

CONTRIBUTION OF WAR DEAD RECALLED

Over 300 Marchers in Remembrance Parade

That remembrance is every-Branch by Dave Bowman one's affair was amply portrayed. There could have been no more fitting time for such a presentation as Mrs. Grieve was for so many years the driving force behind the Georgetown Poppy Campaign. The painting will certainly hold an honoured place in Branch 120. For the marching feet of 7- to 70-year olds as over 300 persons participated in the annual ceremony to honour those who died in the service of their country.

The two-minute bowing of the head on November 11th was the culmination of an observance which began in Georgetown at 7 p.m. Friday with the Remembrance Banquet at the Legion Hall.

An excellent meal was followed with addresses by Rev. K. C. Johnston and Mayor Ern Hyde. Both gentlemen, with powerful, yet light-hearted words, helped dispel the occasional tear for a loved one and make remembrance a fun yet easy thing.

"Poppy Lady" Oil Painting Gift to Canadian Legion

Last Friday night Branch 120 of the Canadian Legion held their annual Remembrance Dinner. An almost capacity house attended.

The dinner was catered to by the Hebekahs and was a bonny feast with turkey with all the trimmings. The toast began with the "Queen" and Rev. Kelvin Johnston led in Grace. The head table included president and Mrs. Dave Bowman, chairman Mr. and Mrs. Les Clark, past president Dave and Mrs. Capperault, Rev. and Mrs. Kelvin Johnston, Mayor and Mrs. Ern Hyde, Mr. and Mrs. George Kerr M.P., Dr. Harry Hurley and Mrs. Harley Halton M.D. sent word that they were unable to attend, due to pressure of business on Parliament Hill.

David Bowman presented Bob Muir with his 25-year pin. Jas. Murphy proposed the toast to "Our Fallen Comrades" and The Canadian Legion was proposed by Mayor Ern Hyde and responded to by Dave Capperault.

Rev. Kelvin Johnston was the guest speaker and he gave an amusing and interesting address, conveying a message that should long be kept in mind by veterans.

The president then thanked the ladies for the dinner and presented a number of ladies with bouquets, including Mrs. Dorothy Stone, Mrs. Robert Muir and Mrs. Johnston.

Mr. Bowman then said he had a surprise for the ladies and called a number of people to the platform. The event was the presentation of a beautiful painting of Mrs. Blanche Grieve done in oils by that noted local artist, Mrs. Dorothy Stone, and presented to the Branch Mrs. J. Martin and Alva Grieve, her two children presented the painting. Lt. Col. Gordon Brown, paid a moving tribute to Mrs. Grieve's memory and her record of service to veterans in general and the Legion in particular.

The portrait of a young girl, a background of poppies was particularly applicable to the memory of Mrs. Grieve, whose long service with the Poppy Land made her name synonymous with the emblem of sacrifice. The blood red poppy of Flanders. Mr. Bowman thanked Mrs. Stone for her wonderful painting and assured her that the picture would hang with honour in the Legion Hall.

The evening concluded with a dance to Ralph Ussel and his Manhattan.

POPPIES WERE ON SALE from members of the Royal Canadian Legion Branch 120, and Ladies Auxiliary on street corners and at the door Saturday. Above, Candy and Kay Moran purchased two of the blood red emblems from Branch 120 member Joe Martin.

ARMISTICE DAY SERVICE was held Sunday at Remembrance Park. Above, Mayor Ern Hyde lays the memorial wreath for the Town at the base of the cenotaph.
