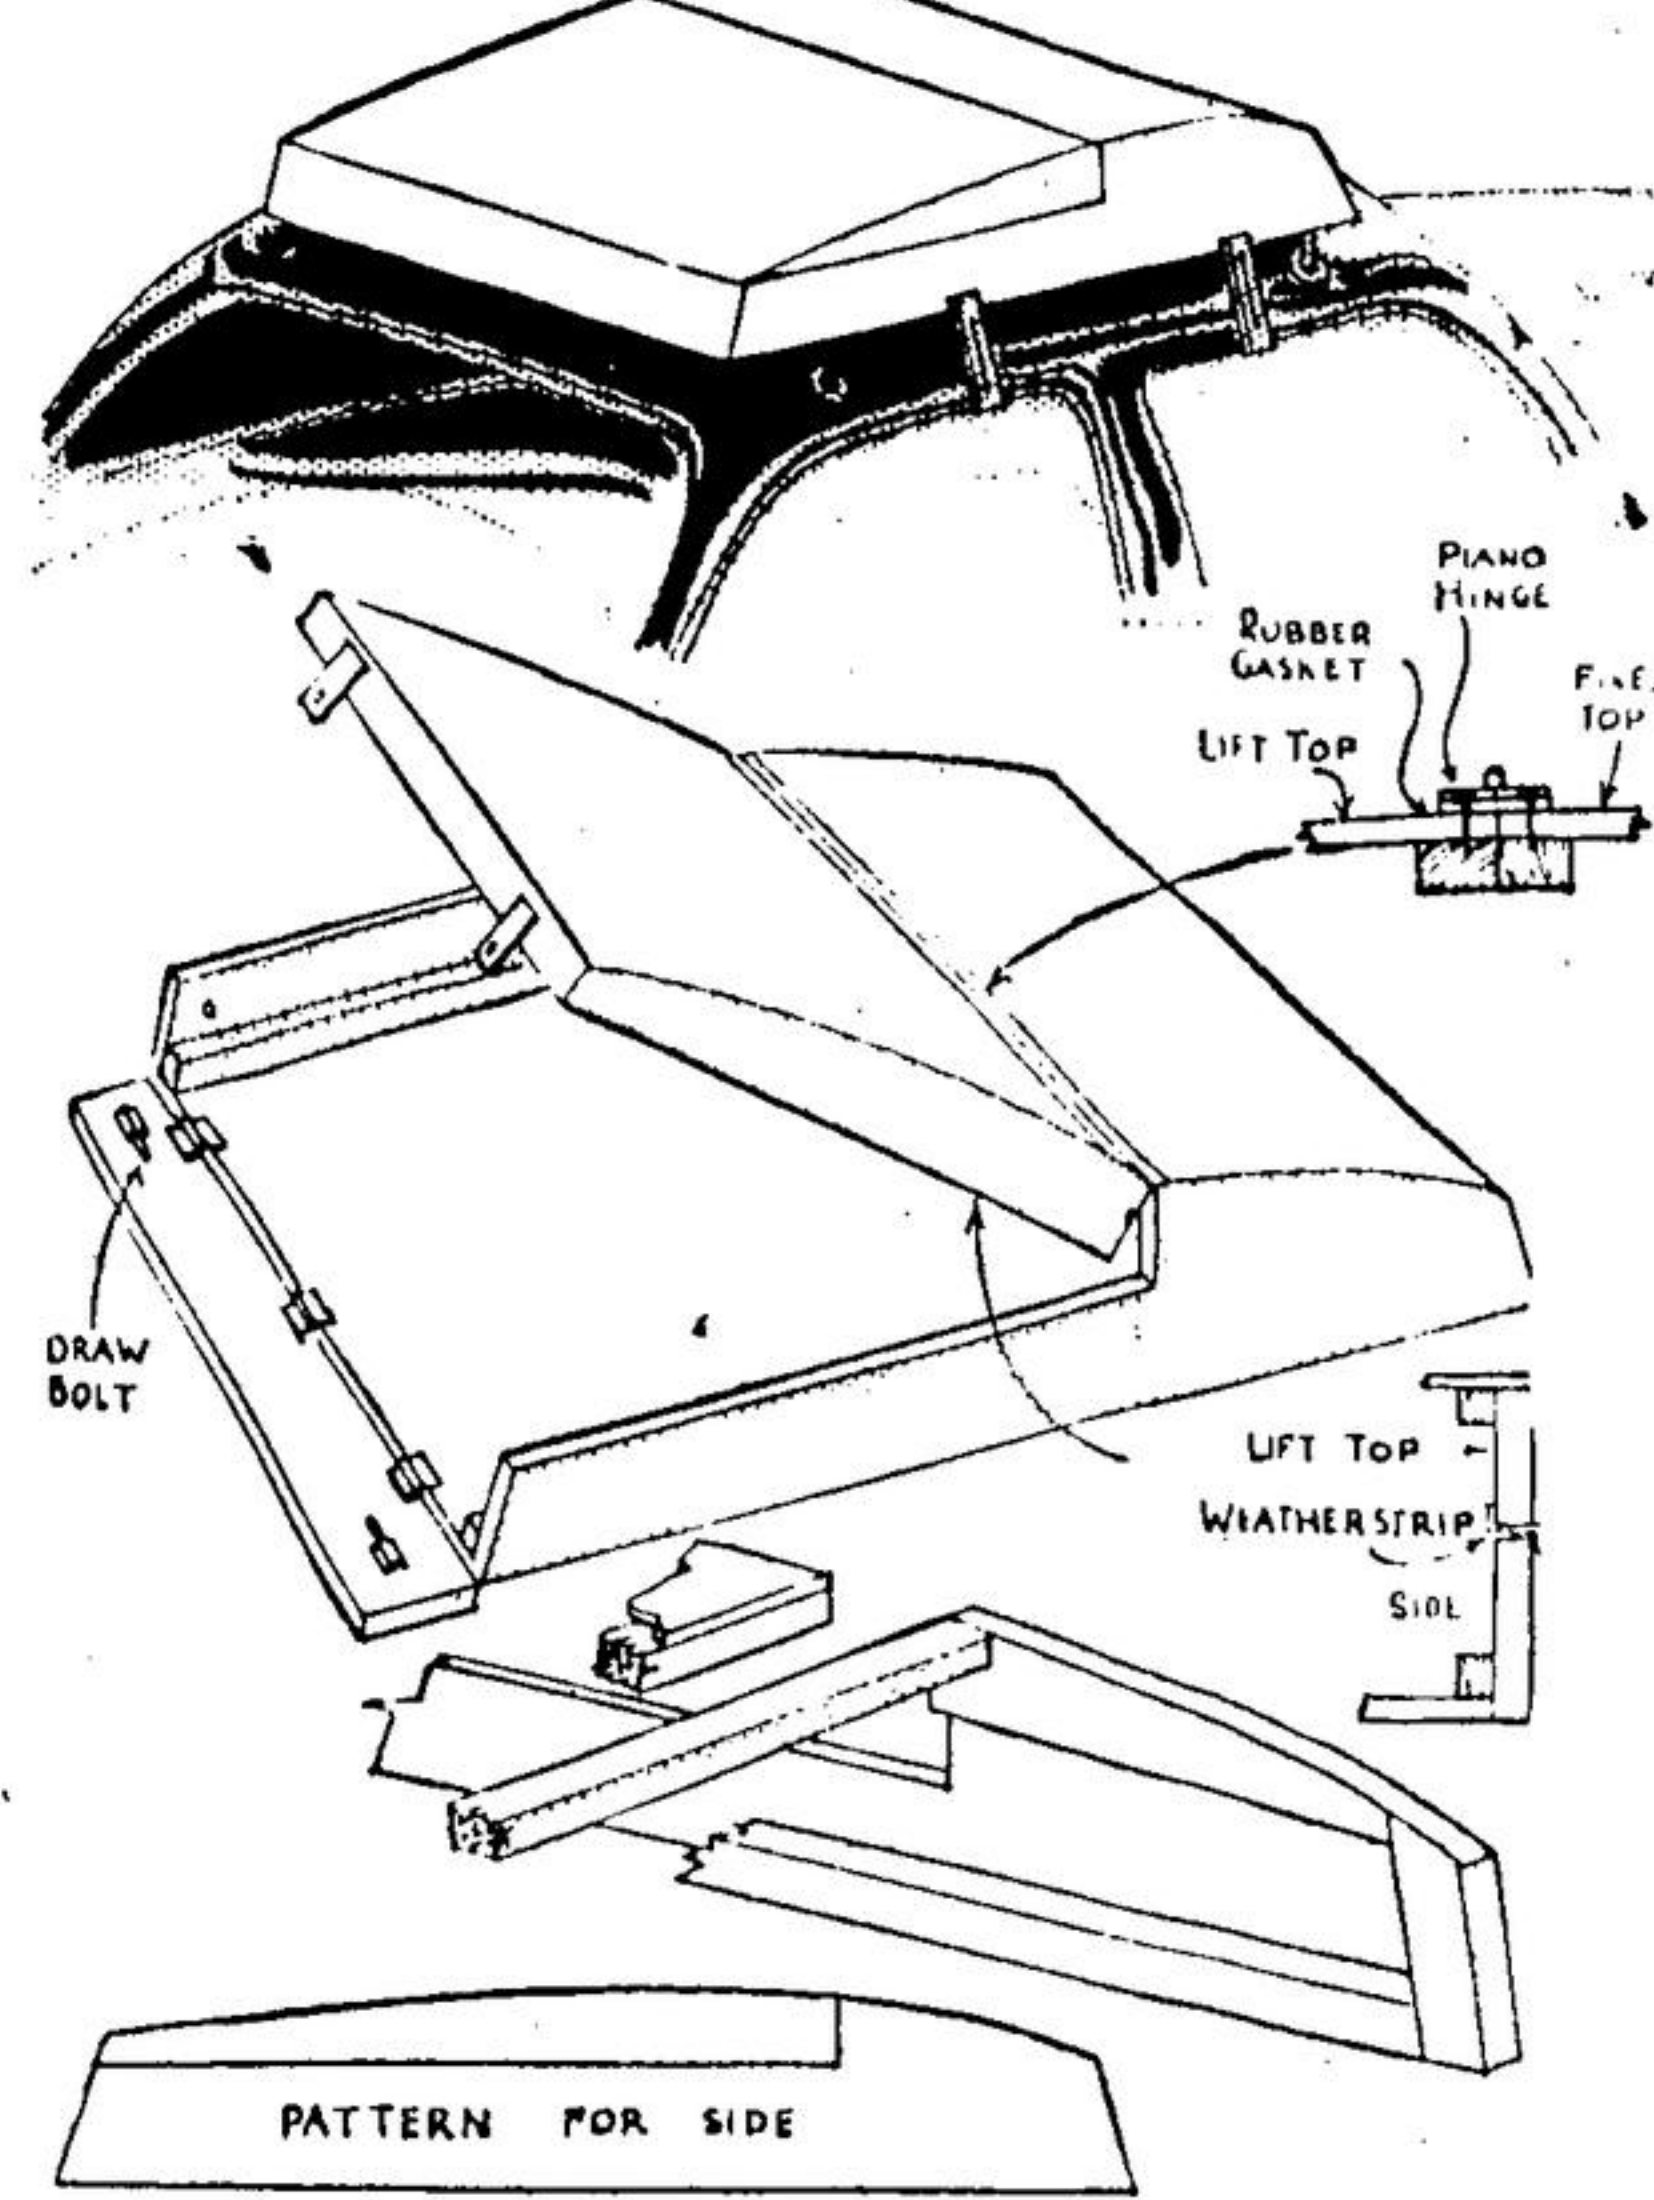

Battalion exercises on Thursday were commanded by Col. E. F. Conover CD Brampton and Major R. G. Hardey CD of Islington. This was a "combined manoeuvre" involving all units at camp who were exercised by Col. Conover. The exercise involved an advance to contact the "enemy" and an attack supported by artillery fire medium machine guns and mortar. To further simulate war-time conditions, the Royal Canadian Army Medical Corps (Brampton) and Dr. Alan Moore set up realistic casualties with first aid stations. Halton Medical Officer Urges Typhoid Vaccine

Despite the fact that typhoid is a rare disease in this area, Dr. Archie Bull, medical officer of health for Halton, urged that all military personnel who are likely to be transferred to other parts of the world, or local residents are likely to have received the shot.

The immunization program for typhoid usually requires three doses with two vaccines generally in use. The first is a live vaccine and the second is a killed vaccine. The third is a live vaccine and the second is a killed vaccine. The third is a live vaccine and the second is a killed vaccine.
