SUGAR and SPICE

By Bill Smiley

If you hear any talk about a baboon's hot and next day, I've been trying to convince the old grocery-chute, through tom She's off millionaire boat...

As our most recent carload of old-friend visitors fades in to the exhaust fumes, and I try doing this for two months wave a shaky farewell...

As for marriage, you can take it, too. Lengthy holidays put more strain on a solid marriage than drink, gambling or other women I won't go in to details...

Lengthy summer holidays and I say it with deliberation are a menace to health, wealth, morale and marriage.

My wife is in even worse condition. When holidays began, she was pale and perky. Today she is brown on the outside, but a whimpering shadow within.

And there was the time that with one, her head of hair was water. It was the morning after the cartoon contest...

Canada Wrestles With Deficits

By Henry Timmins

The financial writers in the United States took a look across the border and didn't particularly like what they saw. In other days they would have been probably transfixed with horror but apparently they have been conditioned by their own deteriorating situation...

The weekly "Financial World" offers some interesting comparisons between the trouble in the United States and the trouble in Canada...

In Canada, our export import deficit and carrying a similar situation is adverse and has brought been compensated for by the flow of funds into the country...

At a reception in the city, the bride's maid of honor, Miss Mary Jane, sang "The Lord's Prayer" and the groom's uncle, Mr. John, gave the bride away...

It seems that when you're working, you can't spend money. When you're not, you can. Most people save up for their holidays and blow the lot on a glorious two weeks doing something, or staying somewhere, or visiting old friends...

The Lions Den

BY SAM MELTZER

Membership in a Service Club is all very well for the good for our club business, drawing as we do upon a cross-section of the community for our membership...

We have a "balanced" brain of big business. A sound case for a membership drive, you might say, especially when the writ is in charge of the club's publicity...

But do you know what makes a man a Lion? To dispense of goodwill and fellowship, is part of the truth. Something is begun when you join a club. You get an absorbing job...

This may sound dramatic but it does not exaggerate. If only I had space to tell you what people I know 'got' out of being a member of a service club. It's a mass exercise of getting out—that which you put in.

The Lion himself has the answer. He sees it reflected in the people around him—and in a moment of truth, understands it all.

As of June 30, 1963, Lions International had 883,945 members in 17,380 clubs in 122 centres and geographical areas throughout the world.

We draw from every walk of Canadian life in our local club—and of course it is essential for us to do so in order to continue our operation.

I will not close without some kind of vignette—and this week it's the story of the two shoe salesmen who arrived in a primitive country at the same time.

One wired the home and returned. The other, wired Nobody here. The other, wired Nobody here. The other, wired Nobody here.
