O I love the sea at the break

And the seagulls call to their

And I sing for joy as I mend

While my eyes keep watch o'er

Then, I dread the sea when

And their shadows fall on

Which omens a stormy night

When I watch from the beach

Lifts the waves with an angry

Then dashes them inward with

To break on the rocky shore.

When the waves ride high and the winds shiffek loud

And the storm in its fury-is!
